THE BLIGHT.

PROSPERITY like charity begins at home.

The prosperity of Coos Bay depends upon the residents of Coos Bay and not upon the itinerant speculator who, attracted by the extraordinary development of the place, settles long enough to fill a sack of honey and depart.

Such individuals have injured Coos Bay and are injuring her today. They have not come here to see what they can give but what they can get. They meet strangers in the town and disgust them with their brazen and sordid methods. They talk in six figures and they wear diamonds in their scarfs. They are parasites, giving nothing, asking all, the first to blow when things are bright, the first to show the yellow when things are dull.

Great amounts of money and energy are expended to fight the blight in the fruit. But here is a blight that is much more dangerous and more difficult to combat.

Some day the Faithful who have given so generously in money and time for the betterment of Coos Bay and the establishment of the city upon a firm and substantial basis, will rise in their wrath and throw this excess baggage over. And that will be a good thing for Coos Bay—a very good thing indeed.

THE COKE RECALL.

THE Portland Journal has the following sensible editorial statement concerning the attempted revival of the Coke recall:

"The report from Roseburg is that the Coke recall will be revived. It will only end in failure. To attempt to press it is unwise endeavor and a misuse of the recall.

The grounds offered by the proponents for attacking Judge Coke with the recall are the instructions in a murder case. They say the instructions caused acquittal of the accused. But, the same instructions in a Portland case resulted in conviction of the accused. This alone establishes the fact that the proposed recall is absurd.

But there is a broader and higher reason. The people of Judge Coke's district have never claimed capacity, and will never desire, to pass upon the legal question of whether the instructions were or were not in harmony with the law. To do that intelligently requires legal training.

It takes years of study for a doctor to prepare himself to diagnose disease. It takes years of study to qualify as an electrical engineer. In electrical science, it is about as much as the average layman can do to explain the difference between a kilowatt and a kilikenny cat. It is as hard to pass intelligently on the instructions to a jury as to diagnose disease or build a dynamo.

That is why the people of the second district will have no patience with the effort to have them sit in judgment on Judge Coke's instructions. The instructions are a matter for the supreme court, and it so happens that the vital part of the instructions used by Judge Coke were taken from a decision by the supreme court.

The Coke recall would demand that the people of the second district be a supreme court to sit in judgment on a decision by the supreme court. In effect, it would be the setting aside of the supreme court, one of the three branches of government. In effect, it would temporarily suspend the state constitution by riding rough shod over that article that confers on the judiciary the responsibility and authority to adjudicate legal questions.

The thing to do with the recall is to use it for removing unworthy officials and not to so employ it as to require every voter to be a supreme judge."

A GOOD POSITION

can be had by ambitious young men and women in the field of "Wireless" or Railway Telegraphy. Since the 8-hour law became effective, and since the wireless companies are establishing stations throughout the country there is a great shortage of telegraphers.

Positions pay beginners from $70 to $90 per month, with good chances of advancement. The National Institute of Portland, Oregon, operates under the supervision of R. R. and Wireless officials, and places all graduates into positions.

It will pay you to write them for full details.

COUGHING AT NIGHT.

Means loss of sleep, which is hard on everyone. Mrs. A. Peizer, 25 W. Jefferson St., Omaha, Neb., says: "I can recommend Foley's Honey and Tar Compound as a sure cure for coughs and colds. It cured my daughter of a bad cold, and my neighbor, Mrs. Benson, cured her whole family with Foley's Honey and Tar Compound. Everyone in our neighborhood speaks most highly of it." For dryness and tickling in the throat, hoarseness, and all coughs and colds, take Foley's Honey and Tar Compound. Keep always in the house. Contains no opiates. The genuine in a yellow package. Refuse substitutes.—Red Cross Drug Store.

He Got the Job

A young man having applied to a wholesale house for a position recently found himself before the manager for examination. "Have you a bank account?" was his first question. "I have," was the reply. "Let me see your bank book," was the next request. After glancing over it and noting the long list of regular, though small deposits, he said: "Young man, you are engaged, and I want to compliment you on your saving ability. I always insist upon employing only men who have the good sense to save their money." We invite every young man in this community to open an account at this bank.

Every merchant appreciates what these advantages mean in store lighting.

Good lighting in stores pleases customers; shows off goods to the best advantage; promotes sales; enables the customer to obtain exactly what he wants.

The Tungsten lamp gives a pure white light, soft and clear. It is the nearest artificial approach to sunlight.

Properly installed and fitted with correct shades and reflectors, Tungsten store lighting and plenty of it is so economical that it can be afforded by the smallest shopkeeper.

Our New Business Department will be glad to send an expert to investigate your lighting needs and make suggestions on a scientific basis.
