NEW FALL SKIRTS

WILL SHOW ANKLES

Latest Parisian Idea Breaks Entirely Away From the Hobble's Restrictions.

NEW YORK, Sept. 18.—Fashion demands, at least the coming Paris fashions will demand, that women show their feet, their ankles, and no more. Such is the word brought back from the Rue de Paris by an expert who came on the Kaiser Wilhelm II. When Charles Kuzman, Fifth avenue milliner, who went aboard for the purpose of studying fashions, stepped off the liner he was brimming over with information.

"The Rue de Paris," said he, "is the most fashionable street in the world. There is to be found the flower of aristocratic Europe, though the street is only two blocks long, and there are to be seen the first indications of coming fashions.

"Dresses this year," continued the expert, "will be open in front for a short distance showing the ankle. Women will have many more shoes and slippers because of this new style, and will give much more attention to their stockings. The new dress is the opposite of the hobble. It gives a freer stride and a more graceful style. The fashion will be all curved lines. Furs, velvets and laces will be in evidence.

"Aristocratic Parisian and New York women will dress in simple, quiet style instead of the sensational extreme that has had a certain vogue during the last few years.

"Fur hats will be seen everywhere, as well as large velvet hats trimmed with ostrich or ostrich feathers. These will make a rich effect. Large handbags will remain in fashion. Bands, crowns, caps of silver and of gold cloth or laces with tube or pearl beads, sometimes with brilliants for the coiffure, will be worn more than formerly by women.

"Velvet or cloth dresses trimmed with fur will be very smart for morning wear, for shopping, or for motoring. For afternoon wear velvet or satin trimmed with gold or silver or shadow lace. For evening wear brocade velvet or elaborate silver and gold brocade tissue combined with brilliant stones or tube beads will be in favor. There will be many long pointed trains, which will be a new departure. For ordinary wear reversible material and plaids will be worn."

A Great Advantage to Working Men
J. A. Maple, 125 S. 7th St., Steubenville, O., says: "For years I suffered from weak kidneys and a severe bladder trouble. I learned of Foley Kidney Pills and their wonderful cures so I began taking them and sure enough I had as good results as any I heard about. My backache left me and to one of my business, expressman, that alone is a great advantage. My kidneys acted free and normal, and that saved me a lot of misery. It is now a pleasure to work where it used to be a misery. For Sale at Red Cross Drug Store."

PLAN BANQUET FRIDAY NIGHT

Chamber of Commerce Will Welcome Vice-President O'Brien and Others.

The Marshfield Chamber of Commerce is planning an elaborate banquet to be tendered in honor of Vice-President O'Brien and Traffic Manager Miller of the Southern Pacific. While the exact date cannot be fixed until after their arrival, it will probably be at The Chandler Friday evening.

Besides the two noted railway men, there will be two other important visitors to the city this week who will also probably be guests of honor at the banquet. They are Vice-president C. E. Groesbeck and Manager A. F. Douglas of the New Business Department of H. M. Byllesby company, owners of the Oregon Power company, who are coming here to visit Manager R. M. Jennings and inspect the local properties. They will arrive on the Breakwater.

Mr. Jennings has a plan under consideration for removing the stumps and clearing the logged off land by means of electrical power and devices. When he gets it under way, it will revolutionize this work around the Bay, greatly reducing the cost and facilitating it.

The Oregon Power company has just strung a high power wire across Isthmus Inlet to operate the electrical donkey engines which the Smith-Powers company is to experiment with. To cross Isthmus Inlet, the company put in a pole 120 feet high, the tallest pole that is to be found anywhere. Besides this, the company will furnish seventy-five horse-power for the resaw plant which the C. A. Smith company is installing.

A. M. Simpson. He was much improved when they were heard from Saturday.

Court Resumes.—Judge Coke and a number of attorneys left this morning for Coquille where the regular term of Circuit court is in progress. Civil cases come up today. Sentence in a few criminal cases will be passed tomorrow.

Coos Hotel Growing.—The Coos hotel under the management of C. A. Metlin has been growing and now occupies two floors of the Coos building, having taken the rooms vacated by the Turkish bath which have been remodeled and refitted.

Get Deer.—Hugo Quist, John Lafon and Cornell Lagerstrom yesterday got a nice buck near the Julius Larson ranch on Larson's Inlet. Just which one of them shot the deer is not known but O. M. Johnson insists that the deer must have been stalked out or not one of the three would have been able to hit it.

Visits Rebekahs.—Following the official visit of Miss Belle Belcher of LaFayette, Oregon, president of the Oregon State Rebekah assembly, to Western Star Rebekah Lodge of Marshfield Saturday evening, a fine banquet and social time was enjoyed. There was a large attendance and the details of the event will be given in the Society Department of The Times Saturday.

Plans Improvements.—Rev. Father Munro, the new pastor of the Marshfield Catholic church, announced to his congregation yesterday that within another year he hoped to get the construction of the proposed new church and parochial residence under way. Plans for them have not been completed. The present church is not large enough to accommodate the congregation and it is hoped to build a fine edifice. Rev. Father Munro has leased the house opposite the church, recently vacated by W. N. Ekblad, for a residence.

Had Narrow Escape.—While duck hunting in the Sand Hills Thursday night, Jay Tower and R. C. Cordes had a rather thrilling experience. They were setting decoys for the next day's shooting when they saw an object in the distance. The object looked like a bear and Mr. Cordes started for the cabin to get his rifle to take a shot at it. Before he got back, Mr. Tower discovered that the object was a man, Deputy Game Warden Noah, who was keeping tab on the duck hunters lest they start the season a day ahead of time.

A TURKISH BATH will do you GOOD. Phone 214-J.
