NOTED INDIAN SQUAW IS DEAD

Daughter of Chief of Coquille Tribe Passes Away—Over 100 Years Old.

Hessna, meaning "Medicine Woman" better known as "Indian Mary" died near Randolph, Tuesday, age unknown, but believed to be considerably over 100 years. She was the daughter of Chief John of the Coquille tribe of Indians, known as "Na-Su-Mah", who owned all of the main side of the river to Randolph, and Hilda Wom, "short woman" who inherited the east side of the river from her father.

When a young woman, her father Chief John, led a band of his braves against the white men at the ferry which was, at that time, located where the Hotel Gullier now stands.

According to tradition, where the business portion of Bandon now stands, was at one time an Indian burying ground and on several occasions bones have been unearthed that speak vividly of the forgotten past.

Indian Mary also remembered when a young girl of accompanying her father, on horseback, to Gold Beach and rescuing two Spanish girls who had been captured by the Indians of that section.

In 1905, when money was being raised for the erection of a bronze statue of Sacajawea to be unveiled at the Lewis and Clark Exposition, the Coquille Study Club gave an entertainment, in which Indian Mary clad in a deer-skin dress and bedecked with beads, danced the Sacajawea dance.—Bandon Recorder.

Ladies' Picnic—Mrs. W. F. Miller is entertaining a number of friends today with an outing up Coos River in the launch Beaver.

Wire Trouble.—The high wind put the Western Union Telegraph wires out of commission this afternoon and as a result The Times received only a part of its Associated Press report in time for today's paper.

Hold Picnic.—The Ladies' Aid Society of the Marshfield Methodist church will hold a picnic tomorrow at Allegany, leaving on the Allee H at 8 a. m. sharp. All members and friends are cordially invited. Bring a basket lunch.

Tug of War.—Frank Hague, chairman of the committee on sports at the coming Fourth of July celebration sent letters out today to the foreman of every logging camp inviting them to pick their best men for participation in the tug of war for the Coos County championship and a purse of $50.

Change in Time.—The Drain-Allegany Stage line announces a change of time in their schedule commencing today. The time of leaving Marshfield is now 5:30 instead of 6:30, it being made one hour earlier to insure catching the 3 o'clock train at Drain.

Strawberries Scarce.—Strawberries are going to be scarce this season according to John Peart, the strawberry king of the Coquille who has twelve acres of the luscious fruit. He made a small shipment to the Bazaar yesterday and stated that the crop was very light and he did not expect to have much more than enough to supply his local market and that very few would be shipped.

Luscious Berries.—There are times when it pays to be an editor and one of these times was yesterday when the editor was remembered with some large delicious strawberries sent to him by D. D. Brainard of Haynes Inlet from his fine strawberry patch. What with bouquets of roses and plenty of strawberries life is becoming a banquet of fruits and flowers for the editor man. I guess that is considerable fine job, eh?

Telephone Fight.—Ed. Richmond of Ed's Billiard hall, got into an altercation with a telephone operator last evening and used profanity in a manner considered insulting by the young lady. She turned him over to general Manager Langley, and after a brief colloquy on the wire Mr. Richmond announced his intention of coming up and cleaning out the telephone office. He appeared promptly and after a brief but heated discussion there was a fist fight in which the telephone manager is reported to be victor. No arrests have been made.

FIRE IN NORTH BEND. A blaze was discovered this afternoon in the mill of the North Bend Lumber Company at North Bend, but was extinguished before damage to any extent occurred. Workmen in the North Bend iron works, which is nearby, discovered the flames, and turned in an alarm. A wind was blowing at the time, and had the flames made any headway it is not unlikely that the damage would have been much greater.

Personal Notes

JUST A WORD PERSONAL.

Dan E. Maloney, who for the past three years has acted in the capacity of assistant editor of The Times, left this morning on a brief but well-earned vacation of a few weeks which he will spend at the old home back in Iowa. I say a well-earned vacation because in addition to his duties as news and telegraph editor, Dan has also officiated as reporter, assistant proof reader, manager of circulation, mail clerk, news boy, collector and special city council reporter. I am certain the readers of The Times will be willing that he should have a brief period of rest and recreation and will be indulgent if there is a little less news in their paper for a few weeks. Altho I think it is Elbert Hubbard who says that the only time a man should take a vacation is just to let the boss know that the establishment can get along without him. For that reason I want all the readers to help out a little bit while Dan is away just to show him that the paper goes right ahead even while he is lolling about the clover fields of the Hawkeye state. If you know any news, or any items that will be of interest telephone 133, bring them to the office or drop them in the mail with your name attached. Do not let any false modesty prevent you from giving personal items about yourself, or your family or friends visiting you. That's what makes your paper interesting for it is still your paper as I am only a trustee.

While The Times has not attained all the high ideals it has set for itself it has honestly striven to achieve them and I believe has been a better newspaper for the effort. It has never abandoned any of its ideals and if at times the way has been hard and the light dim, ever through the darkness of doubt has gleamed the rays from the star of hope of their final attainment. I have never wavered in my belief that success is the handmaiden of sincerity, honest endeavor and persistence.

And now that every reader is commissioned as extra reporter and special contributor I hope The Times columns will so bristle with brightness and team with news that Dan, while he will be missed, will be puzzled at the progress of the paper when a man of so many and multifarious duties is absent.

F. MEYERS of Oakland, California, arrived last night for a visit to E. W. Kardell and family. Mr. Meyers has not been in Marshfield for seventeen years, and was surprised at the great change that has occurred in that time. He was a passenger to Coquille this morning where he will visit old friends and acquaintances.

WATERFRONT NOTES.

The steamer Redondo sailing from San Francisco Sunday afternoon is expected to arrive here late this afternoon. She was to have arrived here this morning, but the heavy winds of yesterday retarded the progress of the steamer to some extent.

The Nann Smith sailed from San Francisco Sunday morning, and is expected to arrive in Coos Bay some time today.
