A clock serves to point out the hours, and a woman to make us forget them.

Some Coos Bay men are bashful when it comes to meeting their obligations.

And some Coos Bay people never forgive as long as their memories are in working order.

PERSONAL OVERFLOW

MR. AND MRS. HERBERT ARMSTRONG, of North Bend, were Marshfield visitors today.

HENDRYX BROTHERS were in from their ranch today, bringing in some of the finest vegetables and new potatoes that have been seen here this season. They brought a sample to The Times' office, including a head of lettuce that was as large as a head of cabbage.

A. H. DERBYSHIRE and J. H. Mullin of North Bend were in Marshfield today to try the Plat B annexation cases which had been postponed owing to Judge Coke deciding that he was disqualified from hearing it as he owned considerable Plat B property himself.

Lightning Strikes House—Word has been received here that the home of Guy Dipple, formerly steward at the Millcooma club but now a resident of Bandon, was struck by lightning during the storm last Monday evening. The lightning came in over the telephone wire and did comparatively little damage. The home of John Barrows, near the Dipple place, was also damaged.

No Operation—Mrs. Frank Denning has received another letter from her sister, Mrs. F. A. Sacchi, saying that Mr. Sacchi did not have to undergo an operation while in the hospital there, as was inferred from earlier advices. He is getting along nicely under treatment which did not require surgery.

NICOLS CASE IS DISMISSED

Judge Coke Refuses to Grant Divorce Decree—Counter Charges Made.

The case of Tom Nicols vs. Mrs. Mary Nicols was dismissed today by Judge Coke who refused to grant the divorce. Tom Nicols and Mary E. Nicols, the plaintiff and defendant, were the principal witnesses, not many being called in from outside. Nicols charged his wife with cruel and inhuman treatment and she made counter charges of infidelity.

STEALS BIKE; BOY ESCAPES

Young Lad Takes Wheel and Tries to Sell it—Runs When Officer Appears.

A young lad who appeared to be but about 9 years old proved himself to be quite a hand when he got away from the authorities after stealing a bicycle which belonged to Mr. Hayden of the dredge Oregon. The wheel had been left along side of the dredge in working and the lad got it and took it to E. Bandel of the Marshfield Cycles, offering it to him for $10. The boy told Mr. Bandel that his name was McGinnis and that his father was away. He also volunteered the information that Marshal Carter was in North Bend and proceeded to string Mr. Bandel in a very confidential manner. Mr. Bandel took him down the street and seeing Constable Cox, motioned for him, whereupon the boy made a break for liberty, running around in back of the Blanco Hotel where he disappeared. It has not yet been decided whether a reward shall be offered for his capture or not, but in any event the public is warned against a clever boy crook who goes by the name of McGinnis and who operates when Marshal Carter is in North Bend. The authorities believe they know who the lad is and hope to give him such a scare that he will not try to steal property and sell it, assume a false name and make up a story out of whole cloth in the future.

AMONG THE SICK

Mrs. R. H. Hyde is suffering from a rather severe case of blood poisoning in her hands.

Mrs. Robert Young, of Camp 3, who was operated on a few days ago, is doing very nicely.

Mrs. Roy Perkins, who recently returned to Mercy Hospital for treatment, is reported improving.

Mrs. Wm. Grimes who has been at Mercy hospital the past two weeks was able to return home yesterday. She is much improved.

A. P. Davis, who has been confined to his room at the Snyder Hotel for the past week by an attack of throat trouble, was able to be down town today.

ALONG THE WATERFRONT

The Fifield crossed in at Bandon this morning.

The Newark sailed from here for Bandon today.

The Hardy arrived here last night to take on a cargo of lumber at the Smith mill.

HIGH TRIBUTE PAID WILSON

JUDGE JOHN W. WESTCOTT OF NEW JERSEY LAUDS QUALITIES OF CANDIDATE FOR DEMOCRATIC NOMINATION.

(By Associated Press to the Coos Bay Times).

