COMMUNITY OF FACTS

THE investigations which are being made regarding the various strata of air, and the charts and maps which experts are creating in order that aviation may become more practical, have an incidental value in another direction which is notable. Much has been done in the past few years to make sea traffic safer and more practical, but that here is still much to be done in this direction is suggested by the evident importance of an accurate knowledge of winds and currents of air, concerning which there has been little specific knowledge.

The benefits which marine navigation will receive on account of this increasing interest in the skies due to aviation indicate again the close relation between the various scientific discoveries and the widespread results which new knowledge in any department of science will bring. This interdependence suggests the complex relativity of all sources of knowledge and the possibilities yet to be unfolded in the way of related discoveries and inventions. To the thoughtful student of these live and ar-reaching avenues of progress there may come the dream of a sudden illumination, a sort of bursting forth of significance which will make for us a more intelligent and consistent point of view, and will mean an awakening to the dawning of a universal knowledge which is as yet only a faintly imagined but imperative possibility.

WITH THE TOAST AND TEA

GOOD EVENING. The lightsome countenance of a friend giveth such an inward decking to the house where it lodgeth, as proudest palaces have cause to envy the gliding. —Sir Philip Sidney.

Things Old Settlers Still Believe In. The same old courtin', The same shy kisses; The same old weddin', With modest bliss.

The same old blue In the same old skies; The same old yell When the baby cries.

The same good dinners, The same corn bread; The same old prayers On going to bed.

The same old Bible, The same old Truth; The same old hazel We felt in youth.

The same old mother, The same old love; The same old hope Of meeting above. C. E. KLINE.

It isn't very long before the "good flow" is a poor fellow. Women are vain, but men are much more so and with far less reason.

Many a Coos Bay man is in great fear that he will get all that is coming to him.

We notice that most people who are consumed by curiosity still survive.

If our mistakes teach us nothing were hardly worth while to make them.

A horse is not of any use until it is broken, but it is different with a cow.

A hen will spend a whole day sitting up an egg that a hungry man can eat in a minute.

STORY OF THE DAY

Something to Hold Him To

"Always be the same as you are now," he whispered to her tenderly, and it is all I ask, my dearest one. "And if I am, you will always love me," she answered, quietly. "Yes," he answered her, "always." She looked beyond him—into the distance. Only she knew that ere long she would be quite different, for she was growing stout! Then she smiled into his face, and the more you see of me, the more you will love me, will it not?" she asked. "Yes," he answered, "I swear it!" thus she was comforted.

WARD WINS SUIT.

North Bend Man Recovers Insurance on Fire Loss. A verdict of $3,578, the full amount asked, was returned by a jury in Judge McGinn's department of the Circuit court at Portland in the case of E. M. Ward against the Queen City Fire Insurance company, of Sioux Falls, S. D., an action to collect on an insurance policy. The plaintiff's wholesale hardware store at North Bend, was burned July 20, 1908, together with the big woolen mills, belonging to the Simpson Lumber Co., entalling a loss of $120,000. He had insurance in several companies and before the present suit had collected $7,000 from other companies. The Queen City Fire Insurance company refused to pay, contending that there was only $3,000 worth of stock in the establishment when it was destroyed. The jury fixed its worth from the testimony at $15,000. The defense sought to convey to the jury the impression that the origin of the fire was open to suspicion but the testimony did not sustain these suspicions.—North Bend Harbor.

WHAT'S IN A NAME.

Los Angeles Woman Finds That Pinoche Isn't Sweet at All. LOS ANGELES, Nov. 1.—Say girls—especially co-eds, fudge fighters and light housekeepers—do you know what pinoche is? Of course you do. You've made whole panfuls of it. You think it's nice and sweet. So did Mrs. Peter W. Pinoche—meant husband, not candy. And now she hasn't even got the husband. As a spouse, Pinoche was too demonstrative. He showed his feelings too plainly to his wife. In fact he emphasized them with his flat in a way that left a strong impression on her features. It was a close shave for Pinoche in every sense of the term. This is the sad Pinoche story: Mr. Pinoche, who in his youth was referred to as the "candy kid," had too many whiskers. "Shave me," he said to his wife, who replied, "Sure, Pin! Get your razor." She did the best she could, but she nicked him. This roused the Old Nick in Pinoche and the sweetness of his name was belied by the vigor of his temper. Anyhow, though Pinoche isn't sweet, he's dear, for Police Judge Chambers made him pay a $25 fine to gain his freedom. There was a big demand for Pinoche in the local market, however, for he hadn't got outside the courtroom when he was rearrested on a charge of child abandonment.

A MAIL CARRIER'S LOAD

Seems heavier when he has a weak back and kidney trouble. Fred Duhrn, mail carrier at Atchison, Kansas, says: "I have been bothered with kidney and bladder trouble and had a severe pain across my back. Whenever I carried a heavy load of mail, my kidney trouble increased. Some time ago, I started taking Foley's Kidney Pills and since taking them I have gotten entirely rid of all my kidney trouble and am as sound now as ever." Foley's Kidney Pills are tonic in action, quick in results. No matter at what stage your kidney trouble may be, take Foley's Kidney Pills at once for quick and permanent relief.—Red Cross Drug Store.

CAPT MACGENN ACTIVE.

Favors South Jetty 1,500 Feet Long and Longer North Jetty. Capt. T. J. Macgenn is conferring with the Port of Coos Bay commissioners and the Marshfield Chamber of Commerce relative to securing additional data for Congressman Hawley to enable the latter to advance the construction of the Coos Bay Jetties. Capt. Macgenn plans to have a draught of the bar and mouth of the harbor prepared showing the North and South spits, the jetty and the sunken parts of it and the action of the tides on the bar. Capt. Macgenn is also urging that if the South Jetty be constructed that it be only 1,500 feet long instead of 2,500 feet long as some have been advocating. He is in favor of a shorter jetty on the south side of the bar and a longer one on the north side, his plan being to build the 1,000 feet deducted from the south jetty on the end of the north jetty. With this accomplished, he declares the Coos Bay bar and harbor will be the equal of any harbor on the coast.

A Wise Old Owl Said Shiftless Sam: "It is easy enough to make money if you have money to make it with. I see chances every day to make money if I only had a little stake to start with, but a fellow that has no capital doesn't have a fair shake in this world." Said the Wise Old Owl: "You never will have a stake until you start. Stop your spending and try saving. Pinch out a little of your earning and start a bank account no matter how small. Add to it. The longer you put it off the longer opportunity will give you the cold shoulder." Which one was right, Sam or the Owl? INTEREST PAID ON TIME AND SAVINGS DEPOSITS. The Impression Carried Away By the Visitor Writing to his home paper, the Springfield (Ohio) Sun, a man traveling through the south said: "Mobile is a liberal user of electricity and its streets are well lighted and decorated with many fine signs—an uncontrollable evidence of conspicuous enterprise." No doubt our own city has inspired similar comment many times. Don't you think it pays to send the visitor home feeling that he has seen a live city in which live merchants do business?
