At a meeting of the Port of Coos Bay Commissioners this morning, President L. J. Simpson named the following standing committees:

General and Finance—Loggie, Rogers and Sengstacken. Harbor Lines, Lights and Buoys and Wharves and Warehouses—Powers, Loggie and Rogers.

Inlets and Dredging—Powers, Sengstacken and Simpson. There was some discussion of the bridge and Mill Slough hearing here by Captain Robert September 19 and all of the commissioners were requested to be in attendance.

The question of adopting new harbor lines and wharf lines was discussed at some length but no action was taken as it was desired to have Capt. Polhemus' reports and maps. These will be brought back by Commissioner Sengstacken who is in Portland.

An ordinance regulating the speed of vessels and boats within the harbor was read and will be brought up at the next meeting for its final passage. It is practically the same as the one adopted by the old commission. Under it, owners of speed boats will have to get a permit from President Simpson before they can operate them and immediately Commissioners Powers and Rogers, owners of the two fastest launches on the Bay, entered their applications.

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 16.—United States Senator William Alden Smith of Michigan, and Senator A. H. Fall of New Mexico, began here today their inquiry of the reports of American interests had been acting and fostering 60 revolutionaries in Mexico.

Senator Smith said that he was not prepared to make a formal statement, his inquiry last night at El Paso had shown apparent lack of firmness in decision on part of the United States department in dealing with Mexico's efforts to protect American citizens.

"We are going to the bottom of the Mexican situation," said Smith. "We will probe every angle and if Americans have been participating we will show their relations with the revolutionists, no matter what they say."

SCHOOLS OPEN FOR SEASON

The Enrollment in Marshfield Shows Increase Over Last Year.

The Marshfield public schools opened this morning with a marked increase in the enrollment over a year ago. Not all the regular pupils were present for enrollment this morning so that the total of 569 will be increased considerably within the next few days.

There was a decrease in the enrollment at the Central building in comparison with that of a year ago while the High School had an increase of thirty, the big majority of whom are in the Freshman class.

Owing to this increase in the High school and the large eighth grade, it is likely that Miss Nann Browning will be transferred there to teach part of the eighth grade studies and some of the Freshman studies and a new grade teacher put in her place at the Central building.

The following is the comparative enrollment by rooms with a year ago:

Table with 2 columns: Year, Enrollment. Rows include South Marshfield School, High school, Eighth grade, Sixth and seventh, Fourth and fifth, Third, Second, First, and Total.

This year, the fourth and fifth grades are divided, there being 39 in the fourth and 25 in the fifth. This third grade enrollment is included in another room this year.

After cutting his foot with an ax the little eight year old son of Thomas Lawhorne, living three miles above Allegany on the west fork of North Coos River, had a painful trip to reach a doctor. The boy chopped his foot severely, so badly that he may lose some of the toes. A doctor could not be secured and the child had to be taken in a wagon to Allegany, a boat secured and the long trip made down the river to Marshfield. The child fainted several times and he bled so profusely it was at times feared he might bleed to death. When medical attention was reached his wounds were dressed and it is hoped his foot may be saved.

Actual grading on the Southern Pacific tunnel between the Umpqua and Ten Mile began this morning, the clearing of the right of way having been completed. It is expected to have everything in readiness to start the steam shovel there about October first.

About fifty men are now employed on the work and additional men are being secured as rapidly as possible. Porter Brothers have put in six large buildings for their camp, including a blacksmith shop. They are relaying the steel on the old logging road to within about three quarters of a mile of the mouth of the tunnel and will plank the road from the end of the railroad to the tunnel. It is possible that they will lay steel there later.

So far, plans are only being made to drive the tunnel from the Umpqua end. Later, crews may be put to work on both ends.

LOCAL OVERFLOW. Dredge Done—The Dredge Oregon has completed the work at Empire and is being brought up the Bay this afternoon to be prepared for the trip to Grays Harbor.

No Contracts Yet—The contracts for the Smith-Powers Logging road have not been awarded. They probably will be soon. The contractors are still figuring on it. It is hoped to get the work started by October 1 and ten or sixteen miles completed by the first of next July. F. A. Haines, who is in charge of the engineering, was here from camp over Sunday.

Ducks Scarce—A large number took advantage of the first day of the duck season yesterday but only a small number of birds were killed. Most of hunters went to the Sand Hills and that vicinity.

Figures Different—C. H. Marsh, right of way agent for the Southern Pacific, reports that the total cost of the condemnation proceedings on the Albrecht property in North Bend was $82,200, the judgment $2,400, making the total cost $2,380,200. He says that he had previously offered Mr. Albrecht $2,500 for the property, instead of $2,000 as was reported.
