ROOSEVELT-TAFT BREACH.

ELECTION IS NOT ORDERED

this. Mr. Copple said he thought it had under the state railroad commission.

City Attorney Goss explained that the railway commission public utility law was held in abeyance by the referendum being invoked on it. Mr. Copple wanted to know about proceeding under a section of the charter that Mr. Goss had referred to at a meeting some time ago.

Mr. Goss said that there was a provision in the present city charter that had been copied from the old charter under which the water franchise had been granted which made the franchise subject to such requirements, etc., as the council might from time to time make. Just how the courts might construe this, Mr. Goss said that he could not promise, but that he thought it was a good point.

Mr. Copple said that there surely must be a way whereby the company could be forced to live up to its franchise. He said that when they wouldn't make an offer to sell the plant to the city at a price that the council could recommend to the city, he thought it was the duty of the council to try to find a way of making them furnish service. He said that owing to this offer being so high, there was nothing the people could do at a special election and he thought it was the council's duty to try to do something.

He said that the people's hands were virtually tied by either having to pay an exorbitant price for the old system or to try to put in a new system, which many thought was beyond reach. In consequence of this, he said, it seemed to him as though the special election was useless.

Mr. Allen said that it was so far as the $160,000 offer was concerned, but that it might be a good thing to get an expression on other questions. At any rate, he said it was a good thing not to keep the company in suspense.

Finally Mr. Goss suggested that if a basis of action against the water company to enforce better service was going to be laid, that it probably would be well to have two notices served on the company—one a resolution of the council and the other an ordinance requiring them to make the specified improvements. In compliance with this, Messrs. Copple and Merchant withdrew their original motion and the council adopted one instructing the city attorney to draft the necessary resolutions and ordinances to notify the company to make the improvements suggested by City Engineer Gidley.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the system strength in building up the constitution and securing nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

HUME ESTATE PLANS GIVEN

R. L. Macleay of Portland Tells of Improvements Contemplated There.

R. L. Macleay, president of the Macleay Estate Company of Portland which recently bought the R. D. Hume holdings in Curry county, arrived on the Breakwater today on his way to Wedderburn, where the company is planning extensive improvements in the near future. This is Mr. Macleay's second visit to Wedderburn, and he is making this trip to familiarize himself with conditions in order to definitely plan the improvements decided upon.

To a representative of The Times Mr. Macleay stated that the company will immediately start to build a saw mill and shingle mill, the former to have a capacity of 40 or 50 thousand feet per day. Other improvements will follow, as will the up-to-date outfitting and extension of the general store already in existence there. Special endeavor will be made to improve the farm in every way. An expert agriculturist, Mr. N. A. Leach, is placed in charge of all those improvements, which include the intensive and practical use of all the land now in cultivation and the breaking of new lands, and also the breeding of first class cattle, hogs and goats. Two prize hogs are being shipped to the farm on the next steamer.

Mr. Macleay is bringing two full-blooded ponies direct from Portland to the farm, and will go on horseback from here, leaving in the morning. He expects to remain at Wedderburn for two or three weeks. A party of several who will be employed on the estate accompany him.

Home Permanency vs. Home Monotony

This is a vital question for present day homebuilders—whether to have a house which in appearance must always remain the same or a house that will permit of a little refreshing occasionally. Neighborhoods change as do individual tastes—a frame house can easily be made to harmonize with its surroundings—a fresh coat of paint often will make it as good as your neighbor's new house—the same as a new suit makes you feel like a new man. At any rate a frame house is susceptible to most any change you might desire and while it is permanent it does not necessarily need become an eyesore or a monotony. There are lots of things we've observed about houses and lumber that you should know before building—come in and we'll give you our views.
