WAYS TARIFF LEGISLATION IS LIKELY TO BE ENACTED NOW

Senator Stone of Missouri Outlines Plans of Democrats in Congress.

DOES NOT THINK TAFT CAN VOTE IT

Report of Tariff Board Will Eliminate Excuse—Trust Legislation Also.

By Associated Press to Coos Bay Times.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 27.—The chances for tariff revision during the coming session of Congress are excellent if the House democrats content themselves with separate bills dealing with wool, cotton and other schedules. In the opinion of Senator Stone of Missouri, democratic member of the Senate Finance committee. The Missouri senator, who returned to Washington last night, returned in an interview that the democrats and insurgents, no doubt, could get together on separate measures just as they did last summer, and that as the tariff board's report on wool and cotton is promulgated early in December "the President will not now have this excuse for vetoing such wool and cotton bills as congress may approve." Referring to the probability that the President will make the revision of the Sherman anti-trust law a feature of his annual message, Stone said the tariff and trust questions were interlocked and that while the proposal to amend or supplement the Sherman law was of the highest importance, it was "of no greater consequence than the matter of lowering the tariff walls which shelter and protect monopolies."

Alderman Carney Files Charges Against Him and Other City Officers.

(By Associated Press to Coos Bay Times.)

MILWAUKEE, Nov. 27.—The impeachment of Mayor Seidel, City Clerk Carl D. Thompson and City Attorney Daniel W. Hoan, for alleged malfeasance and nonfeasance in office in connection with the 1911 tax assessment, is asked by Alderman J. P. Carney, in charges submitted to the common council today.

HARVARD MAY HAVE VICTORY

Football Experts Claim That She Won From Yale Under Strict Rules.

(By Associated Press to Coos Bay Times.)

BOSTON, Mass., Nov. 27.—A week ago football experts here declared that under a strict interpretation of the rules, Princeton's victory over Yale was illegal. Today critics on similar grounds are wondering if after all Harvard did not beat Yale Saturday. They base their claims of a Harvard victory on rule six, section nine, which would seem to indicate the incompleteness of the forward pass made by Camp from behind Yale's goal line, constituted a safety and should have scored Harvard two points.

No Virtue in Pulling Apart

"In all debates let truth be thy aim, not victory or an unjust interest. And endeavor to gain rather than to expose thy antagonist."—William Penn.

A SPIRIT OF contentiousness is not compatible with effective collective effort. It therefore interferes with intelligent cooperation to the large ends of community life.

Those communities are most contentious which have most causes for division. A city located on opposite banks of a river, a city where sudden development makes new alignments of commerce—a city made up of a number of towns that have at one time been independent of each other, each has problems of its own.

Communities moved by the enthusiasm of a progressive and united effort in the end always take the lead.

The progress of civilization is progress in intelligent collective effort, therefore getting away from contentiousness is the beginning of wisdom. The individual grows in grace and power for good in about the degree that he puts the emphasis on what he can join his neighbors cordially in, and the community made up of such individuals soon possesses the wealth and holds the leadership.

The present city campaign may be made very damaging to the community's best interests by bitter invective, and personal prejudice and contentiousness. The Times will not be a party to any such movement. With this paper the city campaign has been one of principle and the principle involved is the city ownership of the water system. Dr. E. E. Straw has publicly expressed himself as opposed to municipal ownership. He has repeatedly stated that he did not wish to again be a candidate. He has been put forward by his friends. His candidacy represents the wishes of J. W. Bennett and other friends interested in private ownership of the water system and a long time franchise. The Times wishes to make it plain here that there is involved no question of the honesty of Mayor Straw's motives nor his integrity. One of his strongest virtues is his loyalty to his friends and his open and plain statement of his opinions at all times and in all places. The sincerity of his belief that municipal ownership is not the best thing for the city is unquestioned and untainted by any reflection of any character. Therefore, let it be made a problem of policy and principle, and not one of personality that is to be solved. Honest men may differ as to policies and principles but after the fight is over there need be and should be none of the bitterness of personal contentions.

