HERE TO TALK OF RAILROAD PLAN

Idaho Railroad Builder Comes With Party In Auto From Roseburg.

(Special to The Times) ROSEBURG, Or., Aug. 28.—Walter E. Pierce, railroad builder of Boise, Idaho, J. M. Stevenson, chief engineer, J. W. Perkins, a Roseburg capitalist and H. M. Farren, recently of the Oregon and Southern Railroad company, left here this morning for Marshfield where they will investigate the prospects of a railroad from Roseburg to the Coast.

WERE AT ROSEBURG.

A coast railroad is the scheme which W. E. Pierce, of Boise, is contemplating, according to the following from the Roseburg Review: Personal investigation to determine whether there is sufficient probable traffic to justify the building of a railroad, either steam or electric, from Roseburg to the coast, was begun here today by W. E. Pierce, of Boise, Idaho.

Impressed with what I have so far seen. With Mr. Stephenson, our chief engineer, we shall make a thorough investigation of routes, grades, difficulties of construction to be encountered, and especially as to cost of maintenance and operation of a road when built.

Mr. Pierce also intimated that the probable cost of this investigation will be between $1000 and $2000, so it will be seen that they expect to go over the ground thoroughly, and take whatever time may be necessary to complete the investigation.

Engineer Franklin is looking after Mr. Pierce's interests at the Coos Bay end of the line, and Mr. Stephenson this morning began active work here in conjunction with Engineer Jos. Mitchell, who located several miles of line in this vicinity for H. M. Farren and his associates, who have been instrumental in bringing Mr. Pierce to Roseburg.

Gunboat Probably There (By Associated Press to the Coos Bay Times.)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 28.—Although the gunboat Denver has not reported its arrival at Corinto with the American reinforcements it is believed the vessel is there.

Dispatches last night and today pictured the situation in Nicaragua as being as acute that an immediate movement of a large force of troops for the protection of American lives and property is necessary.

Allegations that conditions are bordering on barbarism and that acts even worse than those which took the troops of the United Powers to China to quell the boxer rebellion have been received by the State Department in the last twenty-four hours.

General Francisco Altschul, representative of revolutionist junta at Washington denies the charges of barbarity brought against the troops fighting the Nicaragua government.

Following a further demand by Minister Weizell that Americans and their property be protected, the Nicaragua government is understood to have confessed its inability to meet the situation and have consented to permit the landing of American troops to protect United States citizens.
