WASHINGTON, Oct. 9 .- Former ator Scott said he was at Republi-can headquarters in New York in October, 1904, when the telephone call came "from the White House" for Bliss or Cortelyou. Neither were present. Scott said he talked on the wire "with the voice from the White House," which anxiously inquired "about this trouble about Higgins." Scott said the voice inquired, "can the state committee supply the necessary funds?" Scott said he told of the difficulty of setting campaign money and the voice responded, "I would rather lose the election in the country than be defeated in my own state." "There is no danger of your being defeated," said Scott. He added that the voice from the White House said "Mr. Harriman is coming to see me and I'll see if we cannot arrange to raise funds to help Higgins."
