BORN.

MATSON—To Mr. and Mrs. Albert Matson at their home on North Front street Tuesday, Nov. 5, a son. He is their second child.

Alligator Dies.—One of the baby alligators on exhibition at Lockhart & Parsons died this morning.

Aid Society Meets.—The Ladies' Aid Society of the Swedish Lutheran church will meet tomorrow afternoon at the church hall.

Come to Vote.—A boat load of voters from the South fork of Coos River came down to the polls this morning to the forks of the river to vote.

To Build Addition.—Harry W. Painter will have an addition to his home in West Marshfield built as soon as the weather permits. The work will be done by Wilson and Savage.

Hold Devotional.—During the month of November at 7:30 o'clock on Wednesday and Friday evening of each week there will be devotional services held at St. Monica's church for the repose of souls departed.

Green Coming.—D. C. Green, president of the Chamber of Commerce, will arrive home late today from Portland where he went on matters connected with the Coos Bay harbor survey.

Business Change.—Harrington, Doyle & Co. of North Front street have purchased the Epperson second hand store on Broadway and consolidated it with their front street establishment. This makes a big addition to their stock.

Patents Barber Chair.—"Billy" Smith, who recently received his final papers in a patent for an adjustable seat attached to any barber chair for use of children when having their hair cut, is perfecting plans to put it on the market. "Billy's" friends will hope it may make him a millionaire.

Leave for Medford.—Mrs. E. G. Perham and son, Marshall, leave tomorrow morning for Medford where they will join Mr. Perham who is superintending the construction of some city work at that place. After the work is completed Mr. and Mrs. Perham will go to Portland for a visit before returning home.

Lineman Hurt.—S. W. Wessels, electric foreman of the Oregon Power company, fell off the roof of the black smith shop on Broadway near Central today. He was changing some wires for the pile-driver near The Chandler when the shingles gave away. He fell about fifteen feet striking his head on a wagon tongue, inflicting very painful injuries.

Suit for Timber.—Judge Hall who returned today from Coquille where he held probate court yesterday reports that the Hermann-Bradbury case was over a timber claim near Beaver Hill instead of on Coos River. Hermann brought suit to collect for 30,000,000 feet of timber on a quarter section of land. Bradbury paid for a little less than twelve millions. Bradbury bought the timber on a stumpage basis. John Yoakham and Emmett Pierce were among the Coos county witnesses called. The jury in federal court decided for Bradbury.
