

WOODSMAN HEIR TO MILLIONS

Dan McCoy of Humboldt County Will Share in an Enormous Fortune.

EUREKA, Cal., July 11.—Dan McCoy, a well known pioneer woodsman of this county, will shortly receive a large share of an estate valued at $12,500,000 now being probated in the English courts. The fortune was left by an Irish millionaire named Harris, who was an uncle of McCoy's mother. It is not known yet how large a share of the fortune McCoy will receive, but his interest in the estate is so large that attorneys who are probating it have written to him to come to England. McCoy will not go to England unless it is absolutely necessary for him to go.

Kept It Quiet.

McCoy has known of his interest in the vast fortune for over a year past, but has said nothing about it and it is only through close friends that his good fortune is now becoming generally known.

Coming here from Canada in 1880, McCoy has worked in practically all of the logging camps of Humboldt and is one of the best known woodsmen in the redwood belt.

It was through an article published in The Eureka Herald about a year ago that McCoy first learned he was one of several heirs to share in the $12,500,000 estate of his great-uncle, being entitled to his mother's share.

Is Recognized.

It is thought that McCoy will receive his share of the estate within the present year, a share estimated at between $800,000 and $1,000,000. There are about fourteen heirs, all of whom are distant relatives of the Irish multi-millionaire, Harris.

HUNTING FOR GIANT HORSES

Scientists Find Enormous Animals When Digging in Quarries of Texas.

SILVERTON, Tex., July 11.—A hunt for giant horses, some of them measuring more than 30 feet tall, is now in progress in this part of the Texas Panhandle.

Ranch people are stirred up over the excavation that has been started at a spot on Prairie Dog Creek, just north of Silverton, by an expedition of scientists sent out by Yale University. This party is headed by Richard S. Lull, professor of vertebrate paleontology of that institution. They are digging for the fossils of prehistoric horses. It is said by Professor Lull that all evidence that has accumulated tends to show that the horse of today had its origin in these long extinct animals that once roamed the expansive plains in the Texas Panhandle.

Discoveries of bones that are classified as belonging to the prehistoric horse have been made from time to time in this section. Not a great while ago, in opening a gravel pit near Plainview, the fossils of an animal that scientists proclaim belong to the equine species was brought to light, and when placed together the height of the skeleton measure more than 100 hands. This relic of an unknown past was brought to light by R. M. Irick of Plainview. The bones of the animal were sent to the Smithsonian Institute at Washington.

The quarry now being exploited turned out some rich finds in the way of bones of these ancient monsters in 1899, when the spot was visited and considerable expedition work was done by Prof. James W. Gidley.

It is the theory of Professor Lull that in the prehistoric time, when these giant horses roamed the plains there was coincident with them a civilization of high standard in what is now New Mexico and Arizona. The ruins of the homes of these people are still to be seen in some parts of the arid region there has been discovered the evidence of extensive systems of irrigation. There is nothing remaining at this time to show from what source the water for the irrigated canals was obtained.

There are good reasons for believing according to Professor Lull that these giant horses, which had a height of 30 to 40 feet, were often domesticated by the people of that day and time, and were the chief means of them getting about from place to place.

Government Forest Man Asks About Prize Essay Plan.

Attention of government forest department employes has been attracted by the plan adopted by W. J. Conrad, secretary of the Coos County Fire Patrol Association to interest the school children of the county in the matter of fire protection. Mr. Conrad recently launched a plan of offering cash prizes for the best essays written on the subject of forest fire protection by the school children of the county. It is evident that the scheme will do much to arouse interest on the subject. A few days ago Mr. Conrad received a letter from the supervisor of the Trinity National Forest in California, asking for details of the plan with a view of carrying out a similar essay contest in that locality.

PROMISE GOOD ATTRACTIONS

Theatrical Companies Will Come to Marshfield Regularly.

Marshfield has the opportunity of securing some good theatrical companies if sufficient patronage will warrant the effort of coming to Coos Bay. Such is the statement of V. O. Pratt who is the manager of the Masonic Opera House in this city. The Zinn Travesty company has come here from Eureka to play at the Masonic. Special rates were secured on transportation and it will be possible for other companies playing in Eureka to make this city under similar arrangements, providing of course that the Marshfield people show sufficient interest to give patronage which will warrant the companies coming this far. The manager of one of the theaters of Eureka came here with the company today to look into the local situation. As to whether or not the companies playing on the Eureka circuit will be regularly brought here will depend upon the inclination of the local theater goers.

The Zinn company will appear at the Masonic Thursday, Friday, Saturday and Sunday evenings with a change of program each night.
