Saving crew. Captain Edwards of the Alert is planning a moonlight excursion to the beach about September 8 or 9.

Is Fined.—Joe Gaynor was fined $25 and costs by City Recorder Butler for a violation of the moral ordinances of the city. A second offense means a heavier fine and probably being ordered out of town.

Get Contract.—Olson and Johnson of Missoula, Mont., the contractors who built the Chandler hotel here, have been awarded the contract for the construction of the new Eastern Oregon hospital for the insane.

Kinney Better.—C. A. Sehlbrede is in receipt of a telegram from the physician attending Major Kinney at the San Francisco sanitarium stating that Mr. Kinney is improving rapidly and will soon be able to return to Coos Bay.

On Arcata.—Capt. Noren, who formerly ran into Coos Bay on the steamer Eureka, is now master of the steamer Arcata. The Arcata formerly ran into Coos Bay from San Francisco but recently left the Golden Gate for Alaska.

Broke Hip.—Mrs. Mary Randleman of the lower Coquille passed through here a few days ago en route home from Alma, Wash., where she visited her brother, Ed Rose, who recently sustained a fractured hip. He formerly lived in Coos county but is now engaged in the logging business there.

Has Big Business.—W. P. Murphy, who lately returned from a visit with J. E. Schilling at Gardiner, reports that Mr. Schilling is meeting with great success in his new hotel. There are sixty rooms in the new structure and it is crowded. Gardiner is enjoying a boom as a result of the railroad prospects.

Travel Very Heavy.—An indication of the rapid increase in travel to and from Coos Bay is shown at the Redondo office. Although the Redondo will not sail south from here until about next Monday, Agent McGeorge this morning had thirteen applications for passage on her more than he could accommodate.

Leave on Auto.—Among those leaving this morning on the Coos Bay-Drain auto line via Allegany were Bishop Scadding, Mrs. Scadding, F. B. Waite, Geo. H. Durham, Mrs. Durham, E. S. Bargelt and wife, Miss Merriman, J. H. Smith, E. W. Wright, A. J. Jarneth, and Mrs. C. Timmons.

Grows Flax.—Today Geo Baines is exhibiting a big bunch of fine flax that Herman Smithgall grew on his property in South Marshfield as an experiment. So far as known, it is the first flax grown here. He only had a small patch of it but it grew well, filled out and ripened in excellent condition.

Back From Hunt.—Will Cox returned today from his hunting trip to Curry county after getting his three deer. The other members of the party, Ben Willey, Geo. W. Childs and Leonard Mauzey, will remain until next week before returning. Each member of the party expects to have three bucks to his credit before breaking camp. Fawns and does are plentiful. Will says, his party counting forty-five in one herd one day last week. The two little jacks the party took along for packing purposes proved a joke. The first day out they missed footing and rolled to the bottom of a hill with their load of supplies. Cox says that Ben Willey's language on this occasion will not bear repetition.

Kills Big Deer.—Claude Piper of Coos River recently killed a buck on the west fork of North Coos River that weighed, dressed, 170 pounds. This is one of the largest that has been killed in a long time.

Enjoy Picnic.—Three score or more people enjoyed the annual excursion of the steamer Alert to the Life Saving Station and the beach yesterday. The weather was fine and in addition to the usual picnic diversions, the crowd enjoyed a drill by the Life

The Redondo is scheduled to reach here Saturday from San Francisco.

REPAIR WORK ON SAGINAW

Diver Mast Putting Patch on Bottom—Sight Attracts Big Crowd.

The repairing of the damage to the steam schooner Saginaw which was damaged on Blanco reef last week, is attracting a great crowd at the Alliance dock. Throughout the day, scores remain there watching Diver Mast.

The patching up temporarily of the bottom where the hole was stove-in is a difficult job. Diver Mast is working as rapidly as possible. He is equipped with the latest diving uniform and air supply apparatus. Yesterday, he caused quite a bit of amusement for the onlookers by insisting on stopping and smoking just before going down. He had his uniform on and was ready for the helmet when the desire to smoke struck him. Tom Lawhorne, who is assisting him, lit up a pipe and after enjoying a few puffs, Mast put on his helmet and went down.

As yet, Messrs. Hart and Pillsbury, representing the owners and underwriters, have not announced their plans. If the patching is effective, they hope to be able to take the Saginaw under her own steam to Portland or San Francisco to go on the dry dock.

Whether the cargo will be disposed of here has not been announced yet although a number of local parties have bid on parts of it.

dentist in the Southern California city. He is expected on Coos Bay to visit friends next week.

NAPOLEON RICE, wife and child have returned from a three weeks sojourn at points on the coast. While away they visited Marshfield, Coquille City, Myrtle Point and Bandon. Mr. Rice says that there is considerable railroad talk on the coast, and that the citizens of that locality predict the early construction of a railroad.—Roseburg News.

J. S. GREEN, who will be remembered by many friends that he and his estimable wife made during their residence here a few years ago, arrived yesterday on a brief business visit. They are now located at Corning, Cal., where Mr. Green is engaged in some government engineering work. He expresses himself pleased with the present prospects on Coos Bay which give evidence of fulfilling the hopes of all loyal admirers of this section and its splendid resources.
