The second of the interclass series of basketball games was played on Thursday afternoon at the tabernacle resulting in victories for the Sophomores and Eighth grade over the Freshmen and Juniors, respectively, The game between the Juniors and the Eighth grade was a surprise the Eighth grade winning by a score of 6 to 2. None of the Eighth grade team had had any previous experience in the game, and they won out by superior aggressiveness all thru the game. Alton Johnson's playing was exceptionally good, and with experience he should make a strong player on the High School team.

The first game of the Grammar School series resulted in Milton Johnson's team winning from Haglund's by a score of 12 to 2, and Herbert Bradley's team winning from Jack Carter's 7 to 6. The games have already begun to show a great deal of good material for future High School teams besides creating sport for the boys.

Several of the High School students are busily at work preparing for the oratorical contest. The locontest will be held about the middle of April, and the winner of the contest will represent the school in the county contest, held the last Friday in April. Those who have so far announced their intention of entering the contest are Leslie Isaacson, Arthur Kolstad, Will Horton, Max Reigard, Ruth Horton, Agnes Sandquist and Alta Soule.

The Literary Society met Thursday evening and about twenty were present in spite of the rain. program consisted of a declamation by Lee Byerly, an essay by Nora Tower, and a farce presented by Arthur Kolstad, Lee Byerly and Max Reigard. President Isaacson called upon M. C. Horton for an extemporaneous speech and Mr. Horton responded with an address upon the importance of the training that students got in their literary work.
