COOS BAYITES IN CALIFORNIA

Breezy Letter From Berkeley Tells of Former Coos Bay People.

(Special to The Times) BERKELEY, Calif., Dec. 2.—An unusually large number of Coos Bay young people are attending schools and colleges around San Francisco Bay this year, probably more than at any time before.

Miss Nellie Kerrigan from Coquille is a senior in the College of Natural Sciences, of the University, and is specializing in Education.

Miss Sigma Holm, another well-known Marshfield student, is also working toward a degree of B. S., and is a junior in the university.

Then Marion Reynolds of North Bend has after an absence from the university of two years, resumed his sophomore work in the College of Social Science, majoring in English and Economics and working toward a degree in Letters after which he intends to study Jurisprudence in the east.

Roger Goss, a very popular student of the Marshfield High School and who just returned from a study in the east last spring, as a freshman in the College of Social Science, working for the degree of Bachelor of Laws after receiving which he will take up regular work in the Department of Jurisprudence.

Miss Nora Tower, who is staying at College Hall, with Miss Preuss, is also studying in the College of Social Sciences, and is among the most popular and well-known freshmen women of the university.

Miss May Preuss, who is of last spring's graduating class from the Marshfield High school, and who was always a favorite with her fellow students on account of her sunny nature and popular personality, is meeting with equal success in California's university.

Miss Faith Hunt, a fourth freshman, registering from North Bend in the College of Social Science is establishing a very high record for scholarship.

Owen Knowlton of Coquille is studying pharmacy in the San Francisco branches of the State university, and will complete his work in three years.

It is perhaps, worthy to note that the individual records of scholarship among all the students from Coos county high schools is well above the average of the university and in several cases is exceptional. This fact speaks unusually well of the home high schools in view of the fact that scholarship in general is high in the University of California.

FIRST APPEAL BY MARSHFIELD

City Attorney Goss' Complaint Against Coos Bay Water Co. Filed at Salem.

(Special to The Times) SALEM, Ore., Dec. 3.—Alloging the water supply of the Coos Bay Water Company is inadequate and that the water furnished is unfit for human consumption, the city of Marshfield yesterday filed a complaint against the company with the Railroad Commission.

Fred McCormac, who spent two years in the Marshfield High and completed a year in the Oregon Agricultural college, where he had the unusual distinction of being selected as the most efficient cadet for 1912 at the O. A. C. Military cadet service, is now registered as an upper senior in the Berkeley High school and will in January enter the U. C. in the College of Commerce.

Dr. J. T. McCormac, his father, has purchased a beautiful home out in Northbrae, the restricted residence district in Berkeley, which gives the best view of San Francisco Bay and the Golden Gate to be had.

Among the students at the Head-Dixon Business college one is surprised to see many students from home. Edith Thomas, Hilda Linstrom, and even H. E. Carmichael, who formerly taught school in North Bend and who coached the first football team there in 1908, Carmichael after spending a year at the University of Oregon, went to the Philippines in the government service, and spent three years in the islands as assistant school supervisor.

Both Charlie Merchant and Chas. Harlocker, the latter from Coquille, are Coos county men, now employed in San Francisco.

On a week-end visit at Stanford the other day, Marion Reynolds relates that he saw Ernest Vigars, formerly of North Bend, now registered in the College of Civil Engineering in Stanford.

Miss Edith Thomas of North Bend, who went down to attend the Head-Dixon Business College in Oakland, was taken very suddenly ill with appendicitis and complications and had to be removed to the Fabiola hospital in Berkeley.
