ROOSEVELT ON WITNESS STAND TELLS OF CAMPAIGN MONEY

With a verdict against Morgan and James J. Hill. It was also during my first administration that I settled the anthracite coal strike. I have understood that Morgan expressed vigorously his dissatisfaction at my attitude in that case, and I was surprised to find that he had contributed to my campaign fund. No one ever connected with Morgan ever hinted that the contributions had been made and no one ever hinted to me that any favor should be shown to Morgan for any reason whatever.

MORGAN TELLS OF BIG GIFTS

Testifies About Donating Large Sums to Roosevelt 1904 Campaign Fund.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—J. P. Morgan was witness yesterday before the senate committee investigating campaign funds. One of Morgan's sensational statements was that he contributed $150,000 to the Republican national campaign of 1904. Morgan denied a statement that Roosevelt had demanded of Morgan that he raise $100,000 for his campaign, but stated that in October, 1904, he gave $100,000, and on November 1 gave another $50,000. He said that he supposed the first contribution was paid to Cornelius N. Bliss, treasurer of the Republican committee, but could not remember to whom the second contribution was paid, though he did recall it was in coin. He did not recall who solicited either contribution, but believed "Mr. Bliss and Mr. Odell got the money."

CAPT. CHARLES P. JENSEN IS DEAD

Master of Fifield and Prominent Mariner of the Coast Passes Away.

Captain Charles P. Jensen, master of the steamer Fifield and one of the most successful and best known mariners on the coast, died in San Francisco shortly after arriving there on his vessel. Captain Jensen was afflicted with bladder trouble. When in San Francisco the last trip he was feeling badly, and the physician there did not want him to come to Bandon, but he insisted upon it. The doctor at Bandon wanted him to remain there, but the captain thought he should go back to San Francisco, as his family was moving to that city to live. He intended laying off for a trip or two before assuming command of the new steamer Speedwell. It was the first time that Captain Jensen had ever been ill in his lifetime and he could not understand, his friends say, why he should not be as active as ever. He did not seem to realize his serious condition.

Popular and Able. Personally Captain Jensen was a jovial and congenial gentleman, who made hosts of friends among those who traveled with him and wherever he went. As a mariner he was one of the most able on the coast and one of the most successful. His work was highly efficient and his mishaps few. His services as a captain were of such high efficiency that his death causes a great loss to the shipping interests of the Coquille river. He had been with Mr. Estabrook ever since the latter started in the Coquille river business and was regarded by Mr. Estabrook in the highest esteem not only as a captain but because of his general knowledge and excellent judgment in marine matters.

BRITISH SUBMARINE RUN DOWN

Fourteen of Crew Lost and But One Man Aboard the Little Vessel Is Saved.

DOVER, England, Oct. 4.—The British submarine B 2 was run down by the Hamburg-American liner Amerika here today. Fourteen of the crew were drowned. Lieut. R. I. Pulleyne, second in command, was the only man rescued. He was found floating in the sea, too exhausted to say more than: "Submarine is cut in two; I went down a mile." No sign of wreckage was discovered. The accident occurred while six submarines were maneuvering off the coast of Kent.

OLD ARCATA TO BE USED

Historic Coos Bay Vessel Will Again Be Put in Commission.

The little steamer Arcata, which figured conspicuously in the early shipping in Coos county, is again to be brought into use on the coast. Recently Oliver J. Olson of the firm of Olson & Mahoney, purchased the Arcata for $3500. It is to be repaired and put into service in the coast lumber business. She has been laid up at San Francisco for some time past.

UNKNOWN MAN FOUND DEAD

Under a Barn at Riverton--Pto-maine Poisoning Probably the Cause.

COQUILLE, Ore., Oct. 4.—An unknown man was found dead under the barn on the Bert Haddock place near Riverton yesterday afternoon. J. J. Stanley of Coquille, who was deputized by Coroner Wilson, investigated the case. No inquest was held, as a physician examined the body and found no marks of violence and pronounced death due to ptomaine poisoning. A piece of bologna sausage was found near the body and it is thought the man had been eating it. The meat was tainted.

SERVIANS AND TURKS CLASH

Have Battle on Frontier and Thirty Are Killed and Many Wounded.

LONDON, Oct. 4.—Severe fighting between the Turkish and Servian troops is reported to have occurred on the southwestern frontier of Serbia, according to a despatch from Belgrade, reported to a news agency yesterday. The Turks are said to have lost 30 killed and many wounded, while the Servian casualties were given as two killed and 18 wounded.
