tution was substituted for the customary roll-call, after which favorite authors and selections from them were discussed. Mrs. E. G. Flanagan read a very interesting article upon the subject of the afternoon, "American Novelists." Very few of the club members were absent at this meeting. No regular business was transacted. The club will meet next week, Monday, at the home of Mrs. J. M. Upton in West Marshfield.

Carl Albrecht and wife and daughter, Vera, will leave soon for California where they will spend a month or six weeks at the principal points of interest.

Mrs. L. G. Johnson of Myrtle Point was entertained by Mrs. E. E. Straw at an afternoon of sewing, Wednesday. Those invited to meet Mrs. Johnson were Mrs. Dungan, Mrs. Farrin, Mrs. Houseworth, Mrs. Harigan, Mrs. Adelsperger, Mrs. Milner and Miss Hutcheson.

Dr. and Mrs. Toye entertained a few of their West Marshfield neighbors Thursday in an evening of cards in farewell to Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Jennings who leave soon for Eugene.

The North Bend Bridge club will meet with Mrs. W. E. Best on the first Wednesday in December.

Miss May Preuss is entertaining the P. Q. Sewing club at her home this afternoon. Her guests are Misses Nora Tower, Frances Williams, Grace Kruse, Florence Alken, Ruth Allen, Eugenia Schilling, Marie Waller, Blanche Fortman and Helen Bradley.

The many friends of Al. Waterman, who was a traveling man with headquarters in Marshfield for several years up to about three years ago, will read the following account of his nuptials from the Nevada State Journal of Reno, with interest and join in wishing him and his bride all the happiness and prosperity that time can bring: "When two irresistible persons move toward a common center, the common center being Reno, something is bound to happen, according to an old law in physics. Several days ago Miss Edith M. Plummer of Shebago, Me., left her home and started for this city. About the same time, A. H. Waterman of San Francisco, also left for Reno, and the couple met, but it was not for the first time. Last evening they were married at the parlors of the Riverside hotel and they left for an extended honeymoon throughout Southern California and terminating with a visit to the home of the bride.

Mr. Waterman is a representative of the Baker & Hamilton company and covers the Nevada territory. He is well known by all knights of the grip as well as by the business men of this state. He was accompanied to Reno on his last trip by a brother, L. J. Waterman, who officiated as best man at the wedding. Mrs. Claire Knox appeared as bridesmaid, while captain and Mrs. H. J. Gosse gave both the bride and groom away.

"The wedding arrangements were kept quiet until a bunch of fellow drummers became aware of the impending marriage, and naturally they assisted in giving the couple a royal send off. After Rev. Brewster Adams had pronounced the binding obligation, the newlyweds and guests enjoyed the hospitality of Captain Gosse in the form of an elaborate banquet during the course of which Mr. and Mrs. Waterman were toasted many times."

Mrs. E. Mngus arrived home today via Gardner from an extended visit in California and Southern Oregon points.

At the regular business session of the Marshfield lodge of Fraternal Union, held at the Swedish-Lutheran hall Wednesday, six new members were subjected to the rites of initiation. Mr. Robt. A. Wilder and bride were present. After the business was transacted a social time was enjoyed.

Miss Grace Kruse is down from Isthmus Slough to attend the weekly meeting of the P. Q. Sewing Club.

On the evening of November 18, Miss Grace Johnson of Bunker Hill entertained a number of friends in honor of her eighteenth birthday. Games and music were the order of the evening as well as congratulations and good wishes to Miss Johnson. A sumptuous luncheon was served. Among those present were: Misses Esther Nelson, Lillian Thorwald, Lucy Thorwald, Signa Larson, Mina Clark, Vina Clark, Anna Gidmark, Olive Anderson, Myrtle Nelson, Violet Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Olsen, Messrs. Chas. Frodelius, Otto Edmund, Eric Edmund Albert King, Donald King, Willie Burman, Abel Instrom, Russ Nasburg, Henning Larson.

