

BIG RUN OF SALMON NOW

Many Boats Brought In Over 200 Silversides Apiece Last Night.

The biggest run of silversides the bay has known in a long time is now reported on. Last night, many of the fishing boats in the lower bay are reported to have brought in over two hundred fish apiece. The salmon are even larger and better than in previous seasons.

BIG HALLOWE'EN PARTY PLANNED

Marshfield High School Students Arranging For Big Frolic at School House

The student body of the Marshfield High school is planning an extensive Halloween party to be given at the school building. The work of the affair is to be done in relays—by classes. The seniors will enliven the evening by furnishing various means of fun and excitement, the juniors will make beautiful the scene of the entertainment, the Sophomores will prepare and serve delicious "eats" to the famished pleasure seekers, while the Freshmen, blessed children! will clean up after the party! Everyone is anticipating a good time—not even excepting the latter.

An idea which will be possibly carried out is to hold the frolic in the attic where the unfinished walls and bare rafters will lend themselves more readily to the spirit of Halloween decoration than would the open area of the lower floors.

WRITES ABOUT FRUIT SALES

Hall-Lewis Tells of Quarantine Stations and Campaign to Help Growers.

Editor Times: In order to establish means for treating moderately diseased fruit, so that the grower who, this past season, has been more or less the victim of climatic conditions, may not feel too heavily the loss of his produce, I made application on October 4th to the Commissioner of the State Board of Horticulture for this District, for permission to establish "Quarantine Stations" where diseased fruit might be fumigated, and the infections thereon removed,—the idea being to devise a cheap method of bringing such fruit under the sanction of law, and make it permissible to sell same for use in its green or fresh state. I have just received reply from the commissioner, stating that the attorney general has ruled that such action would have to be taken by the State Board as a whole, and, in effect, that the state authorities are loth to take action that at some future time might establish a precedent which could be construed as legalizing traffic in diseased fruit. There are already existing regulations governing the "processing" (canning or drying or cidering) of fruit unfit for sale in its fresh state, which provide for the destroying of the diseased cores and peelings of the fruit. This fruit has a market value of 50 cents, which will return a revenue sufficient in most instances to pay for the expense of cleaning up the trees. It is the simplest kind of foolishness to argue that spraying causes disease, and hardly less foolish to argue that "it doesn't pay to spray." Owners who spray systematically get a larger proportion of clean fruit than those who do not, to the world over. And by systematically, I mean, spraying at the proper times and often enough to kill the germs of disease in their several stages. What to do, when to do it, and how often, to accomplish these results, is all laid down in simple, clear and practical wording in our experiment station bulletins, which are sent free for the asking to any resident of Oregon who applies to the O. A. C. experiment station, Corvallis, Ore. The consistent grower, who makes an effort to keep his trees clean, is continually menaced by the neglect of his neighbors whose adjoining orchards are not treated, for plant diseases, like all others, spread through neglect.

Some growers have fallen into the notion that if they have to clean up, the cheapest thing for them is to destroy their trees. This is truly the most pitiful type of shortsightedness, for the time has simply arrived, when in this locality, (and in many instances by reason of a long period of neglect), it is necessary to give the same attention to raising our fruit, that we give to the other crops. This attention, systematically applied, yields bigger returns than can possibly be realized in any other line of agricultural effort for the same expenditure of labor. For present needs, I am of the opinion that the offering of fruit for sale, which had been so treated as to destroy the infectious nature of the diseases thereon, would be clearly indicate the nature of the contents, or that the fruit contained therein had been so treated.

Dipping the fruit in a solution of lime-sulphur same as used for winter strength spraying would be fatal to both fungus and insect life, and the lime-sulphur solution washes off readily. Fumigation with sulphur, proves to be ineffective unless continued to such an extent as would render the fruit unfit for use, and the use of hydro-cyanic acid gas is dangerous to the operator unless he is familiar with the process.

While I cannot, without the authority of law or the state commission, establish the quarantine stations desired, it is obvious that the owner of fruit which has been purged of infectious disease can sell same, but I am required, under the instructions of my superior officers, to maintain prohibition of sale of diseased fruit or fruit which has not been purged of its infections. There is an increasing disposition upon the part of growers, I am glad to be able to state, to make the production of clean fruit, by the eradication of diseases in their orchards, a part of their ranching business, for they are coming to realize that the regions which have made name and fame as fruit producers have almost without exception started out under like, and in many instances more, unfavorable conditions. The fact that we do produce in this county, the best type and quality of Gravenstein found in the United States (a fact which is no longer open to question) is in itself a sufficient incentive for stronger effort, and at the same time a guarantee that those efforts will certainly be rewarded with success.

PANAMA CANAL REPORT MADE

The revenue of the canal should go to pay not only the operating expenses, but to repay the capital invested. Every legitimate means for raising revenue should be adopted, said the report, which recommended that the government should not only supply coal and oil for its own vessels but should sell them to merchant shipping. The existing commissary, manufacturing plant and laundry, it was urged, should be continued for the benefit of ownership of public utilities. It was proposed in a recommendation that the commissary furnish all these things to shipping passing through the canal for a consideration. It was suggested that the government supply tools and appliances needed by ships and still another forward movement, should actually undertake to dock and repair ships in the neighborhood of the canal. For that purpose the construction of a dry dock and a machine shop was recommended; and it was pointed out that these would be available for the use of our Navy. A wireless station for naval and commercial use was another adjunct required.

The commission has given much thought to the disposition of land in the canal zone, important because of its bearing upon the future administration of the zone and the operation of the canal. Of the 436 square miles of land in the zone the government owns 363 of which 96 miles are occupied by the canal. A large part of the government land will be required for military, naval and other official purposes. It was deemed essential that the Spanish law shall continue to prevail to prevent friction with the neighborhood Panamanians in the cities of Panama and Colon.

As to the form of government for the zone the commission directed special attention to the military necessities, the canal being deemed a military asset. In conclusion, the commission holds it essential that an entity be established, so organized that any military contingency can be promptly met.

It was recommended that Congress authorize the canal management to pay damages to vessels injured in passage inasmuch as this government must insist on taking complete charge of all vessels during that transit to guard against injury to the locks.

DEAFNESS CANNOT BE CURED

By local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is a 15 tone way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. It is not a cure, it is a relief. We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of deafness caused by catarrh that cannot be cured by Dr. J. C. Cheney's Cure. Send for our literature, free.
