EVENING STORIES AND TALES FOR THE LITTLE PEOPLE

(All Rights Reserved)

A LITTLE LESSON

Little girls and boys, do you always treat your playmates as you would have them treat you?

If every girl and boy would do this, or in other words, if each of you would do unto others as you would have them do unto you, there would be no cross words, no quarrels and no fights. If when you get selfish with your playmates you would ask yourselves the question, "Would I like to be treated like this?" you would save a lot of trouble. If when your playmate gets ugly, you let him see that you will not quarrel, he will soon feel ashamed of himself and want to play fair.

You must take care of your hands and feet. Your hands were not made to strike your playmates, and your feet were not made to kick them just because they do not do to please you all the time. If each of you took proper care of your hands and feet and treated your playmates as you would have them treat you, there would be no more unkindness and you would be very happy.

THE INDIAN AND THE COWBOY.

Bobbie's mamma sent him an Indian suit and also a cowboy suit to play in.

Now he could play that he was an Indian brave. Wouldn't that be great. He had seen cowboys and Indians in the motion picture shows at home.

Raymond, one of Bobbie's little country friends, came to Grandpa's to spend a whole day with him. He, like Bobbie, was a real live boy and what one of them could not think of doing, the other could.

They rode the horses, played tag with Rover, chased the pigs, played with the little lambs, went sliding down the haystack, fed the pigs, made a swing in the orchard, played in the hay mow, and did many other things that little boys like to do.

"Oh, I know what will be the most fun of all," said Bobbie. "You put on by cowboy suit and I will put on the Indian suit and we will play that I am an Indian and you are a cowboy."

They soon had the suits on and were ready to begin playing.

"If I am an Indian, I must have a bow and arrow," said Bobbie, "so I can shoot like Indian do. But where will I get it? I can't make one."

Raymond, like most country boys, knew how to do all these things, so he soon had a bow and arrow made for Bobbie.

"Now, cowboys always have a rope with which to catch the cattle," said Raymond. "They call it a lariat. It is a long rope with a loop in one end."

Bobbie soon found a rope for his cowboy friend. "I wish we could have some real horses," said Bobbie, but this was out of the question, so they found some sticks to ride, and away they went.

I suspect the animals on Grandpa's farm wished that there were no cowboys or Indians as most of the fun was at their expense.

When Grandpa called the boys for supper, they were no where to be found. "I wonder where they can be," said Grandpa. "I am really worried about them." Rover has been with them; maybe he will know. "Come Rover, find our little boys for us."

Rover scampered away and Grandpa and Grandpa followed him. He led them to the haystack.

"What can he mean?" said Grandpa. "The aren't here."

But Rover knew what he was doing. He climbed part way up the haystack and Grandpa followed him.

There in a hole they had made, were our little cowboy and Indian fast asleep.

TREEING A 'COON.

Rover is Grandpa's old dog. He and Bobbie have become very good friends. Every night he goes to the pasture to bring the cows home. One night Grandpa told Bobbie that he might go with him.

What fun he and Rover had! Bobbie would throw sticks and Rover would bring them back to him. All at once Rover ran ahead as fast as he could, and when Bobbie caught up with him, he found a 'coon under a tree just barking so loud.

Looking up in the tree, Bobbie could see some kind of an animal, but he could not tell what it was.

It frightened him so he started to run away. He could not get Rover to go. He just stayed there and barked.

He could see John, Grandpa's hired man, near by plowing, so he called for him to come quick.

John told him that Rover had treed a 'coon.

Rover and John soon succeeded in catching the 'coon, and now Bobbie has a new pet animal. He thinks he can soon start an animal show of his own.

Another Bargain For Homemakers

Sale of Electric Grills Week Starting Aug. 26

You can obtain either a General Electric Grill or an "El Grillo" for $1.00 less than the lowest retail price if you comply with our terms.

If you read the magazines you know these new and immensely popular electric table stoves.

Eight inches long, five inches wide and six inches high they are big enough to cook an entire breakfast with the expenditure of a few cents for current.

They are for broiling, frying, boiling, toasting, and two cooking operations can be carried on at once, all on your dining room table.

Weight only a few pounds; heating element guaranteed by maker.

The lowest retail price we ever heard of was $6.00. If you use the coupon in the corner you can get either of these famous grills for $5.00.

Our "dogday toaster sale" was a great success.

The grills are for people who want to go a little further with electric cooking. We think we can sell 25 of them this week.

What we ask you to do is this, merely to mail us the attached coupon properly filled out (or bring it to our office) in order to save us the expense of a house to house canvass locating people who may want electric grills.

We are willing to pay the dollar to you instead of to the solicitors.

If you mail the coupon we will send the grills to you for demonstration, and our representative will not annoy you by urging you to buy if you decide otherwise.

Act quickly; the sale lasts one week only

Electric Grill Coupon.

Not good after September 2.

Please send us your representative to demonstrate both the General Electric Grill and "El Grillo" with the understanding that if I purchase, the price will be $5.00 for either.
