Salt Fish For Lent. The season of Lent is now with us, and there are still a certain number of people who fast during this time and but, properly treated, it is by no means to be despised. Too often, however, the necessity for sufficient soaking is not realized, with the consequence that when served, if it be eaten at all, whoever ventures on it literally feels he or she is performing a penance. First of all, having procured the sait fish, let it sonk for several hours, placing it under the tap if possible and letting the water slowly run on to it. Should this, however, not be feasible, sonk it in plenty of cold water, changing this fairly often and having the last water tepid. Then next it should be soaked in skimmilk or milk and water for several hours longer, soaking it in all for twentyfour hours. Having gone through this process, it should be simmered in half milk, half water, with a very little sait, and then it may be served with a variety of sauces. Often the fish-monger will claim that the fish has already been steeped. Should this be so the soaking in cold water may be omitted, but on no account should the steeping in milk and water be forgotten. Treated thus, the flesh will

Flowers For Dinner Table. From now until the close of the spring season there are no more attractive decorations of a simple order for the dinner or luncheon table than those of spring flowers arranged in attractive baskets. Charming baskets which are suitable for this purpose are to be had at many of the department stores and at the Japanese shops. The basket may be in any shape that is quaint or beautiful, and daffodtls, cowslips, lilles of the valley and lilac branches look lovely when arranged in them. The bottom of the basket is filled with fresh damp moss and the stems of the flowers are thrust into this. If the flowers are to appear for a long time in public and there is danger of their wilting, the bottom of the basket may be fitted with a shallow pan filled with water and the flowers placed in this. The moss may then be tucked in around the stems of the flow-

Local Producers and Dealers Deserve and Need Patronage of Their Fellow Townsmen-Straight From the Shoulder Talk From Sedalia, Mo.

No man can be a true booster who is selfish. Nor can one be a booster who harbors petty jealousies and cannot rejoice in the success and prosperity of his neighbor or competitor. Nor can one who bears malice be a sincere booster, for malice is the property of a small soul, and a small soul has no place in the big things of this life. We may proclaim ourselves boosters, we may join the ranks of a booster club and wear a booster button, yet by our acts shall we be known. and until petty jealousy, envy and selfishness—those things, should they exist, that tend to warp and shrivel men's souls-are eliminated and substituted by unselfish thoughts and a feeling of good will toward each other we cannot hepe to succeed.

Men may meet and feast together, they may talk of things that will benefit the city and community, and, while such meetings are always beneficial and instructive to a certain extent, yet it is the acts of men that produce results. How many citizens of Sedalia. active members of the Booster club. a club organized to promote home in dustry, to build up the institutions we already have, are doing their whole duty in that direction? How many merchants, members of the Booster club, are buying their supplies abroad. goods that could be purchased in Se dalla (and oftentimes at a better price), the same quality, the same brand and free delivery? How many members (not merchants) call for home products when giving an order or making a purchase from their grocer or butcher?

Thousands of dollars that could be and would be kept at home go abroad There are many worthy enterprises in Sedalia, all employing local help that in turn are spending their earnings in Sedalia, and both employer and em ployee pay taxes in Sedalia, and the money is being used to keep up our city. Further, do we realize that the continuous employment of the men working in our home institutions is dependent wholly on the output thereof? Other cities that are daily growing in wealth and popularity attribute their growth and prosperity to the loyalty of their home people and speak with pride of their home brands of goods and of how by the continuous inter change of patronage they keep their money at home, thus increasing the volume of their business, the value of their real estate, the population of their city, and, best of all, cultivate a sincere feeling of good will toward each other. There are no petty jeal ousies in these cities. They haven't time for such thoughts, but instead every one seems trying to be bigger than the other fellow by outdoing him in building up his home institutions and town. Let us give this matter serious consideration and let us all be boosters that boost by giving the goods put up or manufactured in Sedalla preference and so tax our minds with this duty (all things being equal) that we will specify these goods when giving an order. We all have a personal interest in the growth and prosperity of our fair city; hence let us during the year demonstrate by our individual efforts that our interest is sincere and loyally support every home institution, large and small, and then we can truthfully say to the world, "Watch Sedalia grow."-Sedalia (Mo.) A Date For Achievement. Providence, R. I., is another city that is fixing its eyes on a definite date when it shall have adopted and carried out a plan making it a better place to work in and to live in The town criers in petitioning the mayor and council for the appointment of a city plan commission resolved "that this plan be known as the Providence 1936 plan, culminating on that date in the celebration of the three hundredth anniversary of the founding in Providence of the first home of ab solute religious and civic freedom by an exposition of Providence itself as a city beautiful and a city useful, a pleasant and profitable place for all classes, rich and poor, young and old, to live and work in."

Somebody has said, "The clerks can only wait upon the people who come into the store; it's up to the dealer to bring them in." But that is only a half truth. It certainly is largely "up to" the clerk to bring them back, and the clerk who has the making of a merchant in himself is continually "bringing them in" to the store-"his" store, as he considers it.

CURLS FOR COIFFURES.

Some of the New Designs From Across the Ocean.

Light and lovely are the curly colffures shown in the illustration, re cently designed by Europeau artists in bair dressing.

To fully appreciate their remarkable charm and fascination they must be seen and handled, since their extraordinary lightness of weight is one of their chief attractions. As a matter of fact they are literally as light as the proverbial feather, and even the most sensitive sufferer from neuralgic beadaches would never realize that she was wearing anything in the way of additional or applied hair. The entire transformation which is shown in the center of the group of curis will be found most useful, since a lady's own hair can be drawn up through the center and then parted and brushed in with the other hair, which is dressed so becomingly on the other side of the face. A very light fringe, scarcely perceptible, softens the general effect delightfully and is allowed to mingle with the wearer's own bair, where it is turned off from the forehead in the center of the front, To complete the headdress at the back any of these cards can be applied with an equal certainty of success

Will Entertain King George. Louise, the duchess of Devonshire, is a woman much envied these days by other English ladies of the nobility. She is to take a leading part in the social functions attending the coronation of King George V. next June.

DUCHESS OF DEVONSRIRE.

Prior to the coronation the king will be her guest at Kimbolton castle, where she will hold a large house party, with many notable persons present. For a whole month in the latter part of April and the first half of May the children of King George and Queen Mary are to be entertained by the duchess at her castle. A series of elaborate fetes will be given by the duchess in connection with the coronation ceremonies.

Lobbyista For Suffrage. Mrs. W. R. Stubbs, wife of the governor of Kansas, and Mrs. W. A. Johnson, wife of the supreme justice of the state supreme court, have registered their names as lobbyists for the wom en's suffrage constitution amendment. The law of Kansas requires all lobbyists to register, and many of the lead ing women already have inscribed their names.
