GOOD EVENING. Do that which is assigned thee and thou canst not hope to much or dare too much. BMERSON.

ONLY ONE WAY. There's only one method of meeting life's test; Jes' keep a-strivin' an' hope fur the best;

This world would be tiresome, we'd all get the blues, If all the folks in it held just the same views;

If you're leadin' an army, or buildin' a fence, Do the most that you kin with your own common-sense.

The plants that we're passin' as commonplace weeds Oft prove to be just what some sufferer needs.

SENSATIONAL SERMON TOPICS

An excess of dignity is fatal to a clergyman's usefulness, but too many preachers in an endeavor to attract hearers go to the opposite extreme, thinking that sensationalism to the point even of irreverence will achieve their object.

FINE RECORD TO LEAVE

(From Eugene Guard.) City Attorney John M. Pipes resigned the other night, after several years of service, because of his removal from the city.

WEST TO STOP HANGING NOW

Oregon Governor Says There Will Be No More Executions While He Serves.

SALEM, Ore., Nov. 27.—Cobwebs will line the door of the execution chamber and dust will lie thick on the scaffold at the State Penitentiary before there is another legal execution in the State of Oregon.

As a parting move, just before leaving for the east and his trip on the Governors' special, Governor West commuted to life imprisonment the sentence of Jans M. William Hassing and issued a formal statement to the effect that during his administration capital punishment will be eliminated in this state and that as a policy of the office all who are convicted of murder in the first degree will receive a commutation of sentence to life imprisonment at his hands.

Hassing was convicted of murder in the first degree for murdering his wife in Portland.

In his formal statement the governor said: "There will be no hanging in Oregon while I am governor of the state.

"I contend that the spirit and the civilization of this age call for the repeal of capital statutes as the punishment for first degree murder. I believe that imprisonment for life should be the penalty paid for shedding human blood.

"I recommended abolition of capital punishment to the last Legislature and will again make the same recommendation in 1913, unless the law has been previously amended at the general election of 1912.

"I will, and do advocate the repeal of the capital statute and the limitation of the pardoning power of the governor in relation to life sentences for first degree murder. I hope to see this reform accomplished before the expiration of my term of office and the present barbaric law wiped from the statute books of the state."

As in the case of Jesse Webb, Hassing was required to sign a statement that he would not ask for a pardon in his term in prison and that he would not ask for executive clemency or favor in any form and that he would not ask his friends to intercede in his behalf.

DEFINITION OF GENTLEMAN

There are various beliefs as to just what makes a gentleman. But in this 20th-century view of things, in his everyday dealings, he may be summed up in a few general principles that mark him such whether he be a doctor, lawyer, Indian chief, a poor man, a rich man, a beggar man, a thief.

A gentleman is one who does not smoke your cigars and tell others how he "knew your father when"— A gentleman is one who believes you innocent until you are proven guilty.

A gentleman is one who will accept your hospitality and not attempt to steal the affections of your wife.

A gentleman is one who is not envious nor indifferent to your welfare. A gentleman is one who shows as much courtesy to his wife in private as in public.

A gentleman is the man "higher up" who is big enough to grasp the hand of the man "lower down."

A gentleman is one who refrains from making a waiter feel cheaper than he appears himself.

And, above all, A gentleman is one who does not try to prove it!!!

ENGLAND FEARS GERMAN PLAN

Sir Edward Gray Delivers Speech on Anglo-German Relations.

(By Associated Press to Coos Bay Times.)

LONDON, England, Nov. 27.—Sir Edward Grey, secretary of Foreign Affairs, today cleared the political atmosphere and poured oil on the troubled waters of the Anglo-German relations, in a speech in the House of Commons.

The foreign secretary reviewed the whole Moroccan episode from the sudden appearance of the German gun-boat Panther in the port of Agadir up to the signing of the Franco-German treaty. He unflinchingly upheld the attitude of the British government but at the same time declared its action was never antagonistic to Germany or to any settlement she was able to arrange with France which did not threaten the rights of Great Britain.

Sir Edward Grey made no secret of the fact the situation at once time was tense. Great Britain had no secret treaty and both France and Russia know perfectly well that British public opinion would not support any provocative or aggressive action against Germany. Germany's strength was in its self guarantees that no other country would seek quarrel with her, but if a nation had the biggest army in the world and a very big navy and was going to build still a bigger navy, then that nation must do all in its power to protect the natural apprehensions of others lest that power should have aggressive intentions toward them.

A MAIL CARRIER'S LOAD

Seems heavier when he has a weak back and kidney trouble. Fred Dueben, mail carrier at Atchison, Kansas, says:—"I have been bothered with kidney and bladder trouble and a severe pain across my back. Whenever I carried a heavy load of mail, my kidney trouble increased. Some time ago, I started taking Foley's Kidney Pills and since taking them I have gotten entirely rid of all my kidney trouble and am as sound now as ever." Foley's Kidney Pills are tonic in action, quick in results. No matter at what stage your kidney trouble may be, take Foley's Kidney Pills at once for quick and permanent relief.—Red Cross Drug Store.

CHANGE MAIL TO COOS BAY

If Old Coos Bay Wagon Road Isn't Kept Open, Will Use Myrtle Point Road.

Unless Coos county keeps the Coos county end of the old Coos Bay wagon road open in good shape, the Coos Bay mail service will be transferred to the Myrtle Point road.

This was the announcement made here today by C. F. Barnard, the mail contractor, who is here from Roseburg. Mr. Barnard says that he is acting on instructions from Inspector Morse of the United States Postoffice Department. He says that Mr. Morse informed him that it was entirely up to the people of Coos Bay to see that the road is kept in passable condition and if it is not, the postoffice department will simply order the mail changed.

Mr. Barnard says the Myrtle Point road is being kept up in much better shape than the old Coos Bay wagon road. When a tree falls across the Myrtle Point route or a slide occurs there, the trouble is quickly obviated. On the old Coos Bay wagon road, a couple of men are working in the canyon but are not doing very much work, according to the stage drivers.

J. D. Laird, who was in today, says that a slide that occurred on the Brewster Hill, two weeks ago, has not been touched and unless something is done soon, neither the old or new road there will be passable.

Mr. Barnard says that the Summer end of the road is now in fine shape as a result of the planking put on through the combined efforts of the Coos county commissioners and the Marshfield Chamber of Commerce. However, he feels that in cases of slides, trees falling across the road, etc., the supervisors or commissioners should see that the highway is quickly cleared.

He says that unless this is done, he simply will have to change the service. The mail on the Myrtle Point road has been ahead of the schedule every day so far with one exception when a slide occurred there.

Peat is utilized as fuel in a new way in Sweden whereby it is pulverized and blown into a combustion chamber in the form of fine powder by an electric fan.