A surprise birthday party was given Miss Lucy Thorwald and Mr. Thorwald by some fifty of their friends last Thursday evening. Games and plays took up the evening and luncheon was served.

The The Coos Bay Motor Boat club held its first meeting in the new club rooms in the Myers' Building Friday evening, December 24. Nearly fifty people were present and all were delighted with the pretty appearance of the rooms, which had been decorated in greens and hung with the Club pennants. Bridge and whist were played by all but a few who preferred a milder excitement. It is planned to keep all scores at every meeting and at the end of the season to present to the one or ones having the highest scores a prize of both beauty and value.

Refreshments suggestive of the Thanksgiving season, pumpkin pie, cheese and coffee, were served. Miss Laura Kruse was chairman of the committee in charge which consisted of Mrs. M. G. Coleman, Mrs. Bartle, Miss Lily Butler and Professor Grubb. The next meeting, in charge of another committee, will be held at the Club rooms Dec. 18, and successive meetings will occur on the third Mondays of the month. Among those present were:

Dr. and Mrs. H. E. Burmister, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Windsor, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Williams, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Wallace, Mr. and Mrs. H. O'Mara, Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Coker, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Geisendorfer, Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Horn, Mr. and Mrs. M. G. Coleman, Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Byler, Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Loomis, Mr. and T. W. Rennie, Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Lemanski, Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Derbyshire, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Allen, Dr. and Mrs. I. Bartle, Misses Emma Johnson, Laura, Lena, and Thea Kruse, Elizabeth Hoelling, Bernice Hickey, Messrs. Wm. Wood, Prof. Honska, Geo. Dewey, Jay Grey, Geo. Artis, Robt. Banks, J. G. Mullen, August Hoelling, Roy Lawhorne, Geo. Hazer.

The Junior Prom last night at the Odd Fellows' Hall was all that the most sanguine expectation could picture it. At nine o'clock assembled groups of hosts, patronesses and guests, comfortably filling the hall without crowding it. The hall itself was prettily and attractively decorated with hanging cedar and ivy and two chains of pennants that crossed the ceiling from opposite corners. The five large lights in the center were shrouded in Japanese lanterns, shedding a soft glow over the place. Description would be incomplete without mention of the music, which was delightful, and the punch which was delicious. Every number was thoroughly enjoyed. There can be no hesitation in calling the first Junior Promenade given in Marshfield a complete and unqualified success. Of the two hundred invitations sent out, nearly all were accepted.

The committee on general arrangements was composed of Ruth Horton, Frances Williams, Ruth Allen, Will Horton, Max Reigard, Lee Byerly.

Mrs. C. R. Peck last evening entertained Mr. and Mrs. Jennings and their neighbors and friends at cards.

H. W. Painter and wife left early this week via Bandon and San Francisco for their old home in Oklahoma where they will visit until after the holidays. Mrs. S. E. Painter is here from Portland to look after the household and children during their absence.

The Christian Endeavor of North Bend were entertained in a delightful manner Friday evening at the Mizpah class rooms. For three months a membership contest has been in progress, the losing side to dine their opponents. Last night, the contest terminated in a count with the result that the losing side gave a large banquet in honor of the successful party. Those present were: Rev. D. A. MacLeod, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Smith, Mrs. Geo. Hazer, Mrs. Robt. McCann, Misses Grace Murr, Alice Waters, Gladys and Grace Kranic, Esther Imhoff, Bessie Immell, Mabel Grieve, Amy Reynolds, Mildred Rood, Naomi Smith, Grace Fulton, Josephine Griffin, Messrs. Clyde Smith, Ralph Clinkenbeard, Fred Reynolds, Glen Grout, Lewis Wier, Jay Grey, Bernard Hazer and Carl Gieves.

BAD WEATHER IN CURRY.

An epidemic of colds is prevailing in this vicinity, and is very much like the grip. Freak weather pervades all our country just now, and the general health is just as freakish.—Port Orford Tribune.

TO BRING BIG COMPANY HERE

VINCE PRATT ARRANGING FOR APPEARANCE OF THEATRICAL TROUPE AT MASONIC OPERA HOUSE.

