NAMARAS PLEAD GUILTY TO LOS ANGELES CRIMES

OYALTY! It is a strong and beautiful word. Loyalty and courage and honor are things that are precious to honorable men. If a man is not loyal he is not true to the thing he undertakes. If you are not loyal you are going to fail. Don't cheat. Don't pretend you are loyal. Don't make a bluff. Be loyal, feel loyal, then you wont have to act loyal. You must have the fabric of loyalty woven into your very being, let it intermingle with your very blood. To be loyal to one it is not necessary to be disloyal to another. Loyalty should also carry with it a spirit of fairness and justness that strengthens and

While the dispatch does not so state, it is underthat Jas. B. McNamara's plea of guilty is to the Angeles Times' dynamiting outrage in which twentylives were lost. No lives were lost in the Llewellyn Works. In the indictment of murder for which a was being secured to try Jas. B. McNamara, the of onyl one of the twenty-three persons killed in os Angeles Times' outrage was specifically charged. Times' dynamiting was one of the most atrocious ges in modern history. For years, the publishers be Times had been fighting the labor union organizaand it was charged that this policy was the incenor dynamiting the plant. Job Harriman, one of the meys for the McNamaras , is the socialist candidate mayor of Los Angeles in the election which will be next Tuesday and it is presumed that the unexd finale of the McNamara case will have a big influon the result of that election.)

fortifies the original virtue. A vast amount of trouble in the municipal life of this country comes from a mistaken idea and a false ideal of loyalty by public officials. In their loyalty to their friends they forget the loyalty that is due their community and the people who elect them. City officials are public servants and it is their function to uphold the interests of the peoplenot to represent the special interests that make money off the public. If Dr. Straw had always been as loyal to the community that has honored him three times by election to its highest office, as he has been to his friends, there would be no cause for complaint. If Mayor Straw had been as loyal at all times to Marshfield and its interests as he has been to J. W. Bennett and his interests, the water question would not be the issue in the present campaign.

If the people of Marshfield desire city waterworks and are opposed to a fifty years franchise then the mayor and councilmen should strive to gratify their wishes-even if Nolan and Bennett and Claude Nasburg do not like it. The mayor and councilmen are not working for the Coos Bay Water Co. They are employed by the people and should do the will of the people. No man can become greater than his creator; no stream can rise higher than its source.

Mayor Straw and the council have, repeatedly granted franchises without referring them to the people. They would have granted the water franchise to Nolan and Bennett if it had not been for the fight made against such action by The Times. It is hardly fair for Dr. Straw to claim a virtue of being willing to refer the matter to the people when that action has been forced upon him. Dr. Straw and Councilman Coke both expressed themselves favorable to the water franchise. Both have expressed themselves as opposed to municipal ownership. Why elect them to office if you believe in the municipal ownership of the waterworks?

This not a matter of persons but principles. Be loyal to your honest belief and your friend should not ask you to be disloyal. Never were people given a more splendid opportunity of being loyal to themselves, loyal to their own best interests, and loyal to their city than the people of Marshfield now have. Be loyal to your honest convictions, be loyal to your town and cast your vote next Tuesday for R. A. Copple for mayor and city owner-

VESSELS RUSH TO AID.

(By Associated Press to Coos Bay Times.)

SEATTLE, Wash., Dec. 1 .- The Canadian fisheries steamer William Joliff, the salvage tug Salvor, and the United States revenue cutter Tahoma, arrived off Entrance Kyuquot Sound yesterday morning seeking to aid the distressed Canadian Pacific the cost of the despatch of Russian steamer Tees which struck a rock in the Sound and sent out distress signals, but the rescue vessel dared not enter the Sound yesterday because of the dense fog that prevailed.

North western, steamship The which was supposed to have gone to the assistance of the Tees, reported to the owners yesterday that she would arrive in Seattle today. The uncil has rejected the Russian ul- message did not mention the Tees, also was unable to enter Kyuquot Sound. The cessation of distress calls from the Tees is accounted for by the flooding of her engine room and the stopping of the dynamo. If the passengers and crew of the Tees were obliged to take to the boats they easily could have reached shore.

Probably the striking of the Tees was due to the fog. Fogs along Vancouver Island are now at their worst and the relief vessels may be held up many hours. The density of the fog shows the air and sea are calm.
