If all the noisy candidates who toot the brazen horn-if all of these and kindred skates were busy plowing corn, we wouldn't need to fuss and fret about the nation's good; prosperity, as never yet, would rule our neighborhood. If tariff tinkers and the like would drop their futile loads, and work with shovels on the pike, we'd have the finest roads! Then every town would prosper well, the people'd sing a song, and merry as a marriage bell the world would roll along! If all the loafing Jims and Jakes who on the corners stand, would fix themselves with hoes and rakes and cultivate their land, a million wives who wash and scrub and carry in the wood, might say farewell to mop and tub, and live as matrons should. And ragged children, short of scads, their cheeks by famine thinned, might live in comfort if their dads would just cut out the wind. If all the men who take a horn some umpty times a day, would just pass up J. Barleycorn and walk the sober way, side-step the joints where lager foams to tempt the thirsty boy, then in a million darkened homes the will soon be completed and Supt. Tom Coke has only a small force of men at work now, putting on the finishing touches and getting ready for the paving, Require Permits .- Building Inspector Tribbey reports that several parties in town have not yet taken out permits for buildings which they are constructing or repairing and unless they do so in the very near future he expects to have some arrests made.

W. C. T. U. To Meet .- The Marshfield W. C. T. will meet on Thursday instead of Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Fannie Wheeler on North Ninth street, as the meetings of the various Ladles' Aids on Wed- fice. nesday makes it impossible for the ladies to attend the W. C. T. U. on that day.

convention met on May 25, 1836, also at Baltimore, and nominated Martin Van Buren for president and Richara M. Johnson for vice-president. The ticket was successful in the subsequent election. The third convention, held on May 5, 1840, at Baltimore, renominateo Van Buren, but named no candidate for vice-president, leaving that to the several states. It also put forward the first complete platform ever adopted by the party. Parts of this platform were incorporated into the deliverance of every national democratic convention prior to the Civil war, and its leading ideas has reappeared in many of the party plat-forms of the last 50 years.

In 1884 the national democratic convention again assembled in Baltimore. Van Buren had a majority of the instructed delegates for his nomination. James K. Polk was a candldate for vice-president. Unfortunately for Van Buren, he was not on the popular side in regard to the burn-ing question of the annexation of Texas. Again the two-thirds rule was introduced, and assured Van Buren's defeat. After a three days' struggle the nomination was given to Polk.

The convention which met at Cir-cinnati, on June 2, 1856, lasted four days and resulted in the nominati a of James Buchanan, of Pennsylvania, for president and John C. Breckenridge, of Kentucky, for vice-prestdent.

The most fateful convention which was ever held in the United States was that which opened at Charles-ton, S. C., on April 23, 1860, which Tasted 10 days and took 57 unavailing ballots, and which split the party into a Northern and Southern section, each of which had a separate convention in another place, and put up a ticket of its own. Miss Stanley returned to Portland last and Mr. Bleecker is underweek stood to have departed upon the same boat. The Portland Sunday Oregonian announces that a marriage license was issued there to a Mr. Bleecker and Miss Stanley but the given names do not correspond to the Coos Bay young people.

Will Finish Project to North Bend By Middle of Next Month.

Engineer Leefe of the Dredge Oregon reports that good work is being done on the fill just below the Stave Mill. A fine roadway has been made from the Stave Mill to the bulkhead, a distance of 700 feet. It is 30 feet wide and from five to eight feet deep. The bulkhead for the road was put in by L. J. Simpson.

The Oregon has already begun pumping into the big bulkhead. A good fill has been made on the property belonging to J. S. Coke and W. S. Chandler and work has been started on D. W. Small's property. The dredge has been pumping shells but recently got into a bed of sand, which is hard on the bulkhead as it does not stand up so well as the shells

It is expected that the work will be finished as far as the Porter Mill by or before the middle of July. There is a small amount of work in front of North Bend after which the dredge will be moved below North Point, into the lower Bay. There is not a great deal of work to be done on Pony Slough or North Slough shoals to cut them down to the requirements of the government project, which calls for a depth of 18 and a width of 200 feet.

D. M. Carlston, government inspector is taking soundings on the Empire ahoal today. It is not anticipated that there is much more to be done there, however.

A small cut will still have to be made in front of the Breakwater landing. Engineer Leefe expects to complete all the work specified in the government project in a very few months. Just what will be done after the project is completed he does not know, having had on instruc-tions as yet. He is not in a position to state if the dredge will be left here or taken out.

