THE RESULT.

AT THIS writing, 2:30 o'clock Wednesday morning, it is evident that Governor Wilson of New Jersey has been elected president of the United States by a landslide. According to the special Associated Press reports to The Times, Roosevelt is second and Taft third. The division in the Republican party and a practically united Democracy easily turned the trick. The bitter clash of personal animosities and ambitions between Roosevelt and Taft proved too great a handicap for Republicans. As my friend, Al Owen, said last night, "Roosevelt did in 30 minutes what the Democrats could not do in thirty years." The Times regrets the defeat of President Taft, but it has no time for vain regrets. Business will continue, crops grow, and the "government at Washington will still live."

The results may not please us but it is all over now. There should be no recriminations. We are all proud we are American citizens and as such will render to our president, Democrat or Republican, that fealty and loyalty which has made the American republic the greatest nation in the world.

NOTES OF ELECTION DAY IN MARSHFIELD

Incidents of Quiet Contest in Which Many Votes Were Polled.

No fights were reported during the day at the polls.

There were two Wilson's to vote for in Coos County—Woodrow for president and Fred for coroner.

One man, an old-time Democrat, while listening to returns in The Times office said: "The Democrats have got there this time. I have waited since the war for this."

Dr. Straw, when he heard over the telephone that Wilson was sure elected, said: "Hip, hip, hurrah!"

Cooston finished counting at 2 a. m. and returned a full report.

One man went to the wrong polling place and had to walk to the other end of the city in the rain.

Libby, Bunker Hill and Emptre reported complete returns during the early part of the night.

Returns from the Coquille valley are of a scattering nature. In the cities the count will not be finished during the night.

Some of the Marshfield judges said they would not finish counting before Thursday on account of the big ballot.

There was not much demonstration on the street, not as much as usual on election nights.

Most voters, when they went to the polls carried a sample ballot which they had previously marked the way they wanted to vote.

HAWLEY WIRES ABOUT SURVEY

Claims That Bourne's Telegram Was Campaign Canard.

W. U. Douglas has raised a question as to the veracity of Senator Bourne's telegram concerning Congressman Hawley having requested that final action by the United States Engineers on the new survey of Coos Bay harbor be deferred. Mr. Douglas yesterday wired Congressman Hawley and the correspondence which follows speaks for itself:

Mr. Douglas wired Mr. Hawley as follows: "Opposition is using a telegram from Bourne stating that the Engineers' office informs him that you have recommended the hearing for Coos Bay survey and improvement be deferred until congress meets. If you desire to refute it answer at once."

Ronald C. Glover, secretary to Congressman Hawley, wired the following answer: "Congressman Hawley both wired and wrote board of Engineers to act at once authorizing survey for repairs and extensions north jetty. Board met today and Hawley hopes favorable action and he called attention to present danger, and necessity for prompt action; he had this survey authorized and is for Coos Bay for all he is worth, as past action proves, during hearing at Washington in December. If only as a last resort, Hawley mailed letter to President Greene before leaving Salem this morning."

Used in Campaign.

Mr. Douglas was particularly wroth because some used the telegram to the Chamber of Commerce for campaign purposes against Hawley.

DOG "SHEP" HELPS TO MAKE AN ARREST

Holds Man Who Assaults T. Larkin With Bottle on Street.

Night Policeman William Shoup's dog "Shep" helped him make an arrest last night. Tom Larkin was assaulted by some man, said to be a member of the I. W. W., and whose name has not been learned. Larkin passed the man when the latter made some insulting remark to him. Larkin hit the other man and the latter struck Larkin with a bottle, cutting the side of his head. Then he started to run, but met Shoupe, who grappled him. The man jerked away but the policeman's dog caught him by the foot and he was held and taken to police headquarters and locked up.

ELECTION NIGHT.

I'm tired, yes, tired of Teddie, And Woodie, and Billie, too— I'm weary of all the chatter About what they will do.

I'm tired of reading letters, From Bourne, and Selling, and Lane, I'm weary of lolly-gagging, In fact, it gives me pain.

I'm tired of all the stories, The papers have brought to me,— I'm weary of all these burdens, Yes, weary as can be.

I'm tired of aching fingers, That come from the clasp of hands,— I'm weary of all the speeches, And noise of brassy bands.

I'm tired of hearing the neighbors, Go quarreling along the street,— I'm weary of watching others, Who mix with hands and feet.

