COOS BAY COAL FOR PASSING SHIPS

COOS BAY TIMES

T HE story of how the passing steamer Opland put into Coos Bay yesterday and secured coal for the continuation of her voy-age. Is important as showing the value of the resources of this sy-tion. Coos Bay is the only harbor on the Pacific coast where coal may be taken from the mine's mouth and be taken from the mine's mouth and loaded on a vessel. Coal may be secured cheaper on Chos Bay than any other port on the constant in the steamer of the steamer Opland that it was near Chos Bay when its fuel supply be-constant from the steamer of the steamer opland that it may be fortunate for Coos Bay in further advertising the resources of this great harbor.

WITH THE TOAST AND TEA SAY GOODMORNIN'!

(Wrftten for The Times by C. J Howard.) When you chance someone to meet

As you hike out on the street-Say "Goodmornin'!"

Gad-a-mighty! What's the use Affers squirtin' Lemons' Juice

Th the face o' men an' things-Affers takin' ugly flings-At the boys at hit the fog-Say "Goodmornin'!"

'Ith a bunch o' smiles an' sich So shell 'em out, you feller, you. "An' give 'em to the one to who You know they'll be a blessin' to! 'You'll kick a stone plum off his feet

"An" pr'aps he'll win the second heat, As up the hill again he climbs Where sunny thoughts the brighter shines-Say "Goodmornin'!"

John Kronholm wants to know if a lady should fall in a faint, why shouldn't her hose supporter? That, John, depends on how much music you can get out of an elastic band. And if her hosiery had clocks on 'em the hands might help.

LAY PREACHERS.

Ah, my weary heart is reaching for nepenthe sure and true, for so many men are preaching that I don't know what to do! Tired and stricken, I do-termine some fat novel to peruse, and the book turns out a sermon, and my soul contracts the blues. turns out a sermon, and my soul contracts the blues. Worn by worldly strife and hounding to the abow. I go and find that the actors are expounding doc-trines that disturb my mind. And the daily prints are screeckling, sermons on the nation's crimes: and the magazines are preaching on the evils of the times; all the doctors are discussing health rules till they bring the tears, and the scientists ars fussing, pounding texts into our ears. Every one is bent on teaching, teaching us with voice and tongue; every one is bent on preaching till the last lone dog is hung. It would make the world less sol-spin, make our journey far more nice, if we once that contains no good advice; if the speaker in the in the prints, wouldn't may the folks and bore 'em forum and the writer in the prints, wouldn't mag the folks and bore 'em with a string of Helpful Hints.

Tom Coke, in charge of the con-struction of the Terminal railway, V. C. Gorst and family and Chas. King with Messrs, Fernley, Sinclair has awarded the contract to Noble and Kirkruff arrived here today after Brothers for driving the piling for the roadbed along North Front street. The work will start at once. It will be of standard trestle cona rather strenuous auto trip from Medford. Mr. Gorst drove a Cadillac and Mr. King a Packard. They came in via Drain to Scottsburg and thence to Allegany from where they brought their autos down by boat.

struction, four-pile bents with six-teen feet centers being put in. The eighty-pound steel for the Front street line is to arrive on the next Redondo and it is Mr. Coke's intention to put it in at once and put the street back in condition for travel. Noble's contract only calls for putting in the pillug for the one track along the east side of Front street. Mr. Coke said that he didn't know now when the other would be put in. He said he was endeavoring to build the line with the least possible in-convenience to travel and conse-quently didn't want to tear up too much of it at one time. He has laid off all of his crew with the exception of a half dozen men the exception of a half dozen men pending the decision of the Terminal company as to the plans, the negotiations with the Southern Pa-cific having made them a little uncertain about it.

Cadillac proved the superior and was used as a road breaker and also to pull the Packard out when the latter got stuck. The Packard carried the trunks and baggage. Messrs. Gorst and King have been operating an auto line between Medford and Jacksonville and came here with a view of operating a line out of Coos Bay. They say that many are planning to come here from Medford to locate.

They were three days on the road between Drain and Allegany, being the first machines over it this year. In many places, they had to fill mud holes at over a hundred feet to the stretch with brush and dirt to get their machines through. They wore practically all their chains and most of their mud-hooks were broken. Otherwise, their machines were through unscathed. It was a remarkable test for the autos. The
