DENVER, Colo., Aug. 13.—Tracing the movements of John Featherstone, a negro, was the work undertaken today by the police in an effort to fix the responsibility for the murder of Miss Carlsen, the music teacher in Montclair last Friday night. Featherstone, whose name was given as H. J. Jones, lived with his son in a shack a mile from the scene of the crime. A small axe, recently washed but to which traces of blood still adhered was found in the shack. Featherstone explained that he killed a chicken Sunday. A small music dictionary was also found and steps were taken to determine whether this volume belongs to Miss Carlsen. According to the chief of police, Featherstone was arrested about four years ago for arresting his stepdaughter but was never brought to trial because of the refusal of his wife to prosecute.

MAYOR NOT TO GIVE UP PLAN

Dr. Straw Determined On His Scheme of Making Boulevard to the Sea.

That Mayor Straw intends to carry out his plan for a boulevard from Marshfield to the sea in spite of what obstacles may confront him, was made quite clear by the chief executive of the city last night at the city council meeting when he was asked how his pet scheme was getting along.

The Mayor said that the Reynolds Development company having offered the land through the property necessary to build the boulevard he also expected and hoped to secure from the Simpson Lumber company through Mayor Simpson of North Bend the right of way through their property and the donation of the needed land.

Mayor Straw told of having called upon Herbert Armstrong, the manager of the Menasha Woodware Co. and asking him for the strip of land 200 feet wide through the Southern Oregon company land. Mr. Straw explained that he got no satisfaction from Mr. Armstrong and that the latter gentleman did not seem to approve of the plan. Mr. Straw told the council the arguments that he put up in favor of his scheme for the boulevard to the sea and told Mr. Armstrong that he would put the boulevard through the Southern Oregon property whether they wanted to give the land or not. Mr. Straw said that he offered to talk buying the land from Mr. Armstrong but that he could not get any satisfaction on that basis.

Mayor Straw also explained to the council that he intended to see the scheme carried out, Mr. Armstrong's adverse opinion notwithstanding.

FEAR RAILROAD WOULD GET IT

Some Think City Might Give Away Improved Water Front Rights.

Fear on the part of some of the people that the improvement is one which will be used by a railroad, has for the time being detained to an extent the furthering of the plan of making a waterfront wharf forty feet wide at Marshfield. At the meeting of the city council last night Councilman Allen who was appointed as a committee of one on the water front plan was asked how he was getting along. Mr. Allen said that he had met with some opposition. He had his petitions all ready and then found that some of the people feared that if the water front was cleared of the buildings for a distance of twenty feet back from the water line, and the wharf line set out twenty feet into the bay that the city might, after securing this wharf forty feet wide, turn it over to a railroad.

In fact, some of the people thought that such was the scheme and wanted assurance that nothing of the kind would be done. It seemed to be the feeling of the council that the people should be assured that there was no such intention on the part of the city and that some such guarantee should be given.

Aside from this one objection on the part of the people, Mr. Allen believes that the plan will be carried out.

ALONG THE WATERFRONT The Omega which arrived in late Saturday is loading at the Simpson mill. The Advent sailed last evening from Bandon for San Francisco with

JOYNER MAY HAVE LEFT

Some Evidence That Missing Man Voluntarily Went From Coos Bay.

The belief that William Joyner was not murdered but instead has left the country without saying anything of his intention of doing so, is growing among some of those who are interested in the case. Some clues have been secured which lead to the belief that there may be something in the theory that Joyner has gone.

The officers are still working on the case and will probably be able to establish to a certainty whether the man was murdered or for some reason of his own has left the country.

Sheriff Indignant Sheriff Gage is here from Coquille today. He says that nothing new has developed in the Joyner case.

He is indignant over the county court's action in allowing but $200 reward money when he asked for $500. He feels that the small reward seriously handicaps the solution of the Joyner mystery. He feels confident that Joyner's body is in the Bay.
