A TRULY GREAT MAN.

THERE is every evidence before the country that James J. Hill is one of the great men of the nation. He is broad minded and is truly an empire builder. He has been saying of late some of the very best things to encourage men who have lost their nerve. He says that the best times the country has ever had are just ahead, with nothing but confidence needed to make the turn in the road. If the Chamber of Commerce or the people in convention assembled on Coos Bay would invite Mr. Hill and could prevail him to visit this city and make one of his practical talks, it would help amazingly. We have too many fellows here who, if told that times are going to be booming in the not distant future, will say: "Well, I hope that will prove true," with an evident leaning toward the doubt. Mr. Hill, with his magic touch, would fix these fellows all right with one of his half hour talks, but then of course, there are men in this community who are never happy unless they are miserable. These are the knockers.

LIFE'S BURDENS.

The scrap for existence is much like a fray that leaves its deep scars on the body and mind; but when I go home at the close of the day I leave all my workaday worries behind. My home is my refuge from trouble and care, and nothing but peace shall go in at the door; I won't bring distress to the loving ones there by telling my worries and thrashing them over. The day, with its struggle and profit and toil, shall have all the effort that I can bestow; the evening belongs to my wife and myself, and naught that is sordid or mean shall it know. Some day I may meet in my pathway a grief too big and too husky to tackle alone, and then I will go to my wife for relief, and we shall overcome it. I'll bet my last bone. But all the small worries that make a man gray, when blows the night whistle are laid on the shelf; such troubles belong to the strenuous day—the evening belongs to my wife and myself.

Oregon Federation Adopts Strong Resolutions at Roseburg Meeting.

ROSEBURG, Oct. 23.—Portland was chosen as the place for the next annual convention of the Oregon Federation of Women's Clubs. This year's session came to a successful close Thursday, followed by a banquet and reception by the ladies of the Eastern Star lodge. Before adjournment the club adopted several resolutions, two of which follow:

"Resolved, That a committee be appointed by the president of the state federation, which shall confer with the committees appointed by the individual clubs, for the purpose of collecting the best Oregon literature, the same, at some future date, to be compiled, edited and published by the state federation. Also that a similar committee be appointed for the purpose of collecting Indian lore, legends and historical happenings of Oregon pioneer days.

"On Suppression of Bad Shows
"Resolved, That each club in the state federation appoint a committee or board of censure to watch moving picture shows, also a committee for watching the vaudeville and regular theaters, making an effort to suppress any harmful or immoral features, and asking the co-operation of city councils in the matter."

Resolutions were adopted that the legislative committee of the clubs be instructed to present to the next session of the legislature a law requiring sterilization of confirmed criminals, feeble minded, incurably insane and confirmed alcohol and drug users; proposing a net weight amendment clause to the state pure food law to be presented at the next legislature; that the clubs adopt the third Sunday in April as state cleaning up day and that there be created a state board of music commissioners to examine and issue certificates to teachers.

The following officers were chosen to guide the destinies of the Federation for the ensuing year:

President—Mrs. Sarah A. Evans.

VARIOUS VIEWS ON RENAMING MARSHFIELD

PRESS AND PEOPLE COMMENT ON PROPOSED CHANGE AND SUGGEST OTHER NAMES FOR COMING METROPOLIS OF OREGON.

WATKINS SAYS WAIT.

EDITOR TIMES:
I am opposed to naming Marshfield Coos Bay. The principal reason is because it will lead to endless confusion. Adopt that name and there is nothing to distinguish the town from the bay proper. It is apparent. Suppose Portland was called Willamette. In speaking of either the town or the river about half the time you would be obliged to say, I mean the town, or I mean the river, or I am now speaking of the town or of the river as the case might be. Names are used for the purpose of distinguishing one person or one thing from another. We use names for identification—that is what names are for, otherwise we wouldn't need names at all. Again, the town would lose its identity entirely—Coos Bay don't suggest the name of a town to anybody in the slightest degree. A bay suggests a body of water only. It don't suggest a town at all. Adopt this folly and you will have endless trouble in one way and another explaining that the town and the bay bear the same name. Anyway, is it discreet at this time to apply the name of Coos Bay to the present limits of Marshfield? There are those whose good will and co-operation we want outside of Marshfield. Marshfield is not the only agate on the Coos Bay beach. There are others. Would it not be more discreet, just and wise to wait until consolidation is a fact and let our neighbors have a hand in selecting a name? Our neighbors have some interests and some rights that we ought to respect in this matter. It occurs to me.

Milllicoma—Well now that is a pretty name in a way. The pronouncing of it brings recollections of our fuzzy days, when everything looked pretty to us, days when we wore our hats askew, cultivated a curl on our forehead and invested all our spare earnings in cologne, hair oil and goose grease. It classes along with "Adown the dimpled Doon," Willie, Algernon and the like. It is suggestive of that far away look and pipe dreams. It is a most appropriate name for a small club, or a female kitten or a ewe lamb—but for a thriving, bustling, strenuous little city—NEVER.

PATSY RUNS ASHORE.

