STEAMER WASHINGTON DOOMED TO DESTRUCTION ON COLUMBIA

Practically No Hope For Twenty-Three In Crew and 25 Passengers.

DRIFTING IN BREAKERS JUST BELOW ASTORIA

Too Rough For Life Boats to Reach Her—Two of Sailors Already Lost.

MAY SAVE ALL.

(By Associated Press.) ASTORIA, Wash., Nov. 13.—The bar tug Tatoosh at 3:10 o'clock succeeded in getting a line on the Washington. There are good prospects that some, and perhaps all will be rescued.

PILOT TUG SAVES THE WASHINGTON

Operator Moe of the United Wireless Station in Marshfield late this afternoon received a flash stating that a pilot tug Tatoosh had got a line to the stranded Washington and was pulling her back to deep water and had saved her.

LIFE LINE ONLY HOPE.

(By Associated Press.) ASTORIA, Wash., Nov. 13.—An eye-witness of the disaster of the Washington says there is absolutely no hope for the vessel and the only hope of saving the passengers or crew is by means of the life line. At 1 o'clock, she was too far out of reach for a line to be shot over her.

(By Associated Press to Coos Bay Times.)

ASTORIA, Nov. 13.—Pounding and drifting ashore before a southeast gale and in a furious sea, the steam schooner Washington, of the Olsen and Mahoney line of San Francisco, is apparently doomed to destruction on the beach between Cape Disappointment and North Head just inside the Columbia River bar and the fate of her twenty-five passengers and crew of twenty-two is a problem indeed.

Taft and Wickersham Discuss Proposed Legislation Today. (By Associated Press to Coos Bay Times.) WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 13.—President Taft today discussed with Attorney General Wickersham the advisability of supplemental anti-trust legislation at the coming session of congress. The conference related particularly to the likelihood of passing the federal incorporation act.

13 INCHES OF SNOW.

The Roseburg Review of Saturday says: "Manager Charles Barnard of the Marshfield-Roseburg stage lines, reports a heavy snowfall at the summit of the coast range mountains, about 22 miles west of Roseburg. Mr. Barnard says the snow fell to a depth of 13 inches, and that considerable trouble was encountered in operating Saturday stages. With good weather prevailing yesterday, however, he anticipates no further difficulty as a result of the recent storm."

Hunters In Trouble.

Will Sneddon, Chas. Tellefson, Fred Benz and Chas. Lemieux had a rather narrow escape yesterday while hunting ducks near Glasgow. Their boat was swamped by the rough weather and they had to take refuge on a piling where a fisherman's boat finally came to the rescue. All got a good soaking.

Was 27 Above.

The coldest weather for this early in November in ten years was recorded by the local weather office Friday when the mercury reached 27 above zero. Saturday, the coldest, was 37.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 13.—All preliminary arrangements for the annual meeting of the Trans-Mississippi Commercial Congress, which meets here tomorrow, are complete and hundreds of delegates are already in the city. One of the important questions to be considered is the improvement of inland waterways of the country. River men from all over the United States will attend.

ARE AT SUTHERLIN.

Coos Bay and Eastern to Penetrate Cascade Range That Way. The Sutherlin Sun says: "A party of railroad surveyors put in an appearance here last Saturday, and the indications are that they have come with the intention of doing some extensive work in Sutherlin Valley. Headquarters have been established on property of the Luse Land & Development Co., just west of town, and surveys extending from the Coles Valley section to the east end of Sutherlin Valley are being made. Inquiry failed to elicit any definite information regarding the work of the surveyors, further than the fact that they were in the employ of the Coos Bay & Eastern road, and that Sutherlin Valley had been decided upon as the most feasible route through the Cascade Range."

EXPECT CONTRACT NEWS.

The Eugene Guard says: "While the announcement has not been formally given out, it is stated on good authority that Twoby Brothers have been awarded the contract for building the Southern Pacific Co.'s line from Eugene to Coos Bay. It is believed that the news will be given out about the 15th inst."

Editor Conner Disposes of Paper to Mr. Ackerman of Salem—Other County Seat News.

(Special to The Times) COQUILLE, Ore., Nov. 13.—The Coquille Herald was sold to Mr. Ackerman of Salem, Oregon, last week. It is understood that the former editor and publisher, W. C. Conner, with his family, has already departed for his old home at Cottage Grove, Oregon.

The new saw mill is working fine. The owners, most of them being local men, as well as the community, are pleased with this important addition to the industries of the city. The Southern Pacific will soon vacate First street and tear up the tracks, as the new cut-off along the river is already completed. The paving of Fifth street has been stopped on account of the rainy weather, leaving that thoroughfare in a very bad condition for the time being.

SHINE SELLS INTEREST.

The Coquille Herald says: "R. E. Shine of Coquille, has sold his Sand Point land holdings to the Southern Pacific company, along with the other Sand Point land holders. The proposed condemnation proceedings will therefore be dismissed."
