June 13.—Finance committee reports without recommendation.

June 14.—Senate debate begins.

June 26.—Senate defeats Root paper amendment to bill.

June 22.—Senate votes on bill.

(By Associated Press to Coos Bay Times.)

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 22.—The Canadian reciprocity bill passed the Senate without amendment today by a vote of 53 to 27, all amendments having been previously defeated. It becomes a law on receiving the President's signature, the senate measure being the same bill that passed the House.

The passage of the bill by the Senate in precisely the form it emerged from the House brought to an end President Taft's long fight for the measure. During the debate which led up to today's final action, party lines were swept away and a vigorous fight was waged to saddle the measure with riders that friends of the measure claim, had they been adopted, would have meant defeat of the whole proposition. The bill is the first of the measures to be disposed of under the voting agreement which also provides dates for votes on wool tariff revision, free list, New Mexico and Arizona statehood and congressional reapportionment bills. Following the passage of the bill by the Senate and its immediate signature by Vice President Sherman, the measure will be "messenger" back to the House which originated it, engrossed on parchment, signed by Speaker Clark and then signed by President Taft. Officially and theoretically the engrossment must be done while the House is in session, but it is already on parchment.

The House having adjourned, the bill goes to President Taft on Wednesday.

A WEEK END QUESTION

D ID YOU make anyone happier in the week just gone by? That is a good question to ask yourself this Saturday evening, and every Saturday evening. It may stimulate you to larger kindness and greater helpfulness, and that after all is the finest that man or woman can do.

This life of ours with its fight for existence, for higher place, for more wealth, gets to be so much of selfish scramble for most of us that we forget the other man. The kind word, the helpful deed, the cheering smile, are too often left undone, unspoken, and unsmiled. Yet they are the things that are best in life—vastly better than riches or real estate, both for the receiver and the giver. There is no joy that a man can know that is greater than the joy that comes with having given joy to another.

It is an interesting fact that men who have devoted their whole lives to selfish pursuits invariably seek a way to do something for others when they come near to the end of their days. Piling up wealth, gratifying their own desires, do not look so important to them then; distributing their wealth philanthropically, adding to the happiness of others begins to be more important. There is something deeper and bigger behind the amazing philanthropy of the Rockefellers and Carnegies of these days than most men realize or understand. Those men know, beyond any doubt, the true value of life. They know, as it says in the book of Proverbs, "There is that maketh himself rich, yet hath nothing; there is that maketh himself poor, yet hath a great riches."

When Robert Louis Stevenson wrote to a friend just a few days before his long expected death, he made his request as to any monument that might be put over his grave to the word "Reguleum," he asked that this be added:

"You, pass this grave, put aside hatred; love kindness; be all services remembered in your heart and all offenses pardoned; and as you go down again among the living, let this be your question: Can I make someone happier this day before I lie down to sleep? Thus the dead man speaks to you from the dust; you will hear no more from him."

Robert Louis Stevenson said, he wanted that above his resting place so that he might be of some use for the world after he had gone. Out of all the rich wisdom of his experience that was the best thought he could leave with living men. "Make someone happier each day."

If this week has gone by without some real kindness done, some real helpfulness given, let it be the last to go by that way. A week without something of that sort in it is worse than lost.

BLOODY DEEDS OF CRAZY NEGRO

Driven Insane With Whiskey He Kills Three Other Negroes.

(By Associated Press to Coos Bay Times.)

La GRANDE, Ga., July 22.—It is believed that while temporarily insane Charles Reese, a negro, ran amuck here early today killing three other negroes, and wounding a fourth and then blinding a white farmer with a load of shot. He then committed suicide. It is believed whiskey drove the negro insane. He came to La Grande last night to see his wife from whom he was separated. Her body was found today at a road side. Other victims were, Jess Bray, from whom Ross borrowed the gun and Hall Smith, both negroes. A sister of Smith was shot in the face and will probably lose her eyesight. Reese's body was found today in a swamp.

LA FOLLETTE IN A PASSION

Wisconsin Senator Assails the Press and President Taft.

(By Associated Press to Coos Bay Times.)

WASHINGTON, July 22.—Assailing the press of the United States for its support of the Canadian reciprocity, Senator LaFollette made his closing speech against the bill in the senate yesterday. He expressed his belief that the newspapers would suffer a loss of influence for the support they have given to legislation in which he said "they have a direct money interest" he referred to the interest of newspaper owners in the matter of the pulp features or the bill.

LaFollette defended the progressive republicans from the charge that they have changed front on the tariff are now opposing partial tariff revision as embodied in the reciprocity bill. He said the progressives stood just where they did in the tariff fight of 1909 but that the reciprocity bill was not a true republican measure. "I oppose this bill because it belies its title," said LaFollette. "It is not reciprocity" La Follette declared the democratic party had violated its own principles by aligning with the republican high tariff forces. The Wisconsin senator denounced the reciprocity bill as "a confidence game" and cited what he said would result in a loss of $40,000,000 to the farmers in three states; Minnesota, North and South Dakota, from operations of the agricultural schedule of the agreement La Follette severely criticized President Taft.

Change Pursers—F. H. Barstow will take the place of Purser J. M. Switzer on Breakwater while the latter goes to the Bremerton Navy Yard in Washington to take the Examinations for wireless operator. Mrs. Barstow accompanied Mr. Barstow to Portland where she will visit for two weeks while Mr. Barstow is at sea. He expects to make two trips during Mr. Switzer's absence. An operator from the Cape Blanco Station will take Barstow's place in the wireless station here.

AMENDMENT DEFEATED.

Attempt to Incorporate Waterway Legislation in Reciprocity Bill Fails.

(By Associated Press to the Coos Bay Times.)

WASHINGTON, July 22.—Senator Townsends amendment to the reciprocity bill providing for the international improvement of the St. Lawrence river was defeated in the senate today by a large vote. Senator Stone opposed putting waterway legislation upon the Reciprocity bill. He said it should come up in congress as a separate proposition and that as such it probably will be favorably acted upon.
