Good Housekeeping Magazine

Is the recognized standard household journal of the United States. Recently a Representative of this publication visited Coos Bay and tells one of her experiences in the January issue. Here is what she says and it was a gratifying surprise to us as we knew nothing of it until it appeared in the magazine.

GOOD HOUSEKEEPING MAGAZINE

Do You Care?

Is there, among the retail merchants who serve you, one of whom you could write as does this good friend of ours?

To the Advertising Manager

Dear Sir:

I had a very enjoyable surprise a few days ago, and it was so good that I feel I must tell you about it.

I am a stranger here and have been buying my groceries at whatever store happened to be the handiest, but was not satisfied with any of them. They did not quite measure up to the mark of cleanliness, etc., that I thought the grocery should.

What was my surprise a few days ago to find, a short way from the business section of the town, a real live Good Housekeeping Store. It was as clean as the most fastidious could wish. There were none of the conventional counters, but small tables spotlessly clean, with chairs at each, placed around the store. I talked with the proprietor, Mr. Nasburg, and found that he actually has tried to have his store patterned by the Good Housekeeping standard. He says that every month he reads the ads in the magazine and bases his orders accordingly.

It is the only store I have found in this part of the country that actually contains the good things advertised, and it is a great relief to go there and not hear that worn-out phrase "I haven't that brand but here is one that is as good."

Keep up your good work; Good Housekeeping is winning.

(Signed) MRS. C. E. FARNUM,
MARSHFIELD, ORE.

P. S. I have since discovered that Mr. Nasburg's store is called by the best people here—The Good Housekeeping Store.

That kind of a store—A store that is good enough to attract attention in a national magazine should be a good one for you to investigate. Come in and get acquainted with the store that is so good it advertises Coos Bay.