Contentious people and communities expend their energies speaking their minds and clearing the atmosphere to such an extent that they have time and disposition for little else. They neither get ahead themselves nor permit anybody else to prosper. In the end being left behind, they declaim against the lack of individuals and the natural advantages of towns that have won out. It is not necessary to the purpose of intelligent working together that we should have peace so thick that we are submerged in it. But it is necessary that we should seek out all reasonable opportunities to pull together and avoid the personal, factional fight. When there are questions of city or communal welfare let us take them up as problems of principle and so solve them. The important thing is to recognize everywhere in life that there is no virtue in pulling apart. That is the folly of savage life. There is a lot of savagery in the world. The slow process of elimination is about step with step of the world's progress. The real virtue is in finding the things that are altogether good on which we can agree.

We can all agree that all the candidates are good citizens and neighbors even if we can't agree with all their opinions. We may agree on conceding their honesty but differ as to their judgment. Every voter who believes in municipal ownership of the city waterworks and in refusal of a long time franchise or a long price should cast his vote for R. A. Copple.

WHITE GIVEN $10,000 PRIZE

International Aeronautic Federation Decides Old Flying Machine Controversy.

(By Associated Press to Coos Bay Times.)

NEW YORK, Nov. 27.—The Aero Club of America has unofficially dispatched from Rome advising it that the International Aeronautic Federation has awarded the $10,000 statue of liberty prize to Claude Grahame White, there being doubt that his machine was fouled by a pylon. The race was first awarded to J. B. Moisant, since dead. When the award was protested by Grahame White and overruled on technical grounds by the International federation, the decision was given by the Aero Club to Count de Lesseps, third in the race. Grahame White, who was second in the race, is now declared winner by the highest authority in aviation.

WATERWORKS REAL ISSUE

"Voter Says That Only Question Involved in Coming City Election."

Editor Times:

As I view the political situation at this time, it is of vital importance that the people be aroused to a real understanding of conditions as they exist. There is an effort being made by those who are directly interested to cover up the real issue, i. e., the water question.

For six long years Dr. Straw has been mayor of this town. Every day of all this time the Coos Bay Water company has violated its contract. They have given us neither the quantity nor quality of water they are required by law and franchise to give. The lives of our people have been endangered, our homes and business blocks have been unprotected. In some instances, our home builders have been compelled to lay the mains in the streets in order to secure water for their families. By this unprogressive policy, building has been retarded, manufactures have been discouraged, insurance rates have been high. Every man has been injured and yet the mayor has made no effort during all these years to correct this evil.

Mr. Voter, can you have any faith in his promises now, especially since you know his main supporter is J. W. Bennett of the Coos Bay Water company?

He knew of the unwholesome condition of the water last spring, yet he made no effort to protect the lives of our people. He has known that large parts of our town are without fire protection, that the High school building is unprotected. Yet he has never raised his voice in behalf of these people or this building. R. A. Copple says if he is elected he will compel the Coos Bay Water company to make the necessary extensions and improvements or sell their plant to the city at a reasonable price, so that the city may make these needed improvements. This is definite and to the point, and he has ample law on his side to make good. Mr. Voter, it is up to you. R. A. Copple has done some things for himself. He can do some things for the town. Will you give him a chance?

The contest is on. It is between the Coos Bay Water company and the town. Which side are you on? A VOTER.

SAILORS GAVE UP THEIR SHIP

Crew of Vessel Which Stranded With W. J. Bryan and Party Picked Up at Sea.

(By Associated Press to Coos Bay Times.)

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Nov. 27.—The steamship Admiral Schley from Port Antonio arrived here today having on board forty-four sailors of the steamship Prinz Joachim which was picked up at sea. The Prinz Joachim was stranded at Altwood Bay last Wednesday and is presumed to have been abandoned by her crew. W. J. Bryan and the other passengers aboard were taken off by other steamers soon after she struck.

The Admiral Schley was in wireless communication with the Prinz Joachim Wednesday and early Thursday Captain Jensen of the Schley was asked to look out for several boats drifting with members of the crew. He set his course for the Prinz Joachim and picked up one boat with seven men and later the Joachim took off thirty-seven more of the crew. The passengers on the Joachim had been taken off Wednesday by the steamer Segreanca.
