Arrives From Portland and Will Campaign to Make Marshfield "Spotless Town" Inaugurated Last Night.

At a meeting of the Marshfield Improvement Club at the Chamber of Commerce last evening, it was decided to have a "Clean-up Day" and convert Marshfield into a "Spotless Town." The date set was Saturday, April 27, and the matter was placed in the hands of Mrs. E. Mingus, who will select her assistants and appoint committees to take charge of the

Supt. Tiedgen stated that the school boys would co-operate in the "clean-up crusade." Mayor Straw stated that the city would also ald by defraying the expense of hauling away the garbage and refuse. He also stated that he would issue a "Clean-up Day" proclamation and have the city ordinances prohibiting the dumping of refuse and garbage on streets, in alleys or on lots set forth and see that these regulations forth and see that these regulations

While the one day will be specially devoted to the clean-up, an effort will be made to have it started even earlier than then so that it will be all completed before May 1 at the latest. Reports of garbage heaps on several lots in South Marshfield were made last evening and Mayor Straw prom-ised to see that they were removed. It is proposed to allow the school boys participating in the work to have some big bon-fires on the night of clean-up day. Besides the hauling away of refuse, etc., it is proposed to try and have some of the older buildings around town put in a more sightly condition by the use of whitewash or paint, School Children's Garden.