BALTIMORE, June 28.—The speech placing the name of Governor Woodrow Wilson, of New Jersey, in nomination for the Presidency was delivered by former Judge John W. Westcott, of Camden, N. J. Mr. Westcott spoke as follows:

New Jersey, once bound, but by the moral energy and intellectual greatness of a single soul, now free, comes to this great convention, in the glory of her emancipation, to participate in your deliberations, aid in formulating your decrees. The New Jersey delegation is not empowered to exercise the attributes of proprietorship, but is commissioned to represent the great cause of Democracy and to offer to you, as its militant and triumphant leader, a scholar, not a charlatan; a statesman, not a doctrinaire; a profound lawyer, not a splitter of legal hairs; a political economist, not an egotistical theorist; a practical politician, who constructs, modifies, restrains without disturbance and destruction; a resolute debater and consummate master of statement, not a mere phrase-maker; a humanitarian, not a defamer of characters and lives; a man whose mind is at once cosmopolitan and composite of American; a gentleman of unpretentious habits, with the fear of God in his heart and the love of mankind exhibited in every act of his life; above all a public servant who has been tried to the uttermost and never found wanting—peerless, matchless, unconquerable.

New Jersey has reasons for her course. Let us not be deceived in our premises. Campaigns of vilification, corruption and false pretense have lost their usefulness. The evolution of national energy is towards a more intelligent morality in politics and in all other relations. The line of cleavage is between those who treat politics as a game and those who regard it as the serious business of government. The realignment of political parties will be on this principle. The situation admits of no compromise. The temper and purpose of the American public will tolerate no other view. The indifference of the American people to politics has disappeared. Any platform and any candidate not conforming to this vast social and commercial behest will go down to ignominious defeat at the polls. Platforms are often mere historic rubbish heaps of broken promises. Candidates are too frequently the unfortunate creatures of arrangements and calculations. Exigencies, conditions, national needs and necessities make better platforms and produce greater leaders than does the exercise of proprietorship. A disregard of this first premise will bring our dreams crashing in ruins next November.

Again, the eternal conflict between equal opportunity and special privilege is upon us. Our fathers wrote the issue of that struggle in our Constitution. They declared all men to be free and equal. In a single century that principle developed the North American continent, leaving the world with its beneficence, inspired all nations with hope and made the United States the asylum of the world. Yet America, at this very hour, presents the most stupendous contradiction in history—a people politically free, while economically bound by the most gigantic monopolies of all time and burdened by a system of taxation which exploits millions to enrich a few. We have preserved the forms of freedom but are fast losing its substance. The evils of this condition are felt in a thousand ways throughout the land. Therefore it is that America is awake. Therefore it is that a mistake in our premises will be fatal. Therefore it is that the situation, national exigency, the crisis, call for the right man. Therefore it is that a silent and resistless revolution demands our patriotic and best judgment. Individuals are as nothing, and personal ambitions are worse than nothing. If the chosen candidate falls in any sense or in any degree fully and completely to meet the call of the nation, he is doomed to defeat.

Men are known by what they say and do. They are known by those who hate and oppose them. Many years ago Woodrow Wilson said, "No man is great who thinks himself so, and no man is good who does not try to secure the happiness and comfort of others." This is the secret of his life. Later, in his memorable effort to retain good scholarship and democracy in Princeton University, he declared, "The great voice of America does not come from seats of learning. It comes in a murmur from the hills and woods, and the farms and factories and the mills, rolling on and gaining volume until it comes to us from the homes and common men. Do these murmurs echo in the corridors of our universities? I have not heard them." A charlatan call to the spirit that now moves America. Later he shouted, "I will not cry peace so long as there is sin and wrong in the world." Here is the very soul of the silent revolution now solidifying sentiment and purpose in our common country. The deeds of this moral and intellectual giant are known to all men. They accord not with the shams and false pretenses of politics, but make national harmony with the millions of patriots determined to correct the wrongs of plutocracy and re-establish the maxims of American liberty in all their regnant beauty and practical effectiveness. New Jersey loves Woodrow Wilson not for the enemies he has made. New Jersey loves him for what he is. All evil is his enemy. The influences that have opposed him have demonstrated his availability and fitness on the one hand, and exposed the unavailability and unfitness of some others on the other hand. The influence that has opposed him blights and blasts any cause and any person it espouses. That influence has appealed to the sordid, low and criminal. That influence fattens on ignorance and avarice. The man that accepts its aid, so far as his public usefulness is concerned, would be more fortunate had a millstone been tied around his neck and he had been cast into the depths of the sea. New Jersey believes that the opposition to Governor Wilson, such as it has been, necessitates and secures his triumph.