Vince Pratt has practically concluded arrangements for bringing a big theatrical company here from Eureka for a week's engagement and may also have them make the other Coos county towns. He expects to hear this evening or tomorrow definitely as to whether they will come and when. If they come, they will play at the Maconic Opera House.

Raymond Teal, the manager of the company wired him as follows from Eureka: "Have company of twenty-two people, special scenery, elaborate wardrobe and twelve good bills. On our second week here to capacity houses. Will open for you December 3 or December 4, depending on time boat leaves here. Will wire exact date soon. Will play your theater six days and other towns also."

F. A. SACCHI expects to OPEN a SALE at the Perry, Nicholson Store, December 1, to dispose of a special HOLIDAY STOCK that he had ordered before he disposed of store. Remember it buying your Xmas Presents.

PAPER IS MOVED.

The plant of the defunct Floras Lake Banner was moved from Lakeport to Langlois last week, and we understand that the first issue of a weekly paper, to be published at the latter place, will appear this week. The new publication will be under the management of Messrs. Smith and Crippen, two capable and experienced newspaper men.—Port Orford Tribune.

HUGH M'LAIN IS SENT EAST

MARSHFIELD CHAMBER OF COMMERCE UNANIMOUSLY SELECTS HIM TO REPRESENT COOS BAY AT WASHINGTON.

At a meeting at the Marshfield Chamber of Commerce yesterday afternoon, Hugh McLain was unanimously chosen to represent Coos Bay at the Nation Rivers and Harbors congress which is to be held there December 6, 7 and 8, and also to appear before the Rivers and Harbors committee and endeavor to secure additional appropriations for harbor work here.

There was a large attendance at the meeting, and A. H. Powers suggested that Mr. McLain be sent to Washington to represent Coos Bay. R. M. Jennings and others spoke of the necessity and advantage of Coos Bay having one of its own citizens at the important gatherings rather than to have a Portland man represent this section. Mr. McLain was by a vote unanimously elected.

Besides the harbor work, Mr. McLain will take the necessary steps to prevent the making of the port of Coos Bay a subordinate port to the Portland Customs office. A resolution was adopted condemning such a move and declaring that Coos Bay should be maintained as an individual port of entry. Bandon and Coquille will be asked to assist in having this maintained as an independent port of entry. Copies of these resolutions will be sent to the members of the Oregon delegation in Congress, C. A. Smith, and C. R. Smith asking them to oppose such a move. Dr. McCormac and Dr. Tower will also take the matter up.

At the meeting, $235 was subscribed toward the fund necessary for defraying the expense of Mr. McLain's trip to Washington.

Those subscribing to the fund then were: C. A. Smith Lumber company $100, Oregon Power company $25, J. T. McCormac $10, A. T. Haines $10, Henry Sengstacken $20, Geo. Rotnor $10, Going & Harvey $10, Hugh McLain $25, Flanagan & Bennett $25, E. Mngus $10.

The cost of the trip will be much more than the $500 allowed Mr. McLain by the Chamber of Commerce. However, as he is intensely interested in the matter, he will defray the balance of the expense himself.

C. F. McKnight and C. R. Peck were appointed as a committee to draft resolutions favoring Coos Bay which Mr. McLain will introduce at the Rivers and Harbors Congress.

Besides this work, Mr. McLain will secure other data showing the necessity of the construction of jetties here for improving the bar, and will work hard for it.

If he finishes his work in Washington in time to permit it, he may return via the Panama canal. His object is to inspect it and secure ideas that will prove valuable in enabling Coos Bay to take advantage to the greatest possible extent of the opportunities the opening of the great waterway will offer.

J. H. Flanagan as chairman of the committee appointed to raise the balance of the funds quickly secured them this afternoon.

GAVE HER LIFE FOR HER MOTHER

Miss Avi Smith Jackson, Novelist, Contracts Fatal Illness While Nursing.

(By Associated Press to Coos Bay Times.)