I'm tired of Bull Moose bellow, And all the Elephant song,— I'm weary of braying Donkey, And what these bring along.

I'm tired of mammoth ballots, Like blankets, we have to vote,— I'm weary of all the nonsense, The Fels Fund keeps afloat.

I'm tired, and glad it's over, As the curfew rings tonight,— I'm weary, and so it's passing, I welcome with delight.

I'll lay me down in slumber, And rest while the candidates Are pacing the floor, and watching, Their names go off the slates.

HAWLEY ERROR DELAYS SURVEY

D. C. Greene Says Mistake Prevented Immediate Action on Harbor Survey.

D. C. Greene, president of the Marshfield Chamber of Commerce, returned last evening from Portland, where he has been for the past two weeks endeavoring to secure favorable action by the United States engineering department on the new survey of the Coos Bay Harbor and also on an appropriation for the jetty. He says that he and L. J. Simpson had matters pretty well lined up for the ordering of the new survey of Coos Bay harbor, preliminary to getting an additional appropriation for bar and harbor work, when Congressman Hawley's error "cropped out" and spoiled their plans to get immediate action. However, he is hopeful of favorable developments at Washington as soon as Congress meets.

The situation now stands as was announced in Senator Bourne's telegram to the Marshfield Chamber of Commerce, which was printed in Monday's Times. Mr. Hawley's request for a delay in the final action by the government engineers was made about two weeks ago and copies of his messages to them were given out here. However, Mr. Greene wrote him that the delay should only apply to the application of an appropriation and that Coos Bay wanted immediate action on the new harbor survey. He supposed that Mr. Hawley would immediately get in touch with the engineers and rectify this, but evidently he did not.

Mr. Greene tried to see Mr. Hawley at Salem but was unable to do so.

Messrs. Greene and Simpson had a long conference with Senator Bourne at the Arlington club in Portland. Senator Bourne at first took the stand that nothing could be done to change the Coos Bay project, that the bar dredge first must be tried out. However, he was anxious for information on the situation here. Messrs. Greene and Simpson pointed out to him that it would be necessary to at least restore the jetty even if the bar dredge proved an unqualified success. The pointed out the menace of the hidden rocks in the sunken jetty and gave other reasons for rebuilding the jetty to its old condition even though the bar dredge's possible success eliminated the necessity for extending it.

Senator Bourne was soon convinced of the necessity of this and finally told them that he would start right in and see that favorable action was secured. The new survey was the first step in this and Senator Bourne immediately wired the engineers and other influential officials at Washington and was apparently getting matters lined up nicely for immediate action on the survey when it was discovered that the matter had been deferred in compliance with Congressman Hawley's request and could not be taken up now.

Mr. Greene feels that Mr. Hawley in asking the delay thought he was asking for the best, not fully understanding the situation when he made it. However, he feels that Mr. Hawley should have rectified it when he informed him of the situation.

Mr. and Mrs. Greene came in via Gardiner and had an awful trip, both being tired out when they reached here last evening.

A NATION'S PERIL IN TWO REELS

ORPHEUM, "HOUSE OF THE PROTOPLAY," SECURES STARTLING PICTURE.

Tomorrow (Wednesday) the Orpheum Theater, of this city, will show a two-reel picture entitled "A Nation's Peril."

The picture service at this house, "where motion pictures look better," has been gradually improved and a Nation's Peril has finally been secured after many week's of waiting. This picture is twice as long as the usual production and tells a story of diplomatic service and the career of a woman spy who, acting on impulse, presses a button, which exposes a series of submarine mines, and sinks a vessel bearing foreign envoys to whom she had delivered information concerning various fortress and complicated mechanisms connected with the protected harbor. An Edison comedy-drama, "Grouch", is also on the big bill for this night, Wednesday. The performances will start early and the admission price remains unchanged, as usual.

The G.E. Flatiron then heats itself in about three minutes and will stay hot without further attention.

Saves time, steps and fuel

If the washing and ironing are sent out, the G.E. Electric Iron will still be found a marvelously convenient utensil to have in the house. There are many little things women like to iron themselves, and many times it becomes necessary to wash and iron a few handkerchiefs, etc., before the "wash" comes home. When occasions like these arise, and there is a G.E. Iron handy, it is the work of but a moment to attach the cord to a lamp socket—and the iron is ready. Get one today.
