Case Postponed.—The hearing of J. C. Coleman of the Owl saloon charged with selling liquor to Clifford Doane, a minor, was continued this afternoon by City Recorder Butler until Saturday morning.

Railroad Man Here.—Mr. Graham, a railroad engineer, has been on the Bay for the last few days and it is understood that his mission is in connection with a railroad project between Coos Bay and Roseburg. He is understood to have visited here sometime ago. Nothing has been given out about his plans.

Marshfield Cyclery Moves.—E. Bandel has completed the removal of the Marshfield Cyclery from North Front street to its new home on Broadway, across the street from the Times office. The rapid development of his business and a desire to be in quarters more convenient to bicycle riders prompted the removal. The new establishment has been thoroughly fitted and equipped for the business and will prove a popular place with Coos Bay bicycle riders.

Funeral Today.—The funeral of Robert Rooke was held today at the Coos River Cemetery. About fifty Masons and members of the Eastern Star from Marshfield attended it. Carl W. Evertsen had general charge. R. H. Walter officiated as chaplain and Rev. J. T. M. Knox delivered the prayer. Among the pall-bearers were Emmett Pierce, Wm. Longstaff, W. B. Curtis, Z. T. Thomas, J. T. Harrigan, D. W. Small, F. K. Gettins and J. H. Milner. The rain detracted somewhat from the attendance.
