Buys Lots—Jas. Ludwig has bought two lots near the C. A. Smith office building at Bunker Hill from Chin Wing, a North Bend Chinaman, and will erect a residence on one of them.

Buys Lots—Frank Sherman has bought two lots on the eastside of Fourth street, just south of Curtis avenue, from Chas. Marsh, and plans to erect a dwelling on one of them in the near future.

Marshfield Damaged—It was the Marshfield instead of the Bonita of the O'Kelly line of boats that had a hole punched in the bottom yesterday by a flare-back throwing the gasoline engine crank through the floor and hull.

Destroys Old Scows—Engineer Leefe has engaged the Larson dredge to remove the old government scows near the mouth of Coal Bank inlet. The scows were built when the jetty was under construction and are useless and merely in the way.

Exams Earlier—Assistant Postmaster Sumner announces that owing to the civil service examiner having to make connections with the boat returning to Portland, the Marshfield carrier examination will be held a day earlier or on November 17.

Many at Dance—The dance given by the Coos Bay Concert Band at the Odd Fellows last evening complimentary to the supporters of the organization was well attended and was one of the most enjoyable that has been held in a long time. The music was especially fine. Punch was served.

Long Ride—Parties reaching here yesterday from Roseburg report that Mrs. Baker, a woman sixty-four years old, has just reached Camas Valley after a four days' ride on horseback, to visit at the home of her father, Abraham Thrush, aged eighty-two. She came from Central Oregon and rode a cayuse and stood the trip fine.

Stops Runaway—The Union Meat Company's delivery horse started to run away yesterday afternoon and was succeeding fairly well until he passed a crowd of High School boys returning home. They tried to stop it by getting in front of the horse but could not and then "Curly" Larson, by a little sprinting overtook the wagon, jumped in the rear end and got hold of the reins and stopped it before any damage was done.

C. R. SMITH TO BE HERE SOON

HEAD OF MENASHA WOODENWARE COMPANY LIKELY TO ARRIVE ANY DAY TO INSPECT BIG HOLDINGS IN COOS COUNTY

C. R. Smith, head of the Menasha Woodenware company, is expected here on or about October 20. Herbert Armstrong, local representative of the company, stated today that he expected Mr. Smith in here almost anytime. This will be C. R. Smith's first visit to the Bay. He is one of the wealthiest men in Wisconsin, being rated at something over $25,000,000 and the absorption of the Southern Oregon company gives his company one of the biggest holdings in Coos county. C. R. Smith owns about sixty per cent of the stock of the Menasha company and a brother and a sister hold the balance, it is said.

Whether he will take any steps at this time looking to the construction of a plant here is problematical. Sometime ago, it is said, that he expressed himself as opposed to attempting to operate here until a railroad was built to Coos Bay. In Wisconsin, the Menasha Woodenware company devoted itself largely to the manufacture of sash, doors, boxes, etc., instead of straight lumber. It also dealt largely in hardwood products.

TOM HALL'S "MULLIGAN"

Marshfield Hunting Party Victims of Joke Recently.

Tom Hall is steering clear of R. C. Cordes and Bob Merchant these days as a result of a little escapade that happened on a recent duck hunting trip to the Sand Hill lakes, where the party made headquarters at the Cordes homestead.

The whole affair is a joke, doubly so because Tom didn't discover the joke until after he had assisted Messrs. Cordes and Merchant in consuming the mulligan. Editor G. A. Bennett writes the story as follows:

"Attorney Tom Hall takes considerable pride in his ability to make a first-class mulligan, but hereafter, endeavor to ascertain the ingredients before they partake of any stew for which Tom is responsible. While hunting with a party of friends at the sandhill lakes last week, Tom returned to the cabin before the others, and proceeded to make a beef mulligan for dinner. After putting in everything the recipe called for, except salt, he looked over the cupboard in the cabin and found a little box marked "salts." Tom dumped the contents, about a handful, into the mulligan, and the stew was all ready for the hungry hunters when they returned.—They found out later on that a mistake had been made, but when they looked for Tom they discovered that he had struck out for home without the usual formality of saying good bye."

GIRL TO FIND HER MAMMA

Marshal Carter Receives Pathetic Missive From Twelve-Year Old Maid.

Does any one know J. E. Rogers or a Mrs. Dora Breedlove in this section? If they do, notify Marshal Carter so that he can tell a little twelve-year-old girl at Webb City, Mo., who is seeking some knowledge of her mamma.

Recently he had a letter from the little Miss making inquiries and he wrote back for further information and this is the reply he has received: "I just received your letter and I thank you very much. Those Rogers you spoke about are not the ones. The one I want to find is J. E. Rogers. When I wrote to my mamma, I put on the letter: Mrs. Dora Breedlove, care of J. E. Rogers. This Rogers is bald-headed.

"My mother hasn't any children. She is 28 years old, has black hair and eyes, and went to Marshfield about two or three years ago. She is a slim woman and weighs about 110 pounds. She was sick at the hospital about two years ago. She moved from North Bandon, Oregon, to Marshfield. There was a woman who lived with her called Myrtle. My mother lived at Baker City before she went to Bandon. I want to know if she is living. Will you please let me know if you find the right person?"

"MISS IDA BREEDLOVE, 821 North Elliott street, Webb City, Mo.

"P. S.—She lived at North Bend, Oregon, too."

RASPBERRY TO ANCHOR SAND

Dr. E. Mingus Tries New Scheme to End Trouble From Shifting Sands.

Dr. E. Mingus of the Coos Bay Port Commission this morning started a new scheme to prevent the shifting sands causing trouble in the lower bay. He evolved the idea that the "Evergreen raspberry" which grows so profusely and rapidly around here would be a better solution of the problem than the Holland grass which the government is using above the north jetty on account of the raspberries growing so much faster. Today he planted a number of roots and if they do well and grow rapidly enough to indicate that they will not be choked out by the sands drifting in the wind, a large area will be planted next season. They discovered today that there is clay at a comparatively slight depth under the sand dunes near Jarvis landing so that the raspberries can get their roots down to moisture to protect them during the dry season.

If the raspberries grow, the whole sand area along the coast may be converted into raspberry patches, and money made out of the fruit grown on them.

COUNTY CAN BUILD ROADS OF GENERAL FUND CASH.

A Recent Supreme Court Decision Makes Important Ruling.

EUGENE, Ore., Oct. 18.—The case of A. W. Kline and others of Cottage Grove to prevent the officials of Lane county from paying money out of the general fund for road purposes and which was decided in their favor by Judge Galloway of the circuit court, has been reversed by the supreme court. Road work which has been held up since the first of the year may proceed. Some of the roads in the county had been allowed to get into very bad shape. The suit was brought on the ground that the county had no right to expend money from the general fund for roads and this decision establishes its right and furnishes a state-wide precedent.
