THE LA FOLLETTE CHALLENGE

M. ROOSEVELT has thus far made no response to the challenge of La Follette.

The Wisconsin senator, on starting for North Dakota, issued this challenge:

When Roosevelt became president the total amount of the stock and bond issues of all combinations and trusts, including the railways then in construction was only $5,784,000,000.

This is short and specific. It is a startling statement. Mr. Roosevelt cannot afford to ignore it.

The result of the primaries in North Dakota prove that the voters there did not ignore it.

TAFT AND ROOSEVELT

Editor Times:— This from the Oregonian, March 1st, 1912: "Wall Street does not want any more Roosevelt, and this decision rules New York State," said Frank Schoureck, wholesale leather dealer of New York, at the Oregon.

"Taft is the national candidate, as his policies are known and satisfactory and under them the country is gradually recovering from the financial panic that Roosevelt brought, and the thought of him again in the Presidential chair, comes as a great shock."

Taft's "policies are known and satisfactory." Exactly! Every trust, every corporation, every bank, every big newspaper, every money bag of every kind and description with here and there an exception is shouting for Mr. Taft.

None the less, in the teeth of all this, Mr. Taft's admirers vociferously proclaim that he is an enemy of the trusts, the interests and organized greed.

Every political boss, every political hack, the hanger on, every old line republican, every standpatter, every advocate of the assembly, every opponent of the direct primary, the initiative and the referendum, the recall and Statement No. 1, with here and there an exception, is tearing his shirt for "self abnegation" Taft, yet they will all solemnly assure you on their most sacred honor, that their idol is a progressive of the latest and most modern type.

"The voice is Jacob's voice, but the hands are the hands of Esau." —GEO. WATKINS.

SOME FUNNY FOLKS

Editor Times:— My name is George—a foolish lad, I go about in rags, But when I get to be a man, I'll wave the dear old flag.

My mother's name is Cora, my father's name is Bert, I want to be a soldier, but I'm cut out for a flirt.

I got three little sisters no bigger than a pin, I wish I had a poodle dog, and it would learn to swim.

My mother runs a chicken ranch and I have to build the fence, But say, didn't I catch it when I broke the monkey wrench?

My ma says I'm a dirty boy—I am dirt from head to toes, If she would give me a handkerchief then I could clean my nose.

And ma she keeps me home from school and thinks I can learn to knit, But, Gee! I hear her scolding, so I think I'd better quit.

ANOTHER ENTRY IN THE GAME

Editor Times:— For some time past the public has been regaled with newspaper articles by parties having personal grievances against each other. An occasional article of this kind is somewhat diverting, but when continued grows tiresome. The public is not interested in whether or not M. C. Horton pays for his paper or whether Dr. Mingus made love to Joe Bennett.

DEAFNESS CANNOT BE CURED

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Cases out of the are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. We will give one Hundred Dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hail's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

Why not settle their differences as other men do and not burden the public with matters of this kind? They may think their articles are highly entertaining, but in my opinion they act more like a bunch of school children than broad-minded business men. I trust they will "get wise" and settle these little disputes. I would suggest that Joe Bennett kiss and make up with Dr. Mingus and Mr. O'Brien give Mr. Horton a year's subscription. —SUBSCRIBER.

OH! HULLY GEE! REFORM

EDITOR TIMES:— Oh, Holy Joe and Pat Nolan, hold my horse till I get on With whip and spur I'll make 'em sweat. Oh, Holy Joe, we will overtake you yet. Mayor straw the people won't endorse With his dreadful driving force, But the general public has some fun; Sure he is the mayor and the council all rolled in one.

If the common council will only try To postpone that election to the fourth of July— "But sure," says Nolan, "that's a holiday."

Yes, Mr. Nolan will fight like an army of bold Turks To get the hundred and sixty thousand for his water works. Before seventeen years more our wise men say The water of Clear Lake will be brought to Coos Bay.

Now Holy Joe, do mend your ways, And worthy people will you praise; Your follies past will be forgiven And you yet may travel the narrow path to Heaven.

If you feel very anxious about saving your soul, Consult the Christian Endeavor or Johnny Doll.

Now Joe, my friend, I want to make this plain, If you don't reform, we will call again. —A MARSHFIELD CITIZEN.

LOCAL OVERFLOW

Inspector Here—Capt. O. Wirlander of the U. S. Life Saving Station at Yaquina, who has been delegated to investigate the plan for moving the Coos Bay station to a point near Charleston or Coos Head, arrived here on the Breakwater today and will look into the matter and will report his findings to the United States Life Saving Department. He did not stop in Marshfield today.

AMONG THE SICK.

Mrs. F. A. Grindol of Bunker Hill underwent an operation at Mercy hospital this morning. Although she was in a rather critical condition today, it is believed that she will recover.

Mrs. Roy Moore, who was operated on yesterday for appendicitis, is getting along nicely.

ALONG THE WATERFRONT

The tug Gleanner sailed today for Gardiner with a cargo of general merchandise.

The Excelsior sailed today with a cargo from the Smith mill for San Pedro and other northern ports.

The Del Norte after unloading her cargo of re'wood on the Bessie Dollar, sailed today for Crescent City, taking back a small cargo of coal.

The Bessie Dollar, it is expected will complete taking on her cargo at the Smith mill in about a week so that she will be able to sail next Wednesday or Thursday.

Capt. B. W. Olson last night piloted in the Ascension with a cargo of 12,000 barrels of oil for the Oregon Power company. Capt. Bridgett of the Ascension had never been in here and was anxious for a pilot and when he heard that Capt. Olson was in port, he sent a wireless asking him to come out and pilot him in. Capt. Olson had the launch Ranger take him out about 4:30 yesterday but the Ascension was not as close to the bar as he expected and so he had the Ranger take him about six miles down the coast to meet her. They crossed in about midnight. Owing to a delay in arrangements for unloading, the Ascension will not sail from here until tomorrow.

COMMERCIAL STUDENTS NOTICE Students expecting to enter the commercial department of Marshfield High School next fall are asked to make that fact known by conferring with Principal Barker about the matter at once.

Good Electric Lighting Is Impossible Without Proper Lamps and Shades Satisfactory lighting results rest not alone upon the generating plant and distributing systems of the Electric Company. Receiving adequate electric current at correct voltage in itself will not produce good lighting. The new (Mazda) tungsten lamps give almost three times as much light for the same consumption of current as do the carbon incandescent lamps. We maintain representatives who are experts in illumination and who will prescribe for house holds not satisfied with lighting results. Telephone 178. Oregon Power Co.
