TURKS SURRENDER FORT AND 5,000 MEN TO BULGARIANS

SHOULD KNOW FATE TONIGHT

Case of Police Lieutenant Becker in New York Is Closed.

(By Associated Press to The Coos Bay Times.)

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—By tonight Police Lieut. Charles Becker should know his fate. His trial on the charge of murdering Herman Rosenthal having been concluded last night, with the closing address of Assistant District Attorney Moss, there remained this morning only Justice Goff's charge to the jury.

John F. McIntyre, chief counsel of Becker, spent half an hour entering objections to the rulings of the court. In his charge the justice said that if Schepp's testimony was true, there was no reason why the testimony of the three informers should not be believed. The court told the jury it could not return a verdict of manslaughter.

Justice Goff spoke almost in a whisper to the jurors and leaned forward toward the seats near him. "The killing of a human being," he said, "can be considered as murder, manslaughter and excusable homicide. There can be no verdict in this case of excusable homicide and I will not consider that phase."

"Murder in the first degree is done with intent and deliberate design to kill, and in the second degree without premeditation."

"First," said the justice, "in the latter part of June Becker told Webber he wanted Rosenthal killed; secondly, he followed this with instructions to have Rosenthal killed; thirdly, Rose following out those instructions carried out the designs of the defendant. That sums up the state's case. If you find that it has been proven beyond a reasonable doubt, you must return a verdict of murder in the first degree."

"If you find that Becker had time to reconsider his design, but did not reconsider, that shows design on his part."

"It matters not," the justice said, "whether the hand that killed Rosenthal was the hand of Becker or not. If you find that Becker gave instructions to Rose that resulted in Rosenthal's death, then Becker is guilty of murder in the first degree."

"There is no question that Rose, Webber and Vallon were accomplices," Justice Goff continued.

Justice Goff finished his charge to the jury late this afternoon and that body retired to deliberate upon the evidence adduced in the trial. Goff's speech lasted more than three hours.

Justice Goff ruled in substance that the conviction or acquittal of Becker rested almost solely upon the question of whether Sam Schepps was or was not an accomplice. He was in doubt himself on this point, therefore declined to instruct the jury. He ruled that Rose, Webber, and Vallon were accomplices, and that upon their testimony Becker could not be convicted of murder in the first degree, even though the evidence showed he had instigated the murder. Becker sat unmoved while the charge was delivered.
