

MANY ATTEND FREE PICNIC

"Blue Ridge Tigers" Distinguish Themselves By Entertaining the Public.

The "Blue Ridge Tigers" certainly proved themselves to be entertainers on the occasion of the big free picnic given Sunday at Enegren's Grove on South Coos River. The loggers employed by the McDonald-Vaughan company at the Daniels Creek camp and numbering about one hundred, call themselves the Blue Ridge Tigers. They have a sort of little organization of their own and they concluded that a picnic would be the proper thing so they arranged the event, not only for themselves but extended a general invitation. In fact they invited the whole community to come to the picnic and enjoy the day at their expense.

The invitation which was printed in the newspaper attracted many and hundreds of men, women and children attended the affair and had a fine time. Everything was free. There was no charge to spend a cent, the Tigers having arranged that part of it. Three launches were chartered and made trips every hour all through the day so one could go to the grounds at any time. There was no charge for riding on the boats to the picnic. All that was free. On arriving there every arrangement for the enjoyment of the people had been made at the Enegren's grove. At noon a big free picnic dinner with fried chicken and everything else desired was served. There was a free lunch stand where sandwiches, ice cream and lemonade were served all day.

The big dance pavilion floor was in fine condition and the Raymond orchestra of seven pieces furnished music during the afternoon and evening as long as the dancers wanted to stay. All this was free, no charge being made for the dancing.

The hosts of the occasion each wore a ribbon on which was printed the name "Blue Ridge Tigers" and they proved to be hosts in every sense of the word. The boats were met as they arrived, the comfort of everyone was looked after, floor managers say that everyone who wanted to dance got a partner and when the Tigers were not doing anything else they were steering someone to the ice cream stand.

It is seldom that in such a large gathering such good order is maintained as was yesterday. The boats made frequent trips back to the city so that those who wanted to return could do so and the accommodations were in every way more than could be wished for. It is the first time that an absolutely free picnic has been given this year and the many hundred persons who attended are indebted to the Blue Ridge Tigers for a fine entertainment.

The name Blue Ridge Tigers came to be applied to the employees of the McDonald-Vaughan camp probably because they work in the mountains known as Blue Ridge. Many of the men have been with the firm for a long time, some having worked there for six or seven years. Jack McDonald, of the firm, said in speaking of his men: "We have about a hundred in our camp. They are good fellows too. They are out to have a good time and they are always willing to pay for it and they get it. But they keep out of trouble as much as they can, but if one of them gets into trouble the rest get him out. They surely stick together and help each other. In fact the whole crowd pulls together, making a sort of organization of their own."

BUY CALIFORNIA LAND

Alva Doll and George Doll of Marshfield interested in Company

Alva Doll and wife returned yesterday on the Redondo from a few weeks' stay in California. Most of the time was spent at Corning, Cal., where Mr. Doll went to represent his uncle, Andrew McClelland, at the organization of the McClelland Land and Development company which has recently bought a tract of 1,000 acres near Corning. Besides Mr. McClelland, Alva Doll and Geo. Doll of Marshfield and C. C. Dorr of Los Angeles are interested in the company which is capitalized at $50,000. They plan to set the tract out in fruit and sell it off. Mr. Doll is highly impressed with the Sacramento Valley.

At San Francisco Mr. Doll met C. J. Mills and other railroad men. While rather reticent relative to information gathered from them, he said they declared that "the railroad would soon be in Marshfield if the people here did not block it."

SURVEYOR LOST IN THE WOODS

One of Engineer Wolfram's Men Gets Off the Trail But Is Found.

One of the young men employed as a surveyor with the crew of Engineer Wolfram of the Southern Pacific, working now in the neighborhood of Beaver Hill, got lost in the woods Saturday evening. The surveyor started out to make a short cut through the woods to a point he wanted to reach. He did not turn up and some alarm was felt as there is heavy timber and it was feared that in the night he might fall and injure himself. The whistles at Beaver Hill and one of the logging camps were blown so as to give the lost man aid in finding his directions. The surveyor finally struck the logging camp at Henryville after wandering about in the woods. Word was sent to the surveying crew that the lost man had been found and his associates were greatly relieved.

CARGO OF TOYS FROM TOYLAND

Santa Clause Treasure Ship Arrives In San Francisco With Great Shipment.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 26—The steamer Senator, Captain Edward Dunn, of the Harrison line came into San Francisco Bay Thursday morning and dropped anchor off Black Point, carrying one of the most remarkable cargoes that has reached this port in many a day. Laden with soldiers of every nationality; shepherds and their flocks from Gramplan Hills and other hills; not to mention tigers, lions, elephants, bears and other animals the sight of which would make any circus man turn green with envy, were all aboard the Senator.

Notwithstanding this remarkable cargo the skipper got along extremely well with the animals and fighting troopers from the date of his departure from Hamburg until his arrival here.

"There wasn't a cheep out of one of the soldiers and nary a single growl from the lions and tigers," one of the members of the crew admitted. Nor is this surprising when one considers that the soldiers were of lead and the animals of wood, just toys fashioned by the children of Germany and the low lying countries around Antwerp.

The Senator was really a floating toy-ship and while he was not in evidence to the grown up mariners on board, there is no question but that Santa Claus was in supreme command at all stages of the Senator's 15,000 mile voyage.

The toys were of infinite variety, and made to suit the taste of children of every clime. Crates and crates of them were loaded aboard the Senator from the quay at Antwerp and while 120 cases were put ashore at San Pedro, the captain gave ready assurance that there were still plenty to go around San Francisco and to North Pacific Coast cities.

The people of Coos Bay and particularly the little people will be especially interested in knowing that several of these crates were consigned to Norton & Hansen and will be sent north on the first steamer. The captain said Norton & Hansen were the only dealers in Southern Oregon who received their consignment of toys direct from Germany in their original packages making this long journey of 15,000 miles. There is a great treat in store for Coos Bay when part of this strange cargo arrives there after its long trip.

JUST INSURED BEFORE DEATH

R. W. EDGINGTON OF PACIFIC MUTUAL LIFE INSURANCE CO. HAD WRITTEN POLICY FOR GEO. H. ELLENBERG FEW DAYS BEFORE FATAL ACCIDENT.

R. W. Edgington, agent of the Pacific Mutual Life Insurance company, reports that George H. Ellenberg, who was killed in the accident at Smith-Powers Camp No. 1 Saturday, had just been insured by his company. On August 19, just two weeks prior to the accident, Mr. Ellenberg made application for the insurance and on August 18th, he passed the physical examination. Although there has not been time for a policy to reach here, Mr. Ellenberg had paid his insurance and his widow will receive the insurance. This is one of many similar cases that Mr. Edgington, who has offices in the Coke building, has known of, parties meeting with fatal accidents very soon after they had taken out insurance.
