A HUMILIATING FACT.

THERE has been much discussion among the learned of late regarding the spirit world, the discovery of the eternal secret of things, and the solution of the problem of what it is all about.

But to the average person such conjectures are wide of the real mark, whatever they may be. It is rather a humiliating fact, but the older one grows the more one is likely to feel that somehow back where the south wind whispered softly in the lilacs, and the old swing creaked as your bare feet felt the soft dust beneath it, and your mother smiled down from her sewing on the porch seat, and you dreamed away with your thoughts following the vagabond clouds above the maples, you were nearer the heart of the secret of life and longing than you have ever been since, in spite of your very profound philosophy and your knowledge of the world and your boasted independence of vision.

END OF THE SEASON.

By Walt Mason.

I'm glad the baseball season's ended until next Spring comes down the pike. My bosom will no more be redden by goose egg stories and the like. I'll clean the stove of soot and clinker and keep my mind on what I'm at, and not be guessing what Joe Tinker will do when he comes up to bat. I'll swat my harp to beat Alf Austin, and put up songs till you can't rest, nor waste time wondering whether Boston will knock the Giants gally west. Now I can curry down old Dobbin and fill him with nutritious hay nor care if umpires be a-robbin' the home team in the good old way. I've fooled around for months together, neglecting all my household chores, and all I cared about was whether this team or that had higher scores. I've stood around and talked of pitchers who seem like jugglers on the mound, while plowmen, gardeners and ditchers were doing things that really count. I've talked of catchers and pinch hitters, of sacrifices, slides and bunts, while other thrifty human critters were doing sane and useful stunts. And now disbanded are the forces of baseball, laid aside the bats; and I can now dehorn my horses, and shear my cows and herd my cats.

ANDERSON DEFEATS O'BRIEN.

Bud Anderson won from Danny O'Brien in a 10-round go at Medford the other night, being given the decision by the referee. Both boys fought in Marshfield and in North Bend and are well known to the sports here. Anderson won by in-fighting in the clinches, pursuing his old tactics. Tim Seeley and John Herron are talking of arranging a bout between Anderson and Guy Lee at Coquille in the near future.

ALONG THE WATERFRONT

On the high seas of the world there are 8,500 steamers, aggregating a tonnage of 17,000,000 sailing under the British flag.

A recently invented safe that will float in case of shipwreck is a steel cylinder, divided into two compartments, one air-tight, the other to hold valuables.

The steamers Fifield and Elizabeth both left Bandon yesterday morning. They were delayed several days on account of the storm.

The steamer Hardy sailed Sunday with a cargo of lumber from the Smith mill for San Francisco.

The Anvil, which has been in dry dock at Portland, was to resume the Bandon-Portland run this week.

Walter Elliott has succeed C. H. Dean as chief engineer of the gasoline schooner Patsy, which will probably leave the river today for Tillamook and Nehalem. Captain May, who was the sole survivor from the wreck of the ill-fated gasoline schooner Oshkosh, has accepted the skipper's berth aboard the Mirene, which is to proceed from Portland to Alaska and will make frequent trips during the season.—Oregonian.

AMONG THE SICK.

Tip Cordes, who has been laid up at Mercy hospital as a result of injuries in the explosion recently, has returned home.

MAN DIES IN HOTEL FIRE.

