

IN SOCIETY

PERSONAL notices of visitors in the city, or of Coos Bay people who visit in other cities, together with notices of social affairs, are gladly received in the social department. Telephone 133. Notices of club meetings will be published and secretaries are kindly requested to furnish same.

WOMAN.

She may not do the things that man
May do and still enjoy esteem;
But for her sake we proudly plan,
For her we dream the golden dream.

We draw a circle 'round her where
By virtue beautiful, she stands,
And if she steps across we tear
Her mantle with impatient hands.

To her we confidently turn
For courage in our sore distress;
From her and for her sake we learn
The saving grace of gentleness.

To her we yield the splendid right
Of freedom from the warrior's care;
She fills the present with delight
And sweetly makes the future fair.

We make the ground on which she stands
A glorified and sacred place;
We press our lips upon her hands
And are enraptured by her grace.

We raise her to sublimity,
And then with all our arts we strive
To tempt her to descend, to be
The most abhorrent thing alive.

IT IS strange how many single people wish they were married, and how many who are married, but not happily mated, are continually humming that old refrain:

"When I was single my pockets would jingle,
I wish to the Lord we were court-ing again."

Unfortunate is the man who admits this change of sentiment to the spouse whom he has taken for better or for worse, says Laura Jean Libbey. She will be sure to have spirit enough to retaliate that she made the mistake of her life in accepting him. She could have married handsomer, richer men; men who would have put a check at her plate for a new bonnet, instead of a man who would answer when told that she needed millinery: "It was only last year that I gave you $5 for a new bonnet."

A man doesn't spend near so much for his headgear. His mother wore the same bonnet for a decade, he adds. His sister pinched and twisted her hats around, steamed up the ribbons, thinking they looked as good as new. As for gowns, the dressmakers never got rich at her expense. "She is single yet," said his wife, meaningly. "That horrid old bonnet made her look a fright. She could never appear anywhere. She never had a gown fit to wear. She has confided to me many a time that these are the reasons that she is put on the matrimonial shelf. When I was single," she goes on, wiping a tear from her eye, "I was firm in the belief that all men idolized their wives too much to find fault with them; that there was just one pocketbook between them, and that the wife's hand held it; that a husband was pleased to see his wife dressed as well as her neighbor, if not a little more tastily; that he would bite his tongue off rather than to utter a word that would hurt her feelings or bring a sob to her lips. "When I was single," she continues, with a quiver in her voice, "I believed that a husband came home regularly to his meals, and, O, foolish belief, that he delighted to devote his evenings to his wife; that he never went out to the club nor used the telephone as a ruse, saying as he started for his hat: 'Some man wants to see me at once on a business matter.' I believed that children drew husband and wife closer together, never imagining that a man would grow over the expenses of housekeeping. I suppose that a husband would never cease courting his wife."

"By all this I glean that you have come to the conclusion that marriage is a failure," he suggests, bitterly. "N-no-o," she responds, laughing through her tears, as she throws her arms about his neck, "the single woman has her hopes,

On Wednesday, November 27, Mrs. W. S. Chandler will entertain the club at the home of Mrs. Will Chandler in the P. A. Sandberg residence, which they are occupying during the latter's absence.

JOLLY DOZEN.

The Jolly Dozen club of Bunker Hill met with Mrs. A. Snow last Wednesday afternoon. Reading formed the main diversion of the afternoon, Mrs. L. W. Langdon giving a very interesting article on linen.

The hostess served dainty refreshments to the following guests: Mrs. O'Connell, Miss Gordier, Mrs. Brockmiller, Mrs. L. W. Langdon, Mrs. Bush, Mrs. Rourke, Mrs. Olson, Mrs. Stanley and Mrs. Squire.

The club will meet with Mrs. Brockmiller on Wednesday, Nov. 27.

A. N. W. Club.

The A. N. W. Club was pleasantly entertained by Mrs. Mary McKnight last Thursday afternoon. The receiving rooms of the Mrs. Hazard home were prettily arranged with dainty bouquets of chrysanthemums.

During the business session the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, Mrs. G. A. Bennett; vice president, Mrs. E. Mingus; treasurer, Mrs. Olivia Edman; secretary, Mrs. Charles Stauff; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Hazard.

During the afternoon vocal solos were very sweetly rendered by Mrs. E. Mingus and Mrs. C. F. McKnight and were highly appreciated by the club guests and members. The hostess served a dainty luncheon.

The guests present were: Mrs. Ora McCarty, Mrs. A. J. Savage, Mrs. Mary Browning, Mrs. A. R. Tenbrook, Miss Maud Noble and Miss Cleve of Portland.

The members present were: Mrs. F. E. Allen, Mrs. G. A. Bennett, Mrs. Olivia Edman, Mrs. E. G. Flanagan, Mrs. F. M. Friedberg, Mrs. J. T. Hall, Mrs. Fannie Hazard, Mrs. S. Lando, Mrs. M. C. Maloney, Mrs. E. Mingus, Mrs. Geo. Murch, Mrs. W. P. Murphy, Mrs. C. F. McKnight, Mrs. L. M. Noble, Mrs. Charles Stauff and Mrs. Mary McKnight.

Mrs. C. F. McKnight will be hostess at the next meeting, Thursday, November 21.

SEWING PARTY.

Mrs. F. K. Gettins was hostess last Wednesday afternoon to a number of friends at an informal sewing party.

After a pleasant afternoon sewing and in social chat, Mrs. Gettins served refreshments to the following guests: Mrs. R. W. Morrow, Mrs. Vaughan, Mrs. Scott, Mrs. H. Quist, Mrs. Fred Powers, Mrs. W. A. Reid, Mrs. F. E. Cohan, and Mrs. F. E. Hagne.

LADIES' GUILD.

The members of the Ladies' Guild of the Episcopal church enjoyed a very pleasant afternoon with Mrs. F. A. Sacchi last Tuesday. Refreshments were served. Among those present were: Mrs. Panny Hazard, Mrs. Lyman

OVER GARMENTS AT UNDER PRICES

The keynote of a woman's costume is her outer garment. Those you meet judge you first by what you wear. Can you afford then not to be very careful in choosing your over-garments? Do you not wish to know that they are absolutely correct in shade and proper in cut and finish?

The business policy of this establishment is to do a large volume of business at a small profit, rather than a small volume at a large profit. This is why we are now selling "over-garments at under-prices." We bought a large quantity. We got a low price; we give a low price. Our qualities are always the best.

Our Semi-Annual Clean-up Sale of over garments continues to be the attraction for wise shoppers.

Many have taken advantage of the reductions, but many good styles are left for your choosing—Suits, Coats, Serge and Silk Dresses, Rain Coats and Slip-ons are all reduced in price.

A nice saving for those who take advantage of our offerings with the season before you for wearing them.
