SUMNER'S ROAD BUYS FIFTY ACRES NEAR NORTH INLET

Deed For Property at Sand Point Is Filed at County Clerk's Office.

BEGINS RIGHT-OF-WAY CONDEMNATION SUITS

Developments In Coos Bay Railroad Situation Are Coming Thick and Fast

The Pacific Coast Railway and the Pacific Great Western have purchased fifty acres of tide flat at Sand Point, near the mouth of North Inlet, from the Bank of Oregon, R. E. Shine and F. B. Waite.

Besides this, the company through its Portland attorneys has filed two condemnation suits at Coquille. One is for a right-of-way across what is known as the Hope ranch and the other across the Resin ranch.

The above news complicates the Coos Bay Railroad mystery and tends to confirm the report that it is to be a battle royal between the Southern Pacific and other big interests as to which will reach Coos Bay first and control the situation here.

In addition to this, it is also learned that right-of-way men are working in north Curry county below Bandon. Cashier Roberts of a Bandon bank is reputed to be handling the finances for the operations there.

The property purchased at Sand Point is considered strategic in that it lies in the route of the Southern Pacific. Whether the latter tries to bridge the bay and reach North Bend direct or whether it proceeds to the west side of Coos Bay and utilizes the mud flats is not known.

The starting of the condemnation proceedings on the Hope ranch property is also significant. The Hope ranch was bought a few months ago by Dr. H. P. Howard of Everett, Wash.

Other Deeds Filed. In addition to the above, deeds covering the Simpson logging road route and other right-of-way between North Inlet and Ten Mile have been filed.

But Little Progress Made in McNamara Case During Forenoon Session.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 19.—Edward C. Robinson, a spokesman who says he is opposed to labor unions and believes the Los Angeles Times was blown up by dynamite, underwent an extensive examination in the McNamara murder trial at the hands of Attorney LaCompe Davis, who was seeking a basis to challenge for cause.

It is understood that S. Backey and C. S. Winsor maintain that they have not yet disposed of their stock in the tide-flats across the bay which the Southern Pacific has secured control of. They admit that the other stockholders have sold their stock but do not say to whom.

COAL COMPANY IS ORGANIZED

Millicoma Development Company Takes Over Ward Property on Bay.

The Millicoma Development company has just been incorporated by a number of Coos Bay men to develop the Ward coal property near the mouth of Coos River, just below the creamery. The company is incorporated for $200,000 and the officers and directors are:

President and general manager—J. A. Ward. Vice-president—H. G. Kern. Secretary—J. G. Mullen. Directors—P. L. Swearinger and Chas. I. Reigard and above named officers.

It is stated that some outside capital has been interested in the project. In addition to the coal mine development, the company is figuring on a briquetting plant and also the dredging of the Coos River channel so that ships can be loaded direct. Some of the property may be platted and sold, the mineral rights being reserved.

Concerning the company's property and development work, Mr. Ward made the following statement today: "The property consists of the Millicoma coal mine, constituting 750 acres with options on additional land. This land lies east of the bay with a water frontage of more than half a mile near the mouth of Coos river."

Besides numerous cuts and small tunnels along the cropping of the veins which prove the regularity and continuity of the veins throughout the tract, the main working tunnel, 9 x 6 1/2 feet, in the clear, is down 275 feet in vein No. 4, on a dip of 25 degrees. This vein is better than 6 feet in thickness, containing two clay partings each about 3 inches in thickness. Gangways and air courses are run from the slope aggregating about 250 feet.

The plan of the development is to continue the slope in No. 4 vein to a convenient depth, probably about 500 feet before rooming off extensively. Then by driving gangways both ways in the vein, that is, north and south, and by extending a tunnel horizontally to the west to catch No. 3 vein which lies about 80 feet above No. 4 vein, and also extending a tunnel to the east from the same is about 100 feet below No. 4, then all three of the veins can be worked through the present slope with one level to catch the No. 5 vein which hoisting plant and the mine can be given any desired capacity, the only limit being in the extent of development and equipment for handling the coal.

The equipment consists of a hoisting plant capable of handling 250 tons per day. Chaining bunker with washing arrangements at the mine and a loading bunker at the water front; ramway, 1950 feet long from mine to the waterfront at a point half a mile north of the Coos Bay Creamery; cars and everything necessary for present operation.

HANKOW IS CUT OFF FROM REST OF WORLD

Report That Four Divisions of Imperial Army Will Desert to Rebels.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Oct. 19.—A cable from Hong Kong received today by the Chinese Free Press says the government is extremely apprehensive because of the revolutionary feeling in the district of Hwang Sang and fear the four Imperial regiments there will likely desert to the enemy.

PEKIN, China, Oct. 19.—The court's official announcement this morning that telegraphic communication with Hankow has been interrupted since sunset last night caused consternation today. The wildest rumors of reverses to the Imperial Arms have been spread. Much significance is attached to the fact the government has refrained from issuing an official announcement of a victory in yesterday's engagements with the rebels. The government officials continue to express the utmost optimism.

C., recently sold their building for $50,000 and turned the money over to the revolutionists.

SHERIFF GAGE BIG FISHERMAN

Makes a Haul of Eighteen Hundred in Two Days on Coquille.

During a lull in his official duties last Sunday, Sheriff W. W. Gage hied him from his office to his seining grounds near Bandon and in two days, Sunday and Monday, got more than 1,800 fish, or to be exact 1,842 fine salmon.

Sheriff Gage's fishing grounds are in charge of Frank Holman and he has been doing very well, having turned in over 7,000 fish this season, but the Sheriff's greater experience in pulling people doubtless qualified him to break this season's record when it comes to pulling fish. It all goes to show that the sheriff has some pull in other things than politics.

The two canneries on the Coquille expect to make their capacity pack of 10,000 cases each this season. There are more Chinooks than were ever known before. Mr. Gage thinks this is a result of the system of feeding the young fish before turning them out to care for themselves. This is the first year for the fish to return since the new system was instituted and it is expected that the run will increase annually from this time forward.

The annual output of the Coquille hatchery is now 6,000,000 fry and that of the Coos River hatchery is 3,000,000. This section is fortunate in having one of the best fish masters in the state, Frank Smith, superintendent of these hatcheries, took first prize with his exhibit at the Seattle fair and under his capable administration there has been a steady development in efficiency and productivity, and the fish industry promises to become an important factor in Coos county commerce.
