BORN.

REDFIELD—To Mr. and Mrs. Roy Redfield, at their home in North Bend, Friday, January 5, 1912, a 9 3-4 pounds daughter. Mother and child are doing well and the father is as happy as a New Year's morning.

LILJEBLO—To Mr. and Mrs. Larry Liljeblo, at their home in North Bend, Sunday, January 7, an eleven-pound boy. Mother and son are doing finely and the father is more proud over his first born than all the people of Coos Bay would be over a new railway.

Very Ill.—Mrs. L. A. Steckel of Eastside, who has been quite ill, suffered a stroke of paralysis this afternoon and is now in a critical condition.

Meeting Postponed.—The meeting of the Terminal Railway which was to have been held Saturday afternoon, was postponed until next Wednesday afternoon owing to the inability of C. A. Smith and others to attend.

Local Case Up.—The case of F. K. Gettins vs. Patrick Hennessey has been set for hearing in the Oregon Supreme Court on January 25. The case grew out of the operations of M. L. Knuppenberg of Spokane here a few years ago when O. C. & N. property was being negotiated for.

Recovers Charm.—S. C. Small through a Times' found ad. will regain a Knights Templar charm that he lost the other day. J. C. Doane found the charm, advertised it in The Times and Mr. Small saw the ad just when he had about given up hope of recovering the charm which he prized as a gift.

Case Postponed.—The trial of the $25,000 damage case of Ole Sandberg vs. the C. A. Smith Lumber Company which was set for trial at this term of court has been continued until the April term. Sandberg is a millwright and is suing for damages for personal injuries sustained in an accident at the mill a few years ago.

Hrs. Accident.—E. H. Squire, the mail carrier between Marshfield and Empire, had an accident the other day that came near resulting seriously. One of the horses got entangled in some old wire, fell and broke the tongue of the wagon and before he could stop the team, the vehicle was upset. Neither he nor the horses was injured.

Ball a Success.—The ball and social given by the Socialists at the Finnish hall Saturday night was a decided success despite the inclement weather. There was a good crowd present. Miss Sneddon won the prize cake and Mrs. Gunhill Lund was awarded the prize as the best dancer in the hall.

Relative Dies.—H. S. Jury, a brother-in-law of Mrs. J. E. Edmunds of Marshfield, died at his home in Salem, January 4.

To Return Later.—Wm. A. Jackson, who with Thomas Nolan has been negotiating for a fifty-year water franchise here has written that neither he nor Mr. Nolan expects to return here until after City Engineer Gidley reports on the extensions and improvements that will be required in the system. Mr. Jackson is now in Chicago and says that while money is plentiful, everybody is playing a waiting game and probably won't do much until after the presidential nominations and possibly until after the election.

Poultry Rivals.—What promises to be a spirited and interesting poultry contest has been inaugurated by the entrance of Mayor F. E. Hague of Kittyville into the poultry business in competition with Mayor Backman of Ferndale. Mayor Hague says he is handicapped by the early start which Mayor Backman got but thinks he can make it up. Mr. Hague says while Backman gets 5 cents above the market for his eggs he expects to get 10 cents above because of the higher altitude on which his yards are located. He now has 19 chickens and averages one egg a day, and while this is rather low he has just purchased a young chicken that he thinks will pullet out of the hole.

CHAS. W. LAMBORN of Portland arrived here a few days ago to open a district agency for the Guarantee Fund Life Association of Omaha, Neb. He will have all of Coos and Douglas counties and the balance of Southern Oregon as his territory. Besides the life insurance, he will also engage in the real estate business, working with a large Portland firm which is planning to arrange for large excursions from eastern points direct to Coos Bay.

A. J. MENDEL left Saturday for eastern markets where he expects to place heavy orders for the Hub stores in Marshfield and Bandon for spring and summer delivery. He will also visit at his old home in Meadville, Pa., and it is likely that his brother, Joseph Mendel who conducts one of the largest clothing stores in Meadville, and his wife will accompany him to the coast and make a short visit in Coos Bay. Mr. Mendel will be absent about a month and will visit New York City and other large eastern centers, returning via Los Angeles.

School Resumes.—The Marshfield public schools resumed today after a two weeks' vacation for the Christmas holidays.

Start Next Week.—The Smith mill which has been shut down for repairs to the refuse burner and for other improvements in the plant, will probably resume operations next week.
