EXAMINATION FOR ASSISTANT FORESTRANGERS

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 10. — The Civil Service Commission will hold an examination for Assistant Forest Ranger on October 23-24, 1911. The U. S. Department of Agriculture estimates that 400 eligibles will be needed during the field season of 1912. Assistant Forest Rangers are paid an entrance salary of $1,100 per annum.

The examination will be held at National Forest headquarters in Alaska, Arkansas, Arizona, California, Colorado, New Mexico, Florida, Idaho, Kansas, Minnesota, Montana, Nevada, Nebraska, Oklahoma, Oregon, South Dakota, Utah, Washington, and Wyoming. No examination will be held in Missouri.

It is noted that, when practicing rangers must be qualified in the State or Territory National Forest on which they are appointed is situated. A list of local eligibles must be submitted before eligibles residing in other states can be appointed, the names of citizens of outside States who go to the National Forest States to take the examination to secure an appointment is small.

The requirements and duties of forest rangers are thus described in "The Use Book," which contains the regulations and instructions for the use of the National Forests:

"A Ranger of any grade must be thoroughly sound and able-bodied, capable of enduring hardships and performing severe labor under trying conditions. He must be able to take care of his horses and himself in regions remote from settlement and supplies. He must be able to build trails and cabins, ride, pack, and deal tactfully with all classes of people. He must know something of land surveying, estimating and scaling timber, logging, land laws, mining and the livestock business.

"On some Forests the ranger must be a specialist in one or more of these lines of work. Thorough familiarity with the region in which he works, including its topography and its forest and industrial conditions, is usually demanded, although lack of this may be supplied by experience in similar regions.

The examination of applicants is on practical lines indicated above, and actual demonstration, by performance, is required. Invalids are not permitted out-of-door employment. Experience, not education, is sought, although ability to make maps and write intelligent reports upon ordinary Forest Service business is essential.

"For duty in some parts of Arizona and New Mexico the ranger must know enough Spanish to conduct business with Mexicans.

Where saddle horses or pack horses are necessary in the performance of their duty, rangers are required to own and maintain them. The Forest Service furnishes no personal or horse equipment.

"Rangers execute the work of the National Forests under the direction of supervisors. Their duties include preventing fire and trespass, patrolling, surveying and marking boundaries, and supervision of cuttings, and other work. They use minor tools, traps, and traps, and investigate business, investigate

OREGON'S FARM ANIMALS AND POULTRY INCREASES 75 PER CENT IN VALUE.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 5. — The aggregate value of Oregon's domestic animals, including poultry and bees, has increased $25,418,111, or 74.9 per cent during the last ten years. The total value of all domestic animals has increased $24,943,000, or 75.2 per cent. Oregon poultry made a gain of $485,000 in value, or 82.3 per cent, during the same period. These figures have just been made public by the Director of the Census and are based on the tabular summaries prepared under the direction of Dr. Le Grande Powers, chief statistician for the bureau.

Horses and colts had a greater value than any other class of domestic animals in 1910, whereas cattle had the greatest value in 1900. The total value of horses and colts in 1910 was $25,128,000, while in 1900 it was $8,651,000; an increase of 190.5 per cent. The total value of cattle in 1910 was $17,548,000, as compared with $15,165,000 in 1900; an increase of 15.7 per cent. Next in order in 1910 were sheep and lambs, with a total value of $12,167,000, as compared with $7,563,000 in 1900; an increase amounting to 61.3 per cent. The total value of swine in 1910 was $1,570,000, while in 1900 it was $1,057,000; an increase of 48.5 per cent. Mules and colts in 1910 were valued at $1,151,000, as compared with $318,000 in 1900; an increase of 261.7 per cent. Goats and kids in 1910 were reported as valued at $370,000, as against $275,000 in 1900; a decrease amounting to 1.3 per cent. Asses and burros in 1910 were valued at $151,000, as compared with $42,400 in 1900; an increase of 255.3 per cent.

BOUQUET FOR SCHILLING.

Roseburg Review Praises Former Coos Bay Man's Hotel.

The Roseburg Review in its last Monday issue handed the following bouquet to Joe Schilling, formerly of Marshfield: "The Gardiner," the new hotel, which has been completed at Gardiner, on the Umpqua River, is said to be the most modern and up-to-date country hotel in the state. The old hotel was burned down when a part of the business section of Gardiner was wiped out by fire and the proprietor, Joe Schilling, put up the new structure. It is far in advance of a place of that size, as Gardiner has a population of but 400, but the place is peculiarly located as a hotel town, as all the travel over the Drain stage route must either stop overnight or for meals at Gardiner, and there is therefore a good patronage. The railroad activities in that locality have also made the place something of a center. The modern hotel was built with an idea of the future and the expectation that one of the railroads to Coos Bay will go through that place. The Gardiner has 46 rooms and can accommodate 60 guests. The building is plastered and the first two floors are heated with hot water. The rooms are supplied with hot and cold water, and there are public and private baths. There is a large office handsomely fitted, a dining room and grill-room and a lunch counter for the public. There is a women's parlor, and the whole hotel is handsomely furnished. There is probably no such modern hotel to be found in any of the smaller towns of the state."

CARELESS ABOUT APPENDICITIS IN MARSHFIELD

Many Marshfield people have stomach or bowel trouble which is likely to turn into appendicitis. If you have constipation, sour stomach, or gas on the stomach, try simple buck-thorn bark, glycerine, etc., as compounded in Adler-ka, the new German appendicitis remedy. Lockhart & Parsons states that A SINGLE DOSE of this simple remedy will relieve bowel or stomach trouble at most INSTANTLY.

"There could be no better medicine than Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. My children were all sick with whooping cough. One of them was in bed, had a high fever and was coughing up blood. Our doctor gave them Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and the first dose eased them, and three bottles cured them," says Mrs. R. A. Donaldson, of Lexington, Miss. For sale by all dealers.
