Nann Smith Coming—The Nann

Smith passed Cape Blanco early this morning and is expected in this afternoon. The weather has been very rough off the coast.

Special Sermons—"Does God Send Men to Hell?" will be the subject of the special sermon which Rev. Geo. L. White will deliver at the revival meetings at the Marshfield Baptist church this evening. Tomorrow night he will speak on "Hitting the High Places."

Alaska Cannery—John and Herbert Hume, nephews of the late R. D. Hume, who were formerly engaged in the salmon packing business on Rogue River and who have been residing in Portland recently, have arranged to engage in the salmon business in Alaska.

Open Gravel Pit—E. J. Thomson, who moved here last fall from Seattle, is arranging to open a gravel pit on South Inlet. He expects to be able to furnish it here more cheaply than it has been furnished in the past. In the railroad contracting business and made a specialty of concrete bridge work.

Meet Tonight—A meeting of the members of the Marshfield divisions of the Oregon Naval Militia will be held at the hall this evening and Capt. Macgenn, the new commandant, is anxious to have everyone who has been identified with the divisions since their organization to turn out. The meeting is called for 8 o'clock.

Records Missing—L. W. Traver, secretary of the Marshfield Fire Department, is compiling a list of the chiefs of the department since its organization. So far as he has been able to find, the records do not show who was chief in 1901, 1902 and 1903 and he is having difficulty in straightening out the history of the department. It was during those years that the department divided into four companies.

Special Term—Sheriff Gage, who is here from Coquille, expects a special term of court will be called some time in March to try the Foote and Bestcott murder case. He has not been apprised of the exact date. The next regular term of circuit court will not be convened at Coquille until the fourth Monday in April.

Finds No Money—J. C. Kendall, who has been looking up the estate of Louis Molassi, one of the victims of the launch North Star disaster, has been unable to find where Molassi had any money on deposit in local banks. It was first reported that Molassi had over $1000 on deposit in the local banks. It is now believed that he carried all his cash in a belt around his body and this was lost with him when he was drowned.
