CHINESE REVOLUTION TO SPREAD TO PEKIN SECTION TO-MORROW

Imperial Forces Reported to Have Been Badly Defeated at Hankow.

REBELS ALSO CONTROL STRATEGIC POINTS NOW

Foreign Legations Prepare For the Worst—Rebellion Fast Gaining.

(By Associated Press to Coos Bay Times.)

PEKIN, China, Oct. 21.—Persistent rumors have it that Admiral Shih Ping's flagship was sunk or captured in the recent fighting at Hankow. It is also reported that the rebels control several important strategic points. There is little in the news received today to reassure the government or relieve the general feeling of uneasiness. The missionaries in this province have been warned by students there will be a revolutionary outbreak near Peking tomorrow. Considerable credence is attached to the warning.

In view of the possible spread of the rebellion, the foreign legations are taking the necessary military and commissary precautions in this city and Tientsin for the protection of the legation and citizens of the respective countries they represent.

NEWS IS CONFIRMED.

Dispatches to San Francisco Confirm Rebel Victory.

(By Associated Press to Coos Bay Times.)

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Oct. 21.—A cable dispatch from Shanghai to the local Chinese paper confirms the report of the defeat of Admiral Shih who was in command of the Imperial warships in the attack on Hankow. Shih is said to have retired to Kiu Kiang with his disabled vessels, excepting the one which was sunk.

Over a million inhabitants of Wu Chung and Hankow are said to have cut their queues in accordance with the proclamation issued by the rebel authorities.

NOVEL NAVAL ORDERS

How English Officers Instruct Turkish Sailors

(By Associated Press to Coos Bay Times.)

LONDON, Oct. 21.—The discussion incident to the present unpleasantness between Italy and Turkey of the unpreparedness of Turkey's fleet has recalled an unusual difficulty experienced by the founders of the original Ottoman Navy.

They were hampered by the fact that there were no words in the Turkish dictionary for the various ropes and sails of the warships of that day. An ingenious officer solved the problem by tying different vegetables to the various ropes and spars of the rigging, and the sailors received orders to "Hold the tomato!" "Let go the potato!" until a more formal vocabulary could be supplied.

Novel as this procedure was, it was not an innovation, as it was exactly the method adopted by Almeida, the Portuguese admiral and discoverer, when he was outfitting a fleet for just such a descent on the Turkish colony of Mozambique as the Italians made on Tripoli.

It was at the beginning of the sixteenth century, and Portugal still lacked a navy, and the Portuguese tongue was devoid of naval terms. This fact did not daunt the doughty Admiral Almeida, and hanging up bunches of garlic and onions on the port and starboard sides respectively of his ships, he instructed his helmsmen to "garlic" or "onion" the helm, as necessity commanded.

PRAISES E. H. FISH.

E. H. Fish and family have moved to Marshfield, where Mr. Fish is connected with the Bradley Candy Co. Mr. Fish has for a number of years been associated with the Prosper Mill Co., but resigned his position some time ago to go with the Bradley Co. Mr. Fish and family have many friends in Bandon who regret very much to see them leave our city, but will wish them well in their new home.—Bandon Recorder.

FROM GERMANY TO COOS BAY

Norton & Hansen Receive First Toy Shipment Direct From Factory.

For the first time in the history of Coos county a local business house has received a shipment of goods direct from Nuremberg, Germany, where the Christmas toys come from. Imported toys have been on the Coos Bay market before, but they always were purchased through coast jobbing houses, but Norton & Hansen went direct to headquarters and placed one of the largest orders for toys ever given by a Coos Bay business house.

The first installment of this large purchase arrived on the Breakwater this week. They were packed in the original shipping cases just as they left the toy factory in Germany. This shipment marks the growth in volume and importance of retail business on Coos Bay.

In speaking of this shipment to a Times reporter, Warner Ogren said that it was the largest shipment of toys ever received here. It embraces all the very latest European novelties, the same as will be shown in New York and the eastern cities. It includes the latest fashions in dolls, lions as large as cub bears, big elephants and in fact everything that will interest and delight the little folks who are already beginning to dream of Santa Claus' visit and what he will bring in his flying machine and by the way there are a number of flying machines included in that shipment.

