BRINGS BRIDE TO COOS BAY

Roy McClallen and Mrs. Ray Carlon Married at Salem Monday.

Roy McClallen of Roseburg, who is well known on Coos Bay through many visits here and who was recently in the limelight at Roseburg, is again a benedict, marrying on the eve of his departure to become a resident of Coos Bay.

Mr. McClallen and his bride arrived here on the Breakwater today. He was warmly welcomed by his many friends on the Bay, who extended congratulations over his recent nuptials and pleasure that he is to become a resident of Marshfield. Mr. McClallen is to be the Marshfield manager of a branch abstract office which he and A. S. Hammond of Coquille are to establish in Marshfield.

A dispatch from Salem, says: "Roy McClallen, who last February killed Ben Mahan in Roseburg because of jealousy between the two men over the affections of Lillian Speicher, Monday night secured a marriage license here and was married by Dr. Avison, pastor of the First Methodist church, with his bride he left for Portland, where it is understood he will take a boat for Coquille, where he will take charge of an abstract office. He endeavored to throw every shroud of secrecy over his marriage.

The bride was Mrs. Alice Carlan, a widow, whose home was given as Marion county, but it is understood she lives in Douglas county; although Deputy Sheriff Stewart, of that county, said over long-distance telephone that he was unfamiliar with the name.

"George Patterson, a Salem liquor dealer, was called in by McClallen as a witness. Immediately afterward the couple went to the Methodist parsonage where they were married.

"Lillian Speicher of Edenbow, over whom the troubles of McClallen and Mahan arose, has since married a traveling salesman of Portland, named Adams, according to long-distance telephone advices from Roseburg.

At the time of the shooting McClallen was married and his wife was living in Portland. It is understood that in May she secured a divorce in the Portland courts. McClallen is an abstractor. He gave his age as 35 years and the age of his prospective bride as 33 years and her occupation as a housekeeper.

"The McClallen murder trial was responsible for the Judge Coke recall case, McClallen being acquitted and Judge Coke's enemies declared that he gave instructions prejudicial to the defense."

The Roseburg News says: "Mrs. McClallen is the widow of the late Ray Carlan, who was killed in the local railroad yards several years ago. Since Mr. Carlan's death she has lived in Grants Pass, and was a frequent visitor in Roseburg."

PLEADS GUILTY FINE REMITTED

F. S. Dow Has Hearing Today on Fruit Case—Makes Statement to Court.

F. S. Dow appeared before Justice C. L. Pennock today and pleaded guilty to the charge of selling diseased fruit which was preferred against him by P. M. Hall-Lewis, county fruit inspector. In pleading guilty, Mr. Dow made a statement to the court relative to the case which was concurred in by Deputy Prosecuting Attorney Liljeqvist who asked that the fine of $25 which Justice Pennock imposed be remitted this was done. Messrs. Liljeqvist and Hall-Lewis stated that it wasn't the object to work a hardship on anyone but that they wished to educate the dealers and ranchers up to the necessity of aiding in eliminating the fruit pests.

Mr. Dow's statement to the court was as follows: Your Honor, in pleading guilty to this charge I find after consultation with the deputy district attorney, that it is the only thing for me to do, but I call your attention to the following conditions of affairs.

Fully nine-tenths of the apples that are now in this county are infected with a fungus growth and scab, making it uniaful to dispose of them in any way for local consumption. If the letter of the law is enforced, it simply means that there will be no apples in Coos county this season, even though the farmers, have to a great extent tried to live up to the law, but it takes time to clean up their orchards, and as a result there are practically no clean apples in the territory today.

While the case has been instituted against me, still it would apply to practically every farmer and every dealer in the county, and while I have no objection to being made an example of and raising an issue, still under normal conditions I would believe in fighting such a situation as we now find confronting us, if I was not informed that a new regulation was put into effect whereby the farmers of the community can fumigate their stock of apples so that it will permit them to sell it to the local merchants. For I do not think that the law contemplated confiscation of the entire crop of Coos county.

Our fruit inspector is doing a good work and he needs the assistance of every right thinking man in the community, and I do not want it to appear, that when I instructed our Mr. Bishop to sell these apples so that the issue might be raised, I had any desire or any inclinations to try and put him out of business or to break a law that we have, for personally I think it is a good one, and now that arrangements are completed, so that the apples can be so taken care of so that they will not spread disease, I feel that it should be enforced to the letter and will do all I can to see that our people live up to it.

HAINES BACK FROM PORTLAND

Chief Engineer of Coos Bay and Boise Says Things Are Looking Good.

CONTRACTORS COMING. It was reported today that C. J. Johnson, E. E. Johnson and W. J. Coos, railroad contractors from Seattle, would reach here this afternoon from Roseburg, having driven in over the Coos Bay and Boise route. No definite information could be obtained regarding them or their mission.

F. A. Haines, chief engineer of the Coos Bay & Boise Railway, arrived home today from Portland where he was in conference with officers of the company. He was rather reticent when asked about the matter today but appeared to be feeling jubilant over the outlook.

"There isn't anything that I can give out just now," Mr. Haines stated when questioned by The Times about the prospects. "You can say everything is looking mighty good and that I am feeling more sanguine than ever."

"Yes, I hope that we will be able to get work started on the line soon." Then Mr. Haines joshingly added that he had the railroad already checked to bring back with him but didn't have time to put it on the boat but it probably will be on the next one.

Aside from this, there was nothing new doing in the local railroad situation.
