BENNETT DEFENDS COKE.
Discusses Recall in an Interview in Portland Oregonian.
An earnest defense of the record and the judicial reputation of Judge Coke, of Marshfield, against whom a recall petition is being circulated, is made by J. W. Bennett, an attorney of Coos Bay, who is visiting in Portland and who is acquainted in Roseburg and other portions of the Second District, says The Oregonian.
"Judge Coke stands very high in the esteem of the people of Coos and Curry counties," he said, "as well as with the members of the legal profession where he is located. His decisions throughout the entire district are appreciated for their fairness, as well as from a judicial standpoint. "The judge is careful and conscientious, and it is wrong to say that there is any feeling against him in any part of the district, except that possibly in the recent trial of Roy McClellan, for murder, at Roseburg, where the jury brought in a verdict of acquittal. Some feeling may have been engendered by those who are not in sympathy with the defendant and also by reason of Judge Coke having imposed some heavy fees in cases where parties had pleaded guilty for violating the laws prohibiting the sale of liquor in that locality."
Mr. Bennett also said that neither Judge Coke nor his friends objected to the recall being invoked, but in view of the notoriety which has been given the matter they would insist upon its provisions being carried out. The alleged grounds in the petition for invoking the recall are the instructions which Judge Coke gave to the jury at the trial of Roy McClellan.

"These instructions," said Mr. Bennett, "were carefully prepared by Judge Coke, in accordance with the decisions of the Supreme Court of this state, and if they had not been given and the defendant had been found guilty, the decision would have been reversed and the county put to the expense of another trial.
"The instructions were taken by the stenographer and can be obtained in black and white, and are entirely impartial and strictly in accordance with law, at least this is the opinion of a great many attorneys who know of them and are entirely uninterested in the proceeding.
"In the trial of Roy McClellan's case Judge Coke was sent for on account of his having no interest and being virtually unacquainted with any of the parties to the homicide, and it is unfortunate that the recall can be invoked in a matter of this kind at the instigation of those who feel personally wounded by reason of being fined for confessed violation of the liquor law. However, in view of the notoriety which has been given the matter, Judge Coke and his friends will be only too glad that the matter go before the people, and it is hardly fair to commence a contention of this character by stating that there is any sentiment against him at his home in Marshfield by reason of any decision or otherwise, as this is not the case. His decisions are recognized there as the result of a careful examination of the law, the testimony of the witnesses and the argument of counsel."