The gasoline schooner Patsy, which was completed at the North Bend ship yards a few weeks ago to take the place of the ill-fated Oshkosh, ran ashore near Newport last week. The Patsy has the engine of the Oshkosh which was lost on the Columbia river bar several months ago. A Newport dispatch of last Thursday says:

"The gasoline schooner Patsy went ashore Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock at the entrance to the Siletz River. She lies in an easy position on the south spit, inside the bar. Efforts are being made to edge her off. All freight has been safely landed on the beach at low tide."

MARSHFIELD ROAD LOSTS.

Report to Railroad Commission Shows Deficit of $285.
SALEM, Ore., Oct. 23.—The report of the Marshfield & Suburban Railway company, received by the State Railroad Commission shows operating revenues of $1,768 and operating expenses amounting to $2,054. This leaves a net operating deficit of $285.

The report of the C. A. Smith Lumber company's logging road, near Marshfield, shows operating revenues of $384 and operating expenses of $637, or a deficit of 253. As the two reports show that the C. A. Smith Logging company is in control, it is believed by the commission that these are two reports of the same road for different periods of time.

COOS BAY OR MILLICOMA.

(From Portland Telegram)
The people of Marshfield are discussing a change of name. As we understand from the report of the matter, they are to vote upon the alternative of "Coos Bay" or "Milllicoma."

This is one of those cases where no outsider has any business to butt in; but with this fact in mind, outsiders are apt to have an opinion one way or the other, and if that opinion be expressed with becoming modesty, they are to be pardoned for giving it utterance.

There seems to be doubt about the origin of the word "Coos." Its assumed Indian derivation is disputed. It is held to be a corruption by the "canny Scotsman," who as an early traveler in that country designated it as a "coo's" or a "cow's" country. This may not be the strictly antiquarian account of the matter but it is substantially the statement of one side of the case. On the other side there is Coos county in New Hampshire, the derivation of which is indisputably Indian.

The proposed name "Milllicoma" is vouched for as a simon-pure Indian word, one advocate claiming for it that it means the equivalent of welcome, or that the "latch string is out," or something of that sort. Another advocate of the name suggests a romantic legend centering about the daughter of an Indian chief—a maiden who bore this mellifluous cognomen.

About all this there is a haziness that is extremely unsatisfactory. Were it not so, as it seems to us, it would be a case of plain sailing, if the people of that community decided that there should be a change of name, that the name which is of approved Indian origin should be preserved by all means, for we are letting such names slip from us all too readily.

HONOR CAPT. BERGMAN

Umpqua Life Saving Station Crew Present Him Loving Cup.

The Florence West has the following concerning an honor conferred upon Capt. Bergman who recently returned as keeper of that station: "In 1891, Mr. Bergman received an appointment as keeper of the Umpqua Life Saving Station, serving twenty years, resigning on October 1, 1911.

"Upon leaving the service he was presented with a beautiful solid silver loving cup standing nine inches high and seven inches across with the following inscription upon it, 'Umpqua River L. S. S., Oct. 1st, 1911, presented to Keeper John Bergman by his crew.' While he cannot thank them sufficiently for this mark of esteem it will serve as a connecting link between them in a separation which he feels very much.

"Captain Bergman has a solid gold medal authorized by special act of congress for taking the leading part in the rescue of people from the ill-fated steamer 'Tacoma' the stranding of which occurred January 29, 1883. Finding such an interesting recital of the wreck in the letter accompanying the medal we asked permission to publish it: Such a medal and such a letter are rare things to receive and are never given unless well merited."

FLORENCE REJECTS FRANCHISES

Voters Turn Down Several at Special Election There.

FLORENCE, Ore., Oct. 23.—At the special election held here Monday, the three propositions submitted to the people were all voted down. It required a two-thirds vote to carry any of them, and while there was a majority for the electric light and telephone franchise, there were not enough votes for a two-thirds majority. The vote was as follows:

Ordinance No. 69, to grant a franchise to the Oregon Electric company—Yes, 25; No, 21.

Ordinance No. 70, to give the board of trustees authority to permit the Florence-Mapleton Independent Telephone company to erect and maintain poles and wires in the town: Yes, 25, No, 19.

Ordinance No. 71, to make an appropriation of $1,500 out of the general fund for the purpose of opening Seward street south from Main street to the Siuslaw river—Yes, 16; No, 26.

While the people of Florence are in favor of electric lights, telephone companies and other public improvements, it was claimed by many that the ordinances were not properly drawn and the franchises were not suitable to the best interests of the people.

LIVES ARE TOO PRECIOUS to risk by the use of gasoline cook stoves. The gasoline stove has a long and ugly record of death dealing calamity. It is shunned by those whose homes it has burned down. The fire insurance companies fight the gasoline stove whenever they get a chance. They know what an extremely dangerous thing it is. But they offer no objections to Gas Stoves because the proper use of gas is SAFE. If you value safety in your home you cannot discard your gasoline cook stove too soon. Tomorrow may be too late. You may think it expensive to have a gas range put in but we think we can help you solve this problem.