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—The death from exhaustion of Miss Avi Smith Jackson, novelist and short story writer, was announced here today. She died late yesterday at her home after having nursed her mother who was ill of pneumonia, day and night until the crisis was passed, and then was herself seized with sickness which proved fatal. Although a prolific writer, she died penniless. A charitable organization will have charge of the funeral and take care of her mother and sister.

His Masterpiece

The Adam Schaaf Piano itself is an evolution of over a third of a century of piano makers. Ever since 1873 when the first Adam Schaaf Piano was built, it has represented artistic quality and industrial integrity. It is the elaboration of every minor part into a perfect whole that makes the Adam Schaaf Piano a work of art. It has always been a piano of Dignity and Refinement, known for its purity of tone and rich sonorous quality.

As in 1873, so in 1911, the traditions of quality and integrity are religiously observed and maintained. The Adam Schaaf Piano was and is now a piano of the highest musical excellence. It will be kept so.

IS STRICKEN AT GOLD BEACH

HOBO SUPPOSED TO BE THOMAS KANE OF CHICAGO DIES WHILE COMPANIONS SLEEP FOLLOWING ORGY.

GOLD BEACH, Ore., Nov. 25.—The Gold Beach Globe says: "Last Wednesday morning about noon the quietness of our little burg was startled by the announcement of a man being found dead in the back room of what is known as the Browning building. In the rear of this building is a fire place and it is sometimes used by the local boys in exercising their judgement in money matters. On Tuesday evening some of the local boys repaired to this room, for a social evening, and found it in possession of four or five half drunken hobos, three of whom, it was learned afterward had hit the town Saturday night. Some of the boys had a bottle of whisky, and treated those in the game and set the bottle down on the floor. The hobos helped themselves to the booze and when the gamblers wanted another drink their bottle was empty and their only alternative was to send for another bottle. According to the evidence at the Coroner's inquest this was repeated many times during the session. The hobos in return for their free booze entertained the onlookers with jigs and clogs and comic songs, and etc., until they became paralyzed with drink and lay down to sleep off their jag, and were in this condition when the local boys left. The next morning different ones looked into the room and saw them lying around over the floor as drunken men will.

"One man lying near the entrance was blackened up like unto a minstrel soundly sleeping. About noon they all awoke, but one and then it was discovered he was dead. The authorities were immediately notified. Robert Walker, who had just qualified the day before as Justice of the Peace, was notified by phone, returned and empaneled a jury. "The first witness placed on the stand was one of the hobos and claimed he had only known deceased about two weeks; having come from Bandon with him. He said deceased name was Thomas Kane. However, in the personal effects found upon the deceased was a receipt for hospital dues paid at Bandon by J. W. Hollaway. On the inside label of his vest was a Bartender's union button. The witness said that the deceased told him that he came from Chicago. Nothing farther could be ascertained by the jury as to who he was or where he came from."

J. H. UPTON RETIRES.

Father of Marshfield Serves Long Term as Land Commissioner.

The following item from the Port Orford Tribune will be of interest to the many friends here of J. H. Upton, father of J. M. Upton of Marshfield: "The writer, H. T. Stewart, made a trip to Langlois last week where he took over all the paraphernalia, etc., pertaining to the office of U. S. Commissioner that his predecessor had on hand, and is now ready for business at his office in Port Orford. "Hon. J. H. Upton, the retiring commissioner, has ably filled the position for a score of years.

"On the 8th day of December next 13 years will have passed away since Mr. Upton has taken a step unassisted, for on December 8, 1898, he suffered a stroke of paralysis that left him an invalid for life—physically a child, mentally a giant—he has passed these many years in his big armchair before the fireplace ministered to by a devoted wife. Many would find such a life unbearable but not so with Mr. Upton, for possessed of a keen mind of literary trend he surrounds himself with reading matter, and derives a real pleasure in following the current events of the world. With the exception of his hearing, which caused him to resign as commissioner, Mr. Upton is holding his own remarkably well, and while his whitened locks portray his money than three score and ten years of age the contentment of the true philosopher that he has will no doubt lengthen his life many years."
