LARGEST VESSEL AFLOAT

FOLLOWING are the statistics of the Olympic, the largest vessel afloat, which was built in Belfast, Ireland.

Largest plates employed in the hull are 36 feet long. Rudder operated electrically, weighs 100 tons. There are 3,600,000 rivets, weighing 1,200 tons. There is an eight-hole golf course with hazards under the life-boats. There is a tennis court and a handball court extending through two decks and 30 feet long. There are Turkish and electric baths and a salt water swimming pool of sufficient depth to permit diving. There are glass-enclosed decks, a la carte restaurant, palm garden, veranda and a maids' and valets' saloon. It has accommodation for 3,356 persons—750 in the first class, 550 in the second class, 1,200 in the third, with 63 officers and sailors, 322 engineers, firemen, oilers, trimmers and machinists and 471 in the commissary department. Length of passage was 5 days, 16 hours, 42 minutes. The coal consumption of her 159 furnaces is 800 tons a day.

CARNIVAL AT BANDON FINE

Large Attendance and Lots of Fun Mark Opening Day—Aviator Cancels.

The Bandon Business Men's Carnival, which will continue for four days, opened with a blaze of glory yesterday. With hundreds of visitors from all parts of Coos and Curry counties present and with all the people of Bandon out to extend a welcoming hand to the strangers, the opening day is declared to have been most auspicious by Marshfield people who returned from there today.

F. S. Dow, who came back last night, stated that the opening day was even more successful than the most optimistic of the promoters of the carnival had expected. "They are certainly carrying it through in fine shape," said Mr. Dow today. "Everybody is out welcoming the strangers, showing them around and seeing that they have a good time. The attendance is large and promises to be big for the next few days."

Word was received here today that the Portland aviator who was to have given daily flying machine exhibitions refused to make the attempt. He declared it was too hazardous, the wind, the ocean, the river and the timber being too many dangers to add to the multitude of hazards encountered in trying to navigate the air under the most auspicious circumstances. It was stated that he left on the Anvil for Portland. The Bandon Carnival management regret this very much but it is something they could not overcome.

Gov. West, State Superintendent Alderman and the other state officials, who have been on a hunting trip in Curry county are to be present today or tomorrow.

While many Coos Bay people are going over during the early days of the event, there promises to be a great exodus on the special excursion Sunday which will be run by the Coos Bay concert band. Besides the band going over, the Marshfield and North Bend fire departments will send hose teams to enter the Firemen's Tourney there Sunday.