Similar necessities, motives and causes impel all men alike. The same necessities, motives and causes which draw, as by omnipotence, substantially all New Jersey about this great and good man, are identically the same necessities, motives and causes that are in resistless motion in every State in the Union. Its solidarity cannot be disintegrated. False argument falls broken against it. A revolution of intelligent and patriotic millions is the expression of these necessities, motives and causes. Therefore New Jersey argues that Woodrow Wilson is the only candidate who can not only make Democratic success a certainty but secure the electoral vote of almost every state in the Union.

New Jersey will endorse his nomination by a majority of one hundred thousand of her liberated citizens. We are not building for a day, or even a generation, but for all time. Let not the belief that any candidate may succeed rob us of sound judgment. What would it profit the Democratic party to win now only to be cast out four years hence? The Democratic party should be commissioned to carry on a great constructive program having for its end a complete restoration of the doctrine of equal rights and equal opportunity—without injury and wrong to anyone. Providence has given us, in Woodrow Wilson, the mental and moral equipment to accomplish this reincarnation of Democracy.

New Jersey believes that there is an omniscience in national instinct. That instinct centers in Woodrow Wilson. How can his power in every State be explained? He has been in political life less than two years. He had no organization, only a practical ideal—the re-establishment of equal opportunity. Not his deeds alone, not his immortal words alone, not his personal powers alone, but all combined, compel national faith and confidence in him. Every crisis evolves its master. Time and circumstances have evolved Woodrow Wilson. The North, the South, the East and the West unite in him. Deep calls to deep. Height calls to height.

"From peak to peak, the rattling clouds among,
Leaps the live thunder. Not from one lone cloud
But every mountain hath now found a tongue
And Jura answers through her misty shrouds
Back to the joyous Alps, who call to her aloud."

The lightning flash of his genius has cleared the atmosphere. We now know where we are. The thunder of his sincerity is shaking the very foundations of wrong and corruption.

If Providence could spare a Washington to lay the foundations of the United States of America; if Providence could spare a Jefferson to make Democracy a living reality; if Providence could spare a Lincoln to obliterate chattel slavery and unite and brotherhood, New Jersey appeals to this convention to give the nation Woodrow Wilson, that he may open the gates of opportunity to every man, woman and child under our flag, by reforming abuses, and thereby teaching them, in his matchless words, "to release their energies intelligently, that peace, justice and prosperity may reign."

New Jersey rejoices, through her freely chosen representatives, to name for the Presidency of the United States the Princeton schoolmaster, Woodrow Wilson.

NORTH BEND NEWS.

Mrs. L. J. Simpson returned today from a few weeks' visit at Portland.

The North Bend concert band is making arrangements to give a big ball at Eekhoff hall on the night of July Fourth.

H. L. Foote will leave on the Breakwater tomorrow to assume a position with the Portland Plating Co. Mrs. Foote and son, Paul, will leave soon to join him.

Mrs. F. H. Brigham will leave tomorrow for Portland to visit at the home of Mr. and Mrs. T. B. James and with other relatives and friends in that vicinity.

E. C. Mather and wife and Francis returned today from a short visit in Portland and other northern points. Miss Winnie Doyle, Mrs. Mather's sister, of Wedderburn who accompanied them north, also returned with them.

Mrs. Annie E. Kinsey and son-in-law, Burt Martin, and wife, arrived here today from Halfway, Oregon, to visit at the home of Mrs. Jennie M. Stewart. They may decide to locate on the Bay. Mrs. Kinsey is Mrs. Stewart's only sister and this is their first meeting in nearly 13 years. Halfway is in Eastern Oregon, near the Idaho line.

