ACCOMPLISHMENTS.

THE frequent complaint among business men and others that the modern educational systems do not provide an adequate training in reading and writing and arithmetic, is leading to a more critical examination of the school courses of study and the time devoted to "frills and fads."

An investigator among the New York public schools, reports teachers as saying that the programme was so overloaded. With extras that there was little time to devote to the old-fashioned subjects of spelling and grammar. That such conditions exist is suggested by the inability of high school graduates to write good English and to spell words correctly.

The enthusiasm for nature study, basket-weaving and kindred subjects is all very well, perhaps, and adds a breadth of interest and practical culture to the conventional subjects. But so long as a knowledge of the "three R's" is of such fundamental importance in the after life and work of the average school child, it seems unwise to crowd them out for the sake of special and less universal requirements.

The Breakwater will sail at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning for Portland.

WITH THE TOAST AND TEA

HE WAITED.

There was work of importance he thought he would do.

But he waited awhile, And another, perceiving the chance, one day, Got busy and carried the honors away In a praiseworthy style.

He sat in a corner and pitted himself,

For he thought it unfair That another had done what he might have done And had honor and profit that he might have won, But the world didn't care.

Long before the national conventions there will be a beautiful array of sore spots to be found in both big political parties.

Gifford Pinchot asserts that he never said Roosevelt wouldn't accept a nomination in 1912. Next we may learn that Roosevelt never said so, either.

As further evidence that the pen is mightier than the sword, take that report that during 1911 the banks lost $15,000,000 through forged checks and drafts.

A grocery clerk who became a lawyer and then a politician is now lodged in a cell. His decline was so gradual that the last step surely doesn't cause him much annoyance.

It's all very well to talk of the latest style of dress made of bath towels, but we will shortly be hearing of new and expensive styles on towels. Ay, there's the rub!

M. C. HORTON

Introducing a man of local fame, Who likes the national banking game.

As president of the First National, He guides affairs in a way most rational.

A cultured man of rare good taste, Who doesn't believe in careless waste He likes the place of old Coos Bay And boasts the burg both night and day.

An optimist of first degree, Who takes life rather leisurely, And all that ever worries him Is simply this: He would be fat So he diets on this and diets on that.

He thinks some day that he will win But still he keeps on growing thin.

"Bootlegger is wanted at Carthage," reports an Illinois exchange. It would be much more to the credit of Carthage to announce that bootleggers are not wanted there.

A BOY'S WANTS.

Man wants but little here below, His pleasures never cloy; But many are the things that go To satisfy a boy.

He wants a tuzile and a knife, A fiddle and a goat.

A kit of tools, a squeaky fife, A natty sailing boat.

He wants a jerky printing press, A gun that loudly pops.

A million tin tags, more or less, And seven pecks of tops.

Man easily acquires enough To yield him endless joy;

But it does take a lot of stuff To satisfy a boy.

PLAY SATURDAY NIGHT

Biltmore Boys and Marshfield High School Basketball Game

The Biltmore Forestry School basketball team meets the Marshfield High school boys in the gymnasium here Saturday night. The Biltmore boys have not had much opportunity for practice but all have played on eastern teams and know the game. The contest has already given rise to much speculation and it is rumored that the fair sex will be out in force, many wagers of chocolate creams and bonbons having been reported with prospects bright for more.

The high school boys are anxious for the game as it will help them get into condition for the Myrtle Point game, which will probably be the hardest game of the season. Those who will line-up for the Biltmore team are Lamson, Segersten, Lagerstrom, Marston, Heath and Tardy.

IS AFTER BANKS.

Must Maintain Legal Reserve or Face Prosecution. (By Associated Press to the Coos Bay Times.)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 18. — Comptroller of the Currency Murray today took steps to compel all national banks in the country to maintain their legal reserve. The law regulating the reserves is most drastic in the national bank act, but never has been strictly enforced, it is said. Under the statute, the comptroller is authorized to appoint a receiver for any bank that fails to hold up its legal reserve, or to call on the Attorney General to revoke its charter.

THREE ARE GUILTY.

Coquille Youths Admit Guilt to Serious Offense There.

In juvenile court before Judge John F. Hall at Coquille Tuesday, two Coquille youths named Davis and Haskins, entered pleas of guilty to charges of contributing to the delinquency of a minor. Sentence was deferred until next Tuesday.

The complainant was a Mr. Holenbeck of Coquille.

A third man named McDonald pleaded guilty in circuit court to a similar crime against the same girl and will also be sentenced next Tuesday.

PAROLED IN COOS COUNTY.

Prisoner In Jail at Roseburg Thought to Be Wanted Here.

The Roseburg Review says: "Andrew Duffy, as he calls himself, who is serving a sentence in the county jail in default of a $100 fine for cruelty to animals, is believed by Sheriff Quine to be a paroled convict, named Ryan, who was originally sent to the penitentiary from Coos county for burglary. Quine's belief, formed at first on a description sent here by Sheriff Gage, of Coos county, was converted into absolute conviction Tuesday afternoon when he visited the jail and heard Duffy called "Ryan" by his fellow prisoner, who, himself, is listed on the jail record as Ryan. A photograph of Duffy will be forwarded to Sheriff Gage and if the subject is identified as the paroled convict then he will be returned to the penitentiary. Duffy and his partner were the companions of Jesse Lynch in the wild ride from this city to Glendale in one of Sam Smith's livery rigs about ten days ago.

ALONG THE WATERFRONT

The Redondo is due in early tomorrow from San Francisco.

The Nann Smith when she went out today had one of the biggest cargoes she has taken in a long time. She was drawing 18 1/2 feet of water forward and 19 1/2 feet aft. The improvements in the channel by the dredge Oregon enabled a heavier loading of the ship than usual.

The Hazel Dollar reached Los Angeles last week after an eventful trip from Coos Bay to the Orient last spring. After leaving here safely, she ran on the rocks in Puget Sound and was delayed a long time. Then in crossing the Pacific, she ran on a reef off Muroran, Japan, but finally reached Shanghai where she stayed during the thrilling scenes of the revolution there. Returning, she encountered some very rough weather.

Plans for four steamers, costing in all $1,500,000, to be operated between New York, San Francisco and the Orient by way of Panama, were in the possession of R. P. Schwerin, general manager of the Pacific Mail steamship company, when he left for the east with a view to finding a bulder. These plans were drawn by the company's own engineers, and call for vessels of the finest type, keeping within the limitations imposed by the Panama canal. Their length is 650 feet, with a 75-foot beam, the unusual width reducing the draft to thirty feet. With a speed of seventeen knots, the new oil burners are expected to make the run from New York in seventeen days, each carrying 300 first cabin, 200 second class and 300 steerage passengers in addition to 17,000 tons of freight.
