A DOLL HAMMOCK

Take a good, strong piece of goods and measure the length of your doll. Cut the goods one-half yard wide, and one-half yard longer than your doll. Hem the sides neatly.

Put a hem one-half inch wide in each end of the goods. Sew a piece of whale bone, like Mama uses in her collars, about four inches from the ends and straight across the goods and tie the string together. The string gathers the goods at the ends above the whale bone and forms a hammock. You have no idea how easy it is to put Miss Dolly to sleep in a hammock like this.

County School Superintendent Bunch held it could not and was supported by the state superintendent. The attorney general, however, says the building can be used for other purposes.

C. F. M'KNIGHT IS RECEIVER

It is intimated that the matter will be orally settled by Mr. Van Zile but it will have to be through the court at a hearing to be held next week, probably.

OLD SPANISH LETTER PLOT

Spanish Letter Fakir Who Wrote Here Heard From Again.

Oregon seems to be regarded as a good field for the "Spanish letter" fakir. Recently one of these letters was received by a Marshfield man. An effort is being made now to work a Eugene man. The guard of that city says:

Pearl McDonald, who attends to Henricks' park, is honored by a letter from an individual who is supposed to be imprisoned in Spain, and has a hard luck story to tell. In the present instance he says that he knew Mr. McDonald through his dead mother, who recommended him. The poor man says that he has $240,000 tied up in America through deals made while a Russian banker. He wants Mr. McDonald to take care of his daughter in consideration of getting one-third of the sum and the proceeds of the whole while he has charge of the girl. This peculiar fake, which has taken the place of the old style green goods game, is being overworked, and has often been exposed.

In Mr. McDonald's case the grafter lost a stamp. He is very solicitous that Mr. McDonald not use the mails, but cable messages to "a faithful servant," who will deliver them to him in the Spanish prison.

Genuine Southern Corn Bread.

To make the genuine southern corn bread it is essential to have the genuine southern cornmeal. If you can get the genuine meal, therefore (water ground), make your cake in this way: Beat two eggs very light. Add to them one pint sour milk or buttermilk and a pint of the meal. Melt a large tablespoonful of butter and add to the mixture, together with a tablespoonful of soda dissolved in a small portion of the measured out milk. Beat very hard and bake in well buttered pan in a quick oven.

Good Biscuit Recipe.

A never failing rule for biscuit calls for four cupfuls of flour, a tablespoonful of sugar, a teaspoonful of salt, two rounded teaspoonfuls of baking powder, a piece of butter the size of an egg and two cupfuls of milk. After sifting the flour, salt, sugar and baking powder together rub the butter through the mixture and stir in the milk. Stir the batter as little as possible, only just enough to mix it. Bake in a quick oven and serve piping hot.

DREAD DISEASE MAY BE HERE

Reported That There Are Two Cases Infantile Paralysis in Marshfield.

It is reported that there are in Marshfield two cases of infantile paralysis, the dread disease which has claimed the lives of 100 children in Los Angeles, where it has become an epidemic. Portland now fears it has a case or two and in New York City the disease seems to have broken out. The danger is in the difficulty of treatment.

City Health Officer Wheeler of Portland in a recent interview in a Portland paper regarding the infantile paralysis says:

"The pity of it is that so far medical science has discovered no serum or any means of curing the disease. Four or five years ago the specific organism was discovered by Professor Flexner, if I remember aright, but, although many physicians and scientists have since then been devoting their time to the discovery of a cure or serum, so far none has been successful.

"I see that in the forthcoming International Hygienic conference, to be held at Washington, D. C., this question will receive almost more space than anything else, for knowledge on it is as yet only meager.

"Symptoms of the disease vary greatly. In one case a child will be paralyzed in his right arm and perhaps his left leg. On the other hand, I know of a case where the muscles of the throat were affected, the child having the full use of both arms and legs all the time. Yet again, in another case a child may be paralyzed on one side of his face or down one arm.

"As a rule a child rarely survives, except in the mildest of cases. To add to the difficulty of the situation, children through teething or other mild ill-health suffer from convulsive fits, which, in results, are somewhat similar, making it difficult to determine for certain at the outset.

"The paralysis comes on suddenly. The child may be walking along, running about happily, when it will suddenly begin to limp, or to feel a contraction of the muscles in the arm. From that time the disease takes a rapid hold."

ROBT. STARKEY REMEMBERED

Coos Bay Pioneer Receives News of Death of Relative in England.

Robert Starkey, the rugged and sterling pioneer and poet of Coos Bay, has just received news from the administrator of the estate of the death in Liverpool, July 27, of his sister-in-law, Mrs. Eliza Starkey.

On the death of his brother, the husband of Mrs. Eliza Starkey, a bequest of $1000 was left Robert Starkey, but the property remained in the possession of the widow during her life-time, but now reverts to Mr. Starkey and will be an appreciated addition to the small pension he receives in permitting him to pass his sunset days in peaceful quiet. It is possible that the widow may have made an addition to the legacy but Mr. Starkey has not yet been advised regarding this.

Mr. Starkey is now in his eighty-third year and is remarkably hale and hearty for one of his years.

TROUBLE AT OAKLAND

The Roseburg Review says: "Governor West has received an unsigned letter from Oakland, Or., complaining of violations of the local option law there. That town may be the scene of Sheriff Quine's next raid, as a result of the complaint, if investigation proves it to be well founded. The sheriff's deputies raided the five liquor houses at Glendale, securing a quantity of beer and whiskey in kegs. The stuff is to be shipped to this city for safe keeping.