NO REQUEST TO BRIDGE THE BAY

Southern Pacific Has Not Renewed Its Petition For That Purpose Yet.

(By Associated Press to Coos Bay Times.)

COOS BAY RAILROAD SITUATION IN BRIEF
Oh for a Sherlock Holmes to ferret out the moves or the reputed moves in the Coos Bay railroad situation!
Only a Sherlock Holmes could do it for a whole lot of people on Coos Bay who think they are on the "inside" are found by the developments in twenty-four hours to be away on the "outside."
Foretelling the moves of the master chess or checker player is child's play beside trying to lineup the moves and reputed moves on the Coos Bay railroad map.

That the reports circulated at North Bend that the Southern Pacific has already secured permission to bridge the Bay are without foundation is evidenced by a letter just received by Wm. E. Homme of Cooson. Mr. Homme, when he heard the report, doubted it but to make sure, immediately wrote to the War Department at Washington. The reply is from Major Jay Morrow, in charge of the government engineers in this district, self-explanatory and is as follows:
"In reply to your letter of September 27, 1911, to the Secretary of War, this office is requested to inform you that no application for the crossing of Coos Bay has been filed with the department. A few years ago, the Southern Pacific railway submitted a plan of a crossing near North Bend but it was withdrawn before any action was taken on it."
Many believe that for the time being at least the Southern Pacific will use a ferry in crossing the bay, if they cross from North Inlet to Pony Inlet

SAY REYNOLDS HAS RESIGNED

Report in Circulation That Captain of Naval Militia Has Retired.

(By Associated Press to Coos Bay Times.)

According to a report in circulation here today, J. J. Reynolds has tendered his resignation as captain of the Oregon Naval Militia to Gov. West to be effective as soon as the chief executive, who is in command of the Naval Militia, wishes it.
Capt. Reynolds, when seen today about it, was very reticent and in fact refused to discuss it. He said that it was a matter that should and could only come through Gov. West's office and it was not his place to either affirm or deny it until the announcement of Gov. West was received.
It is understood that Capt. Reynolds has felt that his private interests would not permit him to give the time to the position that he felt it should receive.
If he has resigned, it is possible that Gov. West may have his successor chosen by the men at the election which has been called for November 6 to fill some other vacancies in the organization.

Minister's Declaration to Friends of Manner of Death As Evidence.

HUNG IN EFFIGY.

(By Associated Press.)

HYANNIS, Mass., Oct. 21.—Rev. Clarence V. T. Richeson was hung in effigy today on the limb of a tall elm in the yard of the Baptist church here of which Richeson was formerly pastor. On the board nailed to the foot of the tree were painted these words: "Guilty, read Luke 17-2."

(By Associated Press to the Coos Bay Times.)

BOSTON, Mass., Oct. 21.—Rev. Richeson, pastor of the Immanuel Baptist church of Cambridge, awoke today somewhat refreshed for the beginning of this first full day in the county jail where he will remain until October 31, the date which had been set for his marriage to Miss Violet Edmonds, daughter of Moses Grant Edmonds, a wealthy resident of the Chestnut Hill section of Brookline. Instead of being married that day the minister will appear in court on the charge of murdering his former sweetheart, Miss Avis Linnell, a student at the New England conservatory of music, and a Sunday school teacher at Tremont temple. Miss Avis Linnell died after taking unknowingly cyanide of potassium to relieve an embarrassing physical condition. The police investigation of the case continues. It is learned that on the night Miss Linnell died the minister dined at the home of friends and suddenly threw himself on a couch and exclaimed that he had lost a dear friend and that she had died of convulsions. The police wish to know how the minister knew this friend died of convulsions.

The police have information that some one visited the rooms in Cambridge occupied by Rev. Richeson, and various articles were removed before the police could search them. Richeson this afternoon resigned the pastorate of the Immanuel church. Moses G. Edmonds, father of Richeson's fiancée, called on him in jail this afternoon and had a long talk with the prisoner. Edmonds reiterated his belief in the innocence of the prisoner.