WINS PRIZE

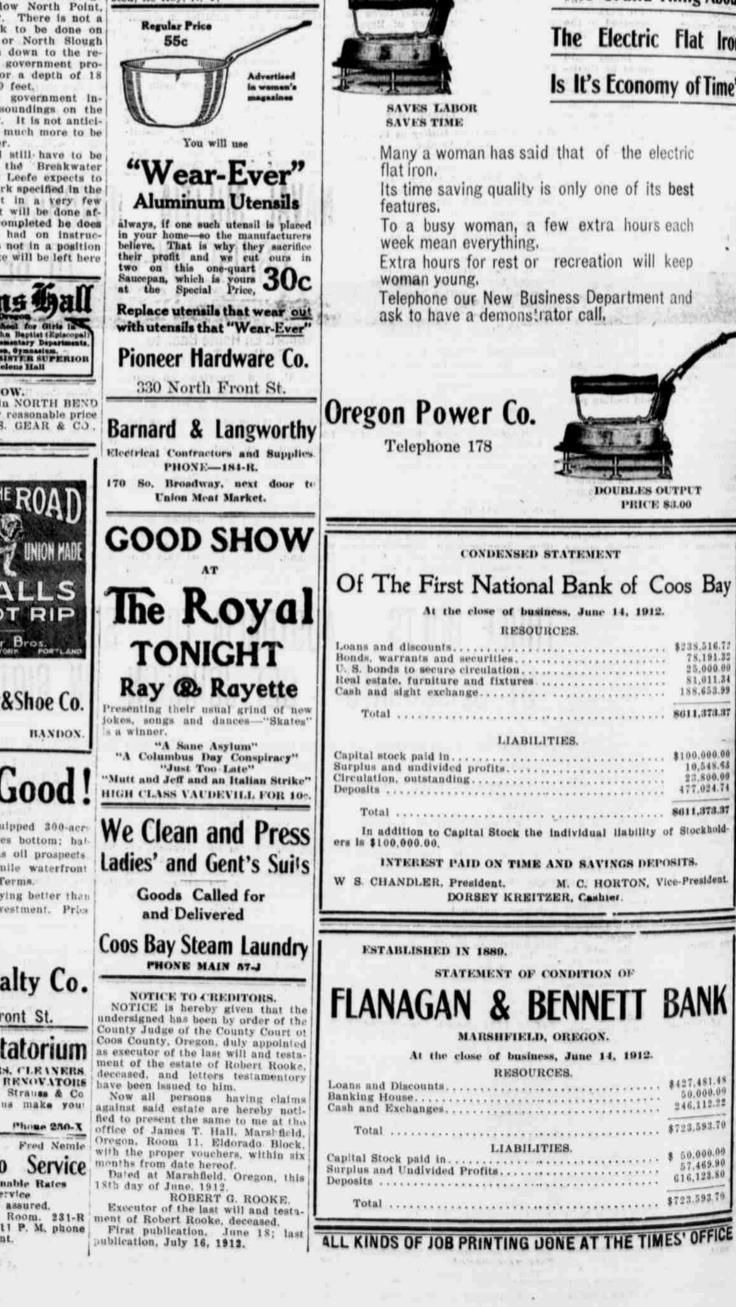

Emil Gabrielson, the boy who de-livers the Saturday Evening Post for Norton & Hansen, is wearing a smile that won't come off. There's a rea-son. He has just received notice that he stands third in the United States in the list of boys who have increased orders for the Post in the past six months. In addition to the honor he ben awarded a cash prize of $340,00 as a substantial appreciation of his hustling qualities.

The many friends of . the cheery faced lad will be glad to learn of his good fortune, which is worthily bestowed. Emil is not only a hard working boy but a deserving one as well. A portion of the money he makes every month is sent to his mother and this unexpected gift is doubly welcome.

democratic national convention which met in Chicago on August 30, 1864. was to prevent the party organization from going wholly to pleces. The convention adopted a platform which declared the war a failure and nom!nated Gon. George B. McClellan, of New Jersey, for president and George H. Pendleton, of Philo, for vice-president. Only three states ratified the convention's action.

In the convention of 1868, the only one ever held in New York, Moratio Seymour, of New York, was named for president, and P. P.Blair, of Missouri, for vice-president. This ticket was easily beaten by the republican ticket of Grant and Colfax.

The 1872 convention of the dem ... crats was held at Baltimore. It accepted Horace Greely, the nominee of the seceding element of the republican party, and named B. Gratz Brown, of Missouri, for vice-president, but the regular republicans in that year repeated their victory of 1868

In their convention of 1876, in St. Louis, the democrats nominated their strongest and ablest man, Samuel . Tilden, of New York, with Thomas A. Hendricks, of Indiana, for vice-president. They came within one vote in the electoral college of electing their ticket.

Since 1876 the national conventions and nominees of the democratic three-four hs of a mile waterfront party have been as follows:

1880, at Cincinnati, Gen. Winfield S. Hancock, of Pennsylvania, for president, and William H. English, of Indiana, for vice-president.

1884, at Chicago, Grover Cleve land, of New York, for president, and BIG FOURTH OF JULY CELE- Thomas A. Hendricks, of Indiana.

1888, at Chicago, Grover Cleve-land, of New York, for president, and Allen G. Thurman, of Ohio, for vicpresident.

1892, at Chicago, Grover Clev land, of New York, for president, and Adial E. Stephenson, of Illinois, for vice-president.

1896, at Chicago, William Jen nings Bryan, of Nebraska, for president and Arthur Sewall, of Maine for vice-president.

1900, at Kansas City, William 7 Bryan of Nebraska, for president, and Adlat E. Stevenson, of Illinois, ce-president.

1904, at St. Louis, Alton B. Parker of New York, for president, and Henry G. Davis, of West Virginia, for vice I resident.