LAST NIGHT'S SESSION LONG

and demonstrations. The Clark and Wilson forces were the principal contestants in the struggle to see which could keep up the cheering the longest. The Clark demonstration was the first big one in the evening and lasted one hour and five minutes. The Wilson people added about ten minutes to the Clark record.

During both demonstrations many "outsiders" invaded the delegate section of the hall. During the Wilson outburst, several marching clubs came into the hall. After day had broken and the artificial lights of the big armory were giving away before the gray shafts streaming through the windows, pangs of hunger and fatigue grew upon the delegates who began to call on the speakers to say what they had to say as briefly as possible. The wiser ones among the orators heeded the advice. Others who attempted to make the eagle scream and the flag wave in wordy pictures were treated with scant courtesy. It was 6.43 when the last state was called and the last speech had been made. The test vote was carried on with great rapidity and little or no confusion. The galleries were all forsaken. Strangely enough the women seemed to outnumber the men among the spectators who had spent the night in the hall and also were much more keenly alert to the proceedings. A large number of spectators slumbered peacefully during the latter part of the proceedings. It required a half hour for the roll call and to figure the results. Then came the motion for a recess and it was carried despite the throaty voiced protests of some delegates who were willing to go on with the battle to the bitter end. The session over, the big hall was emptied in a few minutes.

Claim Bryan Erred.

Bryan's opponents say he made a great mistake in offering the resolutions and declare it means breaking the back of Gov. Wilson's candidacy. After one or two more ballots, it is learned an effort will be made to break up the block of 71 votes cast by the Pennsylvania delegates for Wilson. The general report is that the Underwood leaders will try to have the Harmon forces join them to bring about the former's nomination.

Sullivan said he was unable to say what the Illinois delegates would do with their 58 votes after the first ballot. The Illinois delegation voted solid. So did New York under the unit rule, but some of the leaders regard the instructions binding only on the first ballot. Efforts will be made to conclude the entire business of the convention late tonight as it is feared the delegates are becoming tired and will leave for their homes and the convention will be without a quorum.

Murphy announced after the New York caucus the delegation would "Vote for Harmon until the delegation was polled. That may come after the third ballot."

A St. Louis man claims that his wife has left him eight times in two years. Maybe she thoroughly enjoys the experience of being coaxed to come back.

DECISION IN TRAMWAY CASE

Oregon Supreme Court Rules Against C. A. Smith Co. in Jas. Baines' Suit.

Whether the C. A. Smith company will eventually have to tear up the tramway track from the mill to the retail yards on South Broadway is a question that has been raised as a result of the Oregon supreme court sustaining the decision of Judge Hamilton that the company had no right to use the public streets. The Salem trial which was handed down at final points on which stress was laid in the first case. The original decision was that the franchise was invalid because not a sufficient number of property owners had signed the petition of consent. The C. A. Smith company contended that it had secured ample signatures of abutting property owners and that the contention of Jas. Baines and W. U. Douglas who attacked rights of the tramway, were not well founded, the apparent shortage being due to the fact that W. S. Chandler by a mistake had signed for the wrong subsidiary company of the Southern Pacific.

Soon after the decision in the lower courts, the Marshfield city council granted the company a new franchise. At that time, the matter attracted considerable attention because it held up as a "deb of honor of Marshfield," leading citizens here having agreed that the Smith company should be given the tramway franchise as an inducement to secure the location of the mill here.

However, the Oregon supreme court holds that the Smith tramway is not a public utility because it only hauls freight for the owners and consequently is not entitled to a franchise on a public street. This apparently knocks out the new franchise.

As the decision was on a case started under the old one, there is a question whether the ruling will affect the new one.

The C. A. Smith company will ask a rehearing on the case in the supreme court and will proceed to operate under the new franchise until the court orders otherwise.

As it is C. A. Smith's intention to move the retail yards from its present location within a few years and utilize the property for docks and warehouses, the tramway will be only needed until then.

Jas. Baines who instituted the suit owns property on South Second street which he claimed was damaged by reason of the tramway running by it.