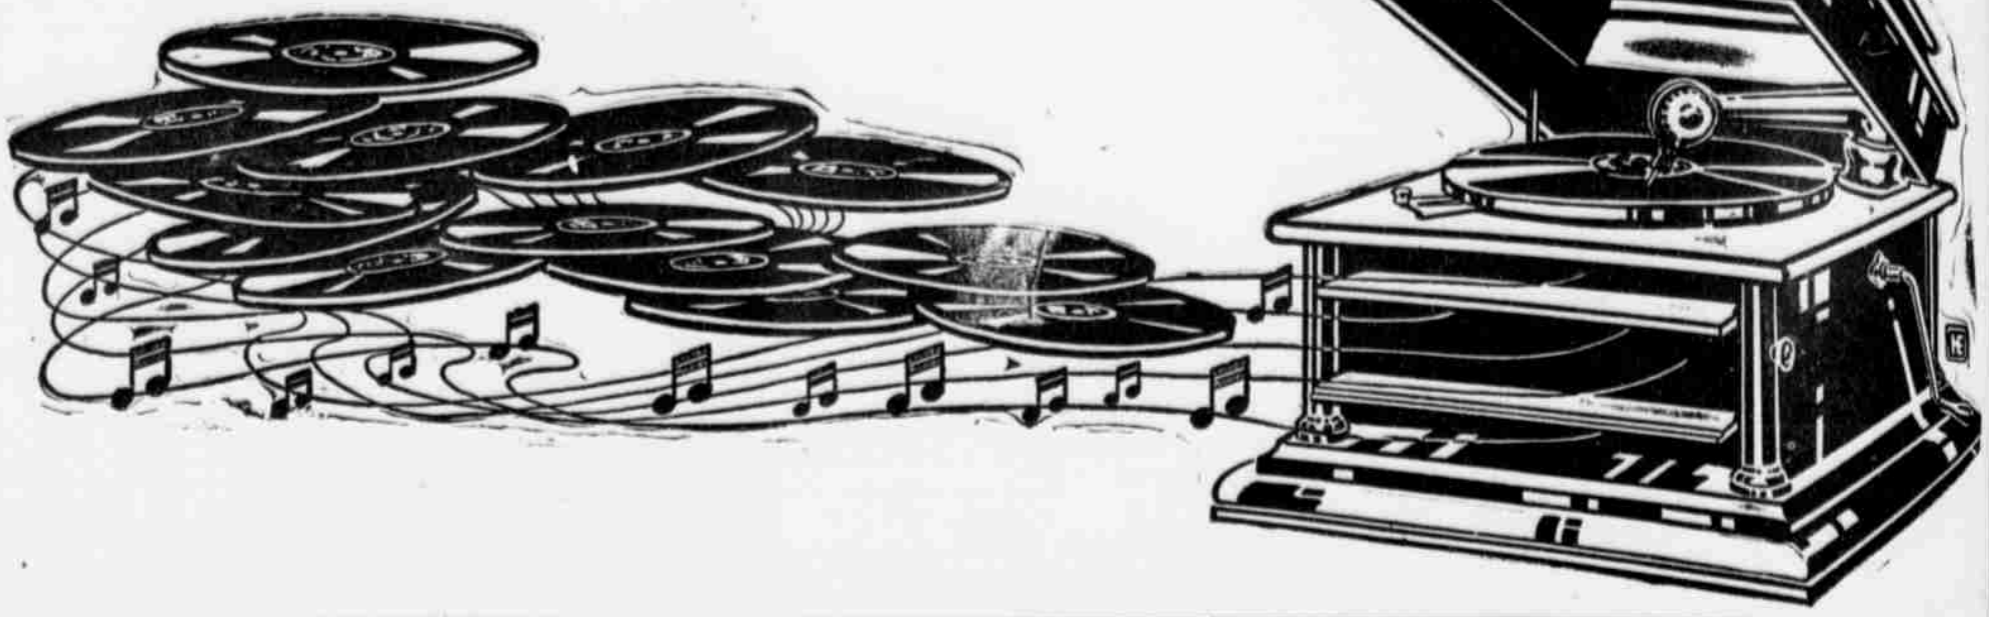

(By Associated Press to The Coos Bay Times.)

CENTRALIA, Wash., October 21.—Fire believed to be incendiary early today wiped out a row of saloons and a hotel and a wholesale liquor house opposite the depot. The body of Geo. Cameron, a logger, was found in the ruins of the Olympia hotel. The loss is estimated at fifty thousand dollars.

WILL MAKE RACE.

(By Associated Press to The Coos Bay Times.)

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 21.—A telegram dated at New York addressed to Fremont Older, managing editor of the Bulletin, reading: "published stories of conversations between Roosevelt and myself and talks of resigning have foundation only in the imaginations of reporters. Statements by Dixon and myself contain all the facts."—Herald Johnson.

Regulated Heat
Makes Perfect Cooking

—The old way of cooking was "by guess and by gosh." Hungry households sometimes were disappointed.

—The new way leaves nothing to chance or accident. Oven temperatures can be absolutely depended upon. Printed instructions make good cooking certain, even for the beginner.

—And in this case the best way also is the easiest way.

—Turning a valve on and off with a single motion of the hand is all the physical labor involved.

—On the modern gas range you can cook delicious meals in half the time and with one-tenth the work that mother used to find necessary.

—We have ranges in different sizes and styles to suit different needs.

—We do the piping—easy terms if you desire.

Why Salves Can't Cure Eczema

Since the old-fashioned theory of curing eczema through the blood has been given up by scientists, many different salves have been tried for skin diseases. But it has been found that these salves only clog the pores and cannot penetrate to the inner skin below the epidermis where the eczema germs are lodged. This—the quality of penetrating—probably explains the tremendous success of the well known liquid eczema remedy, oil of wintergreen, thymol, glycerine, etc., as compounded in D.D.D. Prescription.

But if you come to our store, we are so certain of what D.D.D. will do for you that we offer you a full size bottle on this guarantee:—if you do not find that it takes away the itch AT ONCE, it costs you not a cent.

John Velbert, Foster, Cal., states: "I have suffered many years with kidney and bladder troubles and although I have paid hundreds of dollars to doctors and have taken all kinds of kidney medicines, I could never get any relief until I tried Foley Kidney Pills and they effected a complete cure." I have never been bothered with my old trouble since." For sale by Lockhart-Parsons Drug Co., the Busy Corner.
