

SEES SISTER IN PICTURE PLAY

Unusual Experience of Marshfield Man at Moving Picture Show.

How would you feel to walk into a moving picture show and see your sister or brother or other relative walk out on the screen as natural as life? The sensation would be a little unusual the first time, doubtless.

Yet that was the experience of C. S. Dodge recently, but happens so frequently now that it has lost its newness and strangeness. Mr. Dodge's sister, Anna Dodge, is an actress and with her husband, Geo. F. Hernandez, is a member of the Selig Polyscope Co. Recently he walked into a local play house and in a few moments saw his sister and her husband walk onto the screen as silent actors in the play. He recognized them immediately and said it seemed like a visit from home.

His sister and her husband have been on the stage for a number of years, being for seven years members of the Wm. Elfeff Company that toured the Pacific coast and played in Honolulu. He had not heard of their change to the moving picture drama and the surprise was complete.

Since then he has seen them in a number of the moving picture plays and has come to look for them with a feeling of deeper personal interest in the play.

RECENT RAINS EXTINGUISH

Late Downpourings Aid in Eliminating Possible Fires.

PORTLAND, Ore., July 14.—reports received at the offices of the Forest Service, State Forester and Oregon Forest Fire Association covering all parts of the state, show that the recent rains have not only extinguished forest fires which have been burning, but have materially lessened the chances of other fires starting for the next few days. While no serious fires have occurred this season the June dry spell resulted in a number of fires becoming started in slashings, fern patches and old burns which were difficult to completely extinguish and were being watched to prevent their spreading. The recent rains have made it possible to take no further account of these fires.

The Western Union wires went out of commission again today with the result that The Times Associated Press report has been largely curtailed. This is two days this week the wire has been out of commission.

WOULD OUST FOOD EXPERT

Personal Committee Recommends Dr. Wiley's Immediate Resignation.

(By Associated Press to Coos Bay Times.)

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 13.—Dr. Harvey Wiley, pure food expert and chief of the Bureau of Chemistry in the Department of Agriculture, has been condemned by the Committee on Personnel of the Department of Agriculture with a recommendation to President Taft that he "be permitted to resign." It was charged by the committee that Wiley permitted an arrangement be made with Dr. H. H. Rusby, a recognized pharmacologist of the Columbia University, New York, for a compensation in excess that was allowed by the Law Committee, and also recommended the dismissal of Rusby.

Attorney General Wickersham, in an opinion on the case submitted to the President a recommended approval of the committee's action. Taft would not intimate what action he will take. He has forwarded all the papers to Wiley and will await word from the doctor. The President, it is said, will grant hearing to all involved.

Wiley Makes a Statement.

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 13. — "I would not advise any one to wait around my office to see me put out there is no one telling how long it will be," said Wiley today when asked for a statement. Wiley appeared to treat the matter somewhat lightly. He said he would make a statement to the President and that his side of case must come from the President.

WHY THE WIND BLOWS.

The Basic Principle, the Tendency of Hot Airs to Rise.

The wind, like other things of everyday life, rarely invites notice unless it is unusually "high," and rarely do we hear the questions, "Why does the wind blow?" "Why doesn't the wind blow?"

What is this wind that rushes "out of the nowhere into the here?" Why should it blow at all, or why sometimes so gently and at other times with the resistless force of the hurricane?

The wind could have no power, it could not even exist, if the air had no weight, this weight having been shown to be about thirty-one grains for each hundred cubic inches of air. When air is put in motion the effect is like that obtained by throwing a ball against an object. The harder you throw the ball the harder it will strike, and the greater the number of balls thrown at one time the greater will be the force of the blow. When the wind is blowing it strikes what it blows against, and the harder it blows (that is, the greater the speed of the air) the harder it will strike against the resisting object.

What causes the wind to blow or why the air should be in motion is not easy to explain. Simply stated, it is caused by the tendency of hot air to rise and thus to form a partial vacuum into which the cooler surrounding air rushes, in much the same way as water will rush downward to seek its level. If the earth were smooth, if it did not rotate and if there were no sun the air would be motionless. When the sun shines on a wide space of the earth the air of that region becomes heated, this great volume of warm air rises and the cooler, heavier surrounding air flows in to take its place. As the earth rotates there tends to be formed a ring of heated and rising air with currents flowing at the bottom and at both sides. This is the condition that prevails near the equator and causes the trade winds that blow so steadily. The rotation of the earth causes the wind south of the equator to flow toward the northwest and that north of this line to flow toward the southwest.—St. Nicholas.

THE CLOWN'S FACE.

Pathetic Incident From Which the Use of Black Lines Sprang.

"Every once in awhile," says a prominent comedian, "I am asked by some newspaper or magazine to tell of the actual feelings of a man who is called on to appear before the public as a continuous funmaker. Usually I reply by calling attention to the fact that one of the greatest tragedies of the theater is connected with the clown."

"In the time of Louis XIV, there was a famous clown known as 'Fat William' (Gros Guillaume), who held his audiences in the Rue Favari by his wonderful eccentricities of gesture, voice and mimicry. One night, so the legend runs, his wife was dying, and he was still obliged to go on and entertain the clanking, clashing, ribald Parisian mob that stood in the pit. It was in the days before there were seats in the orchestra.

"Like all imitators of the Italian 'commedia,' his face was whitened with flour. Under the burden of his great domestic sorrow he was stupid and slow in his performance, and in order to stir him up his companion on the stage hit him with a resounding whack with a heavy cane. The combination of his sentimental troubles and the physical pain caused Gros Guillaume to weep. As the tears streamed down over his whitened face the aspect was so comical that the audience cheered and laughed itself into hysterics. And ever since then every clown has black lines on his whitened face.

"Many are the black lines on the face of the actor that the audience knows not of."—Chicago Tribune.

Dickens as a Reporter.

Dickens once described the conditions under which he pursued the calling of a reporter—conditions, he said, of which his successors could have no adequate idea. On one occasion he transcribed his shorthand notes of important election speeches, he said, on the palm of his hand, by the light of a dark lantern, in a postchaise and four galloping through a wild country at the dead of night at the then surprising rate of fifteen miles an hour. He once, in the castle yard at Exeter, took an election speech of Lord Russell in the midst of a lively fight.—Westminster Gazette.

Pure Reading Matter.

"One of the funniest requests I ever got," the advertising manager told us, "was from a local dry goods merchant. He said, 'I want this advertisement put in a part of the paper where women will be sure to read it.'"

"Great Scott, man!" I said. "Don't you know that when we have some pure reading matter that we want women to be sure to see we put it next to a dry goods advertisement?" —Cleveland Plain Dealer.
