SENSELESS WAR.

WE HAVE a striking illustration of what is called defending "national honor" in the muss Italy and Turkey are getting into.

What spectacle could more move the civilization of the world than to see the masses of the Italian and the Turkish peoples, just as the dawn of a period of prosperity and progress, is bursting on them, burdened with the awful obligations of a war that has no more reason than all the other senseless wars.

It should not take an intelligent jury ten hours to adjust the differences between Turkey and Italy.

Such a war is a criminal waste of human life and opportunity. The men who engage their countries in it should be hung as common traitors.

MOSS CAUGHT IN DRAG NET

Former Coos Bay Man Arrested on Serious Charge in San Francisco.

H. A. Moss, who platted the Glasgow Township and who is well known to the older residents of the Bay is in serious trouble in San Francisco.

Concerning his latest trouble, a San Francisco dispatch of October 2 says:

"Ten dollars deposited on a marginal purchase of December wheat today resulted in the raiding by the police of the brokerage offices of Moss & Co., at 339 Montgomery street, the arrest of H. A. Moss, the manager of the concern seven employes and 20 visitors, and caused the confiscation of books, memoranda, telegraph instruments, reports and all the glamorous paraphernalia necessary to an establishment of this character. Thomas H. Minot, attorney for Moss, was also taken into custody, as he was in the offices transacting legal business when they were raided.

"The charge is violating an ordinance, the anti-bucket shop law, making it a misdemeanor to buy or sell stocks, bonds, grains or anything of the like on a marginal basis, or where the purchased articles are not actually delivered.

"All were taken to the city prison in patrol wagons.

"This morning Captain of Police Thomas Dante, of the central police station, detailed Policeman Jones to proceed to the offices of Moss & Co. and purchase the December wheat. Jones, with ten dollars jingling in his jeans, entered into his contract, and immediately gave a signal to a squad of policemen attired in citizens' clothes outside. When they entered the offices everything was thrown into wild confusion. The telegraph instrument clicked on, but the operators failed to follow its tips and dips.

"Moss has been fighting to continue his brokerage establishment for months. During the last legislature he had a lobby there and circumvented the adoption of a law aimed at the bucket-shops. Then when the local ordinance was adopted, Moss sought to nullify it by applying first to the state and subsequently to the Federal courts for relief.

"District Judge William T. Van Fleet granted him a temporary restraining order preventing interference with his business, but after a hearing last Friday Judge Van Fleet dissolved the order and refused to issue a permanent injunction."

Don't forget Coos Bay BAND DANCE at EAGLES' HALL, FRIDAY night.

NORTH BEND IS AGAINST PLAN

said that he and others in the Marshfield Chamber of Commerce thought the time was ripe for the commercial organizations here to merge. He said it was but a step in advance of the inevitable consolidation of the towns on the Bay. He pointed out that just as soon as transportation facilities are afforded, the thing to do will be to consolidate the school districts with the high school at North Bend and the others as grade schools. He suggested that in merging the organizations, there be two vice-presidents with one from North Bend and the other from Marshfield, that members be taken on the same terms in both cities and that the meetings be held alternately in Marshfield and North Bend. He said that it was his desire to see the two towns one some day and pointed out that he recently bought a block between North Bend and Marshfield on Sherman avenue where he expected to build his home.

Peter Loggie the next speaker said that he had changed his mind about the matter since his visit in Marshfield and that he did not think the time was ripe for it. Also that he didn't think it was right for Marshfield to take the name Coos Bay because some day both cities would be together and that North Bend then had a right to have something to say about the name of the consolidated place. In view of this, he presented a resolution providing that when the towns are consolidated, the merged municipality be known as "Millieoma." A. H. Derbyshire, J. G. Mullen and others objected to the resolution as being out of order and Chairman Wernich so ruled and it was laid on the table.

C. R. Peck spoke briefly urging consolidation and pointing out the mutual benefits of united effort.

W. E. Best, the next speaker, proceeded to take a few raps at Marshfield. He declared that Marshfield had shown a tendency to try and "hog" everything and oppose what North Bend wanted. He declared that when North Bend had tried to get a road opened through to Ten Mile and the Coos River section with a ferry across to North Bend that Marshfield men had gone to the county commissioners and tried to get the ferry placed over by the creamery.

Dr. McCormac instantly arose and declared Mr. Best was mistaken. He pointed out that he had appeared before the Coos county commissioners and urged the construction of the road the way North Bend wanted it and the location of the ferry where North Bend desired. Superintendent Raab substantiated Dr. McCormac's statement of it.

Then Mr. Best wanted to know if Marshfield proposed to continue the fight against allowing a railroad to bridge the bay at North Bend and get access to that city. Dr. McCormac responded that probably some of them would but that so far as he was personally concerned, he did not intend to oppose bridging the bay.

R. M. Jennings, the next speaker, said that he thought there were only enough people here for one town and that the consolidation of the Chambers of Commerce would be a step in the right direction, the consolidation of the municipalities.

Herbert Armstrong, local manager of the Menasha Woodware company, the next speaker said that he didn't see any advantage in allowing Marshfield to "gobble up" any part of North Bend. He said that he thought that to keep them separate might be a good thing by making a little rivalry and competition.

R. A. Wernich, the final speaker, said that Marshfield had shown a tendency to slight North Bend, that although North Bend men were invited to Chamber of Commerce banquets here none of them were invited to speak, that visitors to the bay were taken through North Bend in autos by Marshfield men without being shown the North Bend factories and waterfront docks, etc.

He said that while North Bend factories got considerable business from Marshfield, business houses in Marshfield received business from North Bend. He also opposed promiscuous advertising as bringing in people who were unable to find anything to do here and had to go away. He said that instead of this kind of advertising, he thought the efforts should be concentrated towards getting factories. In conclusion, Mr. Wernich stated that he was voicing the opinions of others as well as ideas of his own. He said that he had tried to get expressions from the North Bend men but that they evidently didn't want to express their real views while the Marshfield visitors were present so he thought action on the question should be deferred until the club was alone.

At the business session, the North Bend Commercial club last evening voted non-resident memberships to W. P. Murphy and W. T. Merchant of Marshfield.

DEAFNESS CANNOT BE CURED by real applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; therefore, out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Dr. J. C. Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

Electric Power Liked in Woodworking Factories

The economy of electric power in woodworking factories can be shown in a number of ways. The most convincing is the expression of satisfied users.

For instance, Mr. John H. Bohn, Manager of the Idaho Match Block Works, at Sandpoint, Idaho, says: "We have used electric power for our four motors for two years and it has given us full satisfaction."

Mr. E. L. Bennett, Secretary-Treasurer of the Riverside Shingle company, Ltd., says: "We are using electric power for the manufacture of shingles. We find the electric current to be very efficient, handling our work at reasonable cost. The motors have given us satisfactory results in every manner possible."

We will supply experts to solve every power need.
